New York.—After a final appeal to "the heart of America," Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance and members of the French debt commission sailed back home on the liner France.

"Grievously disappointed" over failure to effect a settlement of France's $4,200,000,000 debt, M. Caillaux said his country would do everything within the limits of her strength to pay the debt. He said he might return to Washington in six months to resume negotiations.

He was uncertain whether the French parliament would accept the five year temporary agreement with payments of $40,000,000 a year proposed by the American commissioners. He had power to sign a complete funding agreement, he said.

The disappointment expressed by M. Caillaux was manifest in Washington and Paris, the stock exchange and the bourse, where the franc and French bonds slumped. President Coolidge, though he earnestly desired a final settlement, believes that the American commissioners made every possible concession. Bankers are in a quandary. They said large volume of French loans might be held up indefinitely and are anxiously awaiting for Secretary Kellogg to clear up the government's attitude toward new French loans. Prior to the conference France had been expected to ask for a $100,000,000 loan this winter.

Mitchell will not be allowed to attend the American Legion convention at Omaha or the international air races at New York in the next two weeks. It was said at the war department.
