

Halsey Happenings

Nights longer than days.
The Church of Christ is being repapered.
J. E. Southworth went to Portland yesterday.
Nineteen communities have exhibits at the county fair.
Worth and John Bass were home from Newport over the week end.
Wayne Robertson and Wil Corcoran will attend O. A. C. this winter.
Anna Heinrich came from Corvallis Thursday and visited Miss Straley.
Mrs. Leonore Stevenson is being treated for ulceration of the stomach.
J. W. Drinkard and wife had Mrs. Ida Smith of Portland for a week end guest.
Mrs. M. V. Koontz is home from her stay in a Corvallis hospital, much improved in health.
Mrs. Arch Handly left for her home in Portland Friday after visiting her sister, Mrs. P. H. Freerksen, and her niece, Mrs. Frank Workinger, for a week.
Young James Rector, before going to Newport, was dickering on an exchange of his motorcycle for a Ford car. He is home from Newport now and is driving the Ford.
Mrs. George Maxwell died this morning at 4:30, aged 56. Funeral at the Methodist church Friday at 2 o'clock. Burial at Pine Grove. Mrs. Maxwell requested that the casket be not opened at the church. Friends can view the remains at her late home tomorrow. Deceased suffered an apoplectic stroke some month or two ago and never recovered.
Friday night Hill & Co.'s store was burglarized again. Breaking in on the I street side, the thieves took watches, guns and pocket knives valued at about $100. In the previous robbery a car with peculiar tires was tracked from a burglary scene north of here to Hill's and southward to the Harrisburg ferry, where the trail was lost. This time there is no clew.
Mrs. Rebecca C. Miller died at her home in Halsey Friday evening, after a long illness, aged 64. Undertaker Delbert Starr and wife of Brownsville had charge of the funeral, which was at the M. E. church Sunday at 2, with Dr. Lee of Albany officiating. Interment in Alford cemetery. Deceased leaves a husband, J. W. Miller, a son, Ralph Miller of Halsey, and a daughter, Mrs. Harold Stevenson of Brownsville.
J. H. Henry, foreman for the Mountain States Power company, has, with his family, moved into H. W. Chance's house, north of the telephone office, to reside while the crew works here. He arrived Saturday from Oklahoma in response to a call from the company and went to work at once. Liston Darby is with the Henrys on the house and on the job, but he and Mrs. Darby expect soon to move into Mrs. Esther Rike's house, formerly W. A. Allen's, across Second street.

The 50th Year Opens September 24, 1925

Mrs. Francis E. Gray, now of Salem, was here over Sunday night.
The Albany powdered milk factory is to be at the west end of First street.
Fifty-two pupils are enrolled in the high school and ten more than that in the grades.
Curtis Veatch had his brother John, from Cottage Grove, for a guest Sunday night.
Summer ended and school began Monday. A lovely day, like many others we are having.
Mrs. M. M. Ward and Mrs. Albert Miller, her daughter, were in Albany last week Tuesday.
The "equinoctial storm" myth is not strengthened by this glorious weather. Even with the Lion county fair in full swing no storm materialized.
Among Halsey people at the Oddfellows' convention in Portland were G. W. Laubner and A. E. Whitbeck and their wives, Mrs. W. H. McMahan, J. W. Bressler, W. P. Wahl, G. W. Hoffman, P. J. Forester, Mrs. B. M. Bond and Mrs. J. S. McMahan.
Yesterday Ed Russ brought to the Enterprise a box of red raspberries as sweet and delicious as any that ever ripened in a July sun. Also a sheaf of Cuthbert branches with ripe and unripe berries and blossoms, indicating that he will have a supply as long as the weather continues favorable.
For one day, Oct. 2, the Southern Pacific company will sell round trip tickets, Halsey to Salem and return, for $1.61, being the one fare. This ticket will be good on Oct. 2 only. First train goes at 3:20 a. m. Last train gets back about midnight. And there are other trains between.

RAILWAY VALUATION RAISED

Washington Boosts the Figures of ex-Supervisor $12,493,003.
Olympia, Wash.—Valuations of the six largest steam railroads operating in the state of Washington are placed at $333,321,871 in a statement issued by the state board of equalization. The valuations are $12,493,003 greater than those fixed by J. M. Thatcher, ex-supervisor of taxation, before he left office last spring and $2,016,387 greater than the valuations of 1924, comparative statements show.
As was the case last year there will be no levy of the general fund and the levy for state purposes will be 10.299 mills, a decrease of 1.450 mills over 1924, the statement reveals.
The assessed valuation of personal property in Washington for 1925—representing 60 per cent of the actual valuation—as equalized by the various county boards of equalization, is shown as $230,971,930 in an abstract prepared by the state tax commission. The valuation represents an increase of $2,575,567 over 1924.
A comparatively small number of state legislators sitting continuously or for as long as the state's business required, would be able to give to the complex questions coming before them the study and deliberation they require. There would be no last-week jam. The governor would have to give good reasons for over-riding the action of such a body. The number of new laws would decrease and their quality would improve. — Sunset.

ed by the department of agriculture as much below that of last year on September 1.
The lower condition this year was attributed to rust and drought. The durum variety of wheat, however, was found to have been affected less than others because of its resistance to rust and drought.
The condition of durum wheat in the four states combined September 1 was placed at 84 per cent of normal compared with 94 per cent last year, while all spring wheat in that section, including durum, was given a condition of 72 per cent compared with 90 per cent last year. Spring bread wheats in those states were 68 per cent of normal compared with 88 last year.
The condition of all spring wheat, including durum, throughout the United States was placed at 75 per cent of normal September 1, compared with 82 per cent last year, with spring bread wheats about 73 per cent compared with 97 per cent last year.

CHANGE IN POLICY URGED

Shutting Off The Settlers' Water Rouses Much Opposition.
Washington, D. C.—Necessity for a change of the interior department's reclamation policies was urged upon President Coolidge by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho.
Sharp protest against the present policy, and particularly against the shutting off of water in the federal irrigation districts because of failure of settlers to meet deferred payments to the government, has been voiced by senators and representatives from several of the western states.
Members of congress, both republican and democrats, returned from the west, assert that great dissatisfaction has been aroused in their states because of the course pursued by the interior department and there have been reports that this feeling has grown so strong that the president probably would be asked to remove Mr. Work.
Thus far, however, the White House has received no protests in that form.

The Oregon Pure-bred Livestock association will hold its annual meeting on the state fair grounds at Salem, September 30.
Oregon's hop crop for the year 1925 probably will exceed 80,000 bales, or 10,000 above last year, according to figures compiled. The prevailing price for hops is 25 cents per pound, but in some instances the growers have received as much as 27 cents for their product.

Pools on fresh cherries, raspberries and strawberries have just been closed by the Eugene Fruit Growers' association, according to announcement at the office of the association, and exceptionally good prices are reported to have been received for these products.
The Dalles cannery of the Libby, McNeil & Libby company is now sending out 10,000 cases of fruit weekly, with the expectation that this total will be increased to 15,000 or 25,000 cases in the near future. The cannery is employing 240 women and 150 men, with a payroll of $10,000 weekly.

Following up a precedent the cooperative set last December, when it sold a 300,000 box block of export apples, the Hood River Apple Growers' association has sold a large proportion of this season's tonnage. The fruit will go largely to export.
Recent announcement by the state market agent that the potato grading law is to be rigidly enforced has brought a deluge of requests for copies of the law, grades, rules and regulations. The law provides that before any person shall offer potatoes for sale they shall be graded and the grade and grower's address be stenciled on the sack. Any person selling potatoes without these requirements, in lots of more than 50 pounds, is liable to arrest and prosecution, and the last legislature provided severe penalties for violation.
