EVOLUTIONISTS WIN FIGHT

Fundamentalists Defeated in Contest in California.

San Francisco. — Fundamentalists and evolutionists clashed here over the question of teaching evolution in the public schools of California, and the evolutionists won.

Of the three books on biology which opponents of the evolutionary theory sought to have excluded from the public schools of this state and around which the battle centered, two were found acceptable by the state board of education and action on the third was deferred temporarily. Indications were that the third text book "Biology and Human Welfare," by Peabody and Hunt, also would be passed upon favorably. The other two books accepted, about which there was a dispute, were "Guenberg's Biology and Human Life," and "Atwood's Problems, Projects and Experiments in Biology."

Take Your Time About Deciding on This Investment

The only kind of shareholders desired by Mountain States Power company are those who expect to keep their money invested in the company and to share in the dividends regularly paid year after year.

There are circumstances, of course, which may require any shareholder to dispose of his holdings, in which case he finds a ready market for the sale of his securities. But the great majority of the company's shareholders are permanent.

As the company's business grows it must make additions and extensions to render service. This means that new capital is required practically all the time. This demand provides an investment opportunity that will be kept open to customers by encouraging small investments rather than large ones.

The company's policy is to have many shareholders and to give customers the opportunity of participating in the wages earned on the invested capital.

The company seeks your practical friendly interest primarily. The investment of your money brings you and the company together as partners. Naturally partners should make up their own minds and be fully satisfied of the wisdom of what they are doing.

FEEDING BABY DURING SUMMER

Milk is recognized as the ideal food for young children. It should be carefully guarded during the warm summer months, to insure its freedom from germs or bacteria that might cause harm to the child. Because of its nature, it is, under certain conditions, a breeding and propagating ground for germ life and may soon become unfit for use unless it is handled with the utmost care and vigilance. Perhaps the ideal way to obviate this risk is through the use of evaporated milk. This milk is only pure milk with sixty per cent of the water removed from it and is absolutely sterile. It is of double richness but may be modified by the addition of water, which will return it to its original volume with a greatly enhanced food value.

Evaporated milk is sterilized and has a high nutritive content. This causes it to be a very excellent food for the young child and the infant. In fact, many of the leading pediatricians of the country advocate its use after the child is deprived of its mother's milk. A formula, evolved by these pediatricians, through experimentation, is as follows:

- From Sixth Week to Third Month. Milk, evaporated 8 ounces Lime water 3 ounces Milk sugar 2 ounces Billed water 25 ounces Seven feedings in twenty-four hours: 4 to 5 ounces at three-hour intervals during the day and four-hour intervals at night. From Third Month to Fifth Month. Milk, evaporated 7 1/2 ounces Lime water 3 ounces Milk sugar 2 1/2 ounces Billed water 25 ounces Six feedings in twenty-four hours: 5 to 6 ounces at three-hour intervals during the day and a feeding at 10 p. m. From Fifth to Seventh Month. Milk, evaporated 10 ounces Lime water 3 ounces Milk sugar 2 ounces Billed water 25 ounces Five feedings in twenty-four hours: 6 to 7 ounces at four-hour intervals during the day and a feeding at 10 p. m. From Seventh to Ninth Month. Milk, evaporated 11 ounces Lime water 3 ounces Milk sugar 2 ounces Billed water 25 ounces Four feedings in twenty-four hours: 7 to 8 ounces at four-hour intervals during the day. Last feeding at ten at night. From Ninth to Twelfth Month. Milk, evaporated 12 ounces Lime water 3 ounces Milk sugar 2 ounces Billed water 25 ounces Four feedings in twenty-four hours: 8 to 9 ounces at four-hour intervals during day. Last feeding at ten at night. The same quantity of pure fresh milk may advantageously be substituted for evaporated milk and water. Once opened, sterilized evaporated milk and fresh cooled milk from the cow are equally liable to infection and deterioration.
