Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

Thomas R. Preston, President of the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Tennessee, says:

That probably not in twenty-five years has business in the United States been on a better basis than it is at present. The statisticians tell us that it is about twenty per cent above normal on the average. In some lines I doubt if business is quite normal. This is particularly true of agriculture interests, but the agriculture interest is in far better shape than it has been for several years.

That there is a tendency for the banks, other business interests and agriculture to cooperate along sane and sensible lines. This is infinitely better for agriculture than any political remedies that could possibly be suggested. The political remedies suggested for the benefit of the farmer nine times out of ten would be harmful if applied rather than beneficial.

That when the business tide is running so high it is time for everyone to be conservative.

That there is a tendency for installment buying to go beyond the lines of safety. Installment buying is all right, but if the earning of the purchaser is discounted too far into the future it may greatly lessen consumption later. Most people agree that deferred payments should never extend beyond the life of the article purchased. Even to come well within this limit would be safer.

There never were fewer clouds in the industrial sky than now.

On account of the vigilance of the sheriff's office and the state traffic department during the recent week-end celebrations the state and county are considerably richer. Thirty-three arrests were made in the county, 20 on liquor charges and 13 for violations of the state traffic laws.

Twenty-seven of these cases were brought before Justice Oliver's court on Tuesday, and twenty-four entered pleas of guilty, while three said they were innocent and their cases set for trials at later dates. All liquor charges were given fines of $100 and costs, and the others drew various amounts up to $50 and costs.

Halsey Was Quiet on the Fourth

So far as the city of Halsey was concerned, the Fourth was decidedly sane and sober. Beach and mountain resorts drew so heavily upon our population for a couple of days that to those of us who preferred to remain at home and take it quiet, it seemed just like Sunday, or even more so.

The people started leaving town early Saturday morning for their favorite resorts, Newport, perhaps drew the largest delegation from our midst, with Triangle Lake a close second. Yachats filled her quota from our ranks early in the deal, and Cascadia, Belknap Springs and various other places too numerous to mention were also visited by our folk, and, as the society columns say, "a pleasant time was had by all," or at least thought so, which is all the same.

Oregon Getting New Settlers

Seventy-three new arrivals from the east and middle west selected farm homes in Oregon during the month of June, scattering throughout the various sections of the state, according to the records of the land settlement department of the state and Portland chambers of commerce.

That Oregon gained economically by this influx of farmers and their families is evidenced by the fact that they made capital investments of over $243,300.

In addition the department has been visited by sixty-nine families who have been in correspondence and have arrived to make a selection of a farm in Oregon.

During the month of June the land settlement department was in communication with 81 people who announced that they would come to this state to locate. These people have furnished confidential information showing that they capital to invest amounting to more than $100,000.

Personal letters answering specifically individual questions are sent to all inquirers by W. G. Ide, manager of the state chamber, and during June 2,386 of these letters were mailed from the office. Accompanying letters to prospective homeseekers were 4,379 pieces of illustrated literature containing facts relative to all sections of Oregon. In this way placing of settlers on arrival is expedited as they usually are able to determine beforehand the portion of the state which appeals to them most and they are immediately ready to confer with the local realtors and land settlement committeemen concerning the choice of a farm in that locality.

The 'lowdown' on Shirts

You want your shirt to look well, always. True—the only part that most folks see is the little "V" above your vest. But that "V" bespeaks the style, the quality of your entire shirt.

You want inbuilt value, below the "V" and in the fashioning. Smart lines. Deft tailoring of shoulders, cuffs and sleeves.

See the style show of Neustadter shirts at Our Store. Neustadter Brothers, Established 1853, Portland San Francisco, New York.
