Mr. Shutt, the new owner, sends the Harrisburg Bulletin in a garb that indicates that he does not propose, in newspaper parlance, to issue "a nonpartisan paper in a long primer town," which, being interpreted, means he will not ruin elderly readers' eyes by using too small type.

The Potter Sewing Circle met with Mrs. O. J. Albertson last Wednesday afternoon, with nine members and three visitors present. The visitors were Mesdames True, Guy Layton and Robert Ramsay. The afternoon was spent in tying a comfort for the hostess and in social conversation. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Ramsay and Vida Albertson.

W. M. Burbank has completed the wrecking of the old Henry barn and sold the lumber. That portion of the site west of his new garage building will become a garden and the prospect is that there will not be a more fertile patch of ground in Halsey, which is saying a good deal in a few words. There is now a roof over the gasoline pump and adjoining sidewalk.

P. J. Forster received a cow by parcel post the other day, sent by his daughter, Mrs. Preston Newton. The body, head and neck of the animal are well formed and she appears like a happy and contented bovine lying down to chew her cud. It was formed in a hill of potatoes, and by the addition of a pair of horns and a tail has been given a very realistic appearance.

Mesdames Guy Layton and O. J. Albertson were hostesses at a surprise party given at the Layton home on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramsay, the occasion being Mrs. Ramsay's birthday. The party was planned to be at the Albertson home, but Mr. Ramsay and wife went to Layton's to spend the evening, so when the crowd gathered at Albertson's and the birds had flown they followed. Those present were W. A. Muller, Mr. McCord, J. N. Elliott, A. F. Albertson, Guy Layton, O. J.
