Halsey Happenings

W. M. Burbank was in Salem last week.

Harry Mason and Steve and Ted Smith drove to Eugene Christmas.

Misses Pearl Pehrsson and Anna Heinrich are guests of Mearle Straley.

Ted Smith is home from Ryderwood, Wash., to spend the holidays with his folks.

W. L. Wells and son Lawrence celebrated Christmas by having severe cases of grip.

Anna Heinrich of Corvallis is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heinrich and family.

Pearl Pehrsson of Moro is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Pehrsson, and family.

A coyote hunt was staged at Twin Buttes Saturday. A pack of hounds were secured for the hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bressler and daughter Agnes took their Christmas dinner with Harry Bressler and wife.

A group of young people gathered at the home of Mearle Straley Tuesday evening for a social time.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor of Portland spent Christmas with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Standish.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hillegas of Boise, Ida., old friends of the Veatch family, visited them from Tuesday to Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Foote were afternoon guests at the Foote home in Halsey Sunday. They drove up from Cresswell in a new Ford coupe.

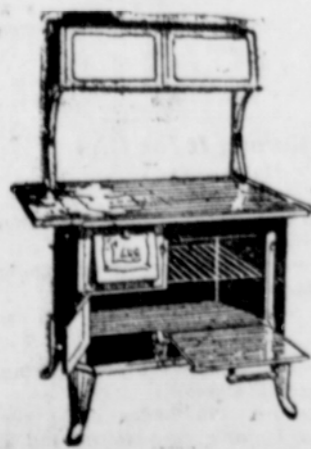

Mr. and Mrs. George Starr and daughter Louise drove to Newport to spend Christmas with Mrs. Fanny Starr, who is spending the winter there.

Mrs. Eliza Brandon and Misses Beulah Miller and Ruby Schroll enjoyed a fine turkey dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Miller Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Groth of Independence called on their aunt, Mrs. W. M. Burbank, last Sunday. Mr. Groth has the Willard battery station at Independence.

a back number in farm progress.

Bill Kirk was home Christmas day.

Mrs. Frank Gansle and Leila were in Oregon City Monday.

Floyd Shisler and wife of Harrisburg were in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. English were here from Myrtle Creek Sunday.

T. J. Skirvin and wife spent Christmas with T. J.'s brother at Silverton.

The Mitzner family enjoyed Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gourley.

Mrs. Irma Shotwell is spending vacation days at the home of her parents in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Cross spent Christmas with Mrs. Cross' parents at Hillsboro.

Ellen Vannice took in the program at Harrisburg Christmas eve at the M. E. church.

Misses Grace, Nora and Pearl Pehrsson spent the holidays with their parents at Pine Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Foote and Walter and Mr. and Mrs. David Foote spent Sunday at Ruby Schroll's.

David Partch and wife of Eugene were among those at C. P. Stafford's Saturday, Mrs. Stafford's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Newton came up from Portland to spend Christmas with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Forster.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Miller sent a fine turkey of their own raising to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Brandon in Washington as a Christmas gift.

Mrs. Earl Patton and son Clifford, from Seattle, were home at T. P. Patton's Christmas. So were O. B. Stalnaker and wife from Corvallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gormley and children of Springfield were entertained at E. E. Gormley's Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Henderson of South Bend, Wash., visited Mrs. Henderson's uncle, C. P. Stafford, and family, over the week end.

Kenneth VanNise and sisters, Ellen, Roberta and Edna drove to Dufur Monday for a visit of several days with their brother, William VanNise, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker and children and Mrs. Nora Coleman and Ernestine enjoyed the hospitality of the A. W. and David Foote families Thursday.

Talk about a "white Christmas!" What is there in it to compare with the green Christmas we have just enjoyed, with stock fat in the pastures, birds in the bushes and the thermometer about 60?

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Chance were over from Corvallis and ate Christmas dinner with L. V. Chance and wife and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Chance at the Chance home in town.

R. A. Templeton and family of Oakridge were guests at J. P. Templeton's Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Marks visited Roland and other relatives at Portland from Christmas to Sunday.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hayes died Thursday, aged 2 months and seven days. Rev. Robert Parker conducted services at the house and burial was at Pine Grove Friday, in charge of Wright & Co., the funeral directors.

Man in America Long Before Adam

He Left Records in Ohio Over Eight Thousand Years Ago

Though it is claimed that man has been on earth 500,000 years, half his knowledge and control of nature has come within the last hundred years. — Dearborn Independent.

Bishop Usher gave to us A system of chronology. Delivers make of it a mess, With never an apology.

They used to ask: "How old is Ann?" Now they inquire: "How old is man?"

In Egypt they disturb Tut's bones, In Mesopotamia read from stones The lines engraved by ancient scribes

To tell the story of the tribes. In Toltec lands, in Yucatan, They dig to learn "How old is man?"

'Twas long before old Adam's day, These scientific probes say, That humans lived and loved and died

In this "new world" where we reside, Built homes or offered sacrifice In temples carved with quaint device

And speculated on the plan Of nature and "How old is man?" In Mexico, it now appears, Man lived for seven thousand years.

At San Diego ancient bones Are found embedded in the stones, And in Ohio, if you please, Are signs that antedate all these. Eight thousand years ago a clan Inquired, as now, "How old is man?"

Two thousand years, or so, they lived, Before the time of Adam. They left for us no census lists, But numbers, sure they had 'em.

They thought themselves quite civilized And dressed in woven clothing. They would have deemed sewed fig leaves crude And looked on them with loathing.

When Adam came he found no sign That these old men's successors Were living here beyond the sea, America's possessors.

Old Adam had no telegraph. He could not call those races Over the phone and ask the news From antipodean places

He could not tell them of the fruit That he found so delicious. He could not warn them that their lives Were absolutely vicious.

No missionaries could he send To make the natives better. There was no mail nor any way To reach them with a letter.

The Chinese came and lived a while Along the blue Pacific. The Norsemen landed in the east 'Gainst odds that were terrific.

All these are gone, and now we find Tools, jewels, glyphs and rigging Where they have lain 8000 years Awaiting modern digging.

(Portland Oregonian)

Scientists have been able to trace the race in America at least as far back, in point of time, as they have done in Mesopotamia and the valley of the Nile, and as archeology now stands there is less reason than ever before for dogmatic assumption that there could not have been a nearly synchronous, if not closely parallel, development of mankind on opposite sides of the globe.

Skeletal remains and artifacts from Mexican excavations are estimated to be some 7000 years old. But the mounds of the Ohio valley, if the disclosures of the past few months shall be confirmed, are likely to date back 8000 years or more. Either—always assuming that conclusions are based on sound premises—are more than a thousand years older than the oldest of the great pyramids. Both would run back to a time more than twice as long ago as the burial of King Tutankhamen.

Says Professor Cummings: "Their (the Americans') dissimilarities to Asiatics, both east and west, to Africans and to Europeans are far more pronounced than their similarities. That the prehistoric Ohioans traveled extensively is evident; that they received either directly or through other peoples with whom they traded the products of countries beyond the seas." It may be argued with sincerity that at least some of these parallels can be sufficiently explained by the probability that any people rising in the scale of creation would have been forced, in self-defense, to organize, and that unequal individual abilities would explain why there have been leaders and followers ever since man rose above the plane of the brute.

Last Thursday 500 lambs were shipped by Southern Pacific to Allen & Pyle at San Francisco.

Leonard Gilkey's 5-year-old daughter broke away from her mother, ran in front of an auto and was knocked down and severely bruised in Albany Wednesday.

At a dance at Crawfordsville Wednesday night Cecil Sloan carved J. Banty considerably with a knife and skipped out. A rather lively dance that, with a little hootch reported.

Lucas H. Wheeler of Eugene, brother of the editor, and Mrs. Wheeler and Bryan K. Wheeler were visitors here Sunday and took the editorial family to see the Harrisburg bridge.

Jess Walton, who works in the Arrow garage and goes to school, went to spend his Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walton, at Crawfordsville.

The Standard Oil company is marking the air route between San Francisco and Seattle by painting the names of its stations. Albany is to be so marked in this county. An arrow pointing due north with each sign, so airmen can tell where they are and which way they are going.

Under the heading: "Among the Afflicted," in the last issue of the Scio Tribune one item reads: "Dec. 19, 1925, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bender, who live near Jordan; fourth child." Don't know whether we are to sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Bender because she was born, because she was a daughter or because she was the fourth child, or for all three reasons.

The county jail had seven inmates on Christmas, all held for violating prohibitory laws. Granville and Everett Nye, father and son, the father a gray haired farmer of the Sweet Home country; Bill Swyter, who took to bootlegging for easy money; John Duncan, caught with some wine in his possession at Lebanon; Bill Smith of Harrisburg, who sold liquor, Ray Prince and Francis Denny, both up for bootlegging.

During the last three years there have been sixty-three electric railway abandonments in the United States.
