ARE YOUR CHILDREN'S EYES READY FOR SCHOOL WORK?

That children may develop physically, co-ordinately with the pressure of the school work, their eyes must have immediate attention.

It is very important that children see clearly and comfortably.
You will find that the correction of imperfect vision will reduce nervousness and crossness, and bring about willingness to do and new ambition to accomplish in study.

Unusual advantages are offered here. Nothing is spared that your children may see as nature intended them to.

Do not neglect your children's eyes. Take advantage of our special facilities and give your children the fullest opportunity to do their best.

Big Apple Crop Bad for Doctors

DOCTORS will have an easy winter of the theory that "an apple a day keeps a doctor away," says the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, for according to the latest official figures, the apple crop will be a bumper one. A total of 242,000,000 bushels will be produced, the government report states. Last year the crop amounted to only 172,000,000 bushels, while the average crop for the last five years was 170,000,000 bushels, the Foundation points out. Most of the apples are grown in the Northern states. New York is the heaviest producer. The bulk of the crop is grown on general farms and less than 45 per cent goes into commercial channels.
The commercial crop will total about 40,000,000 barrels, which is 33 per cent larger than the average crop of 30,000,000 barrels. On this basis, says the Foundation, each person will have to eat four apples, as compared to three a year ago.

French Woman Famed for Skill as Cook

The famous Brillat-Savarin died February 2, 1826. He was celebrated for his book called "The Physiology of Taste," wherein he established the French tradition for good cooking, says the Detroit News.

At a banquet held in Paris recently in his honor it was remarked that there was no woman guest. Somebody has been explaining the omission on the ground that both the great epicures and the great cooks have all been men.

That may be broadly true, but not long before Brillat-Savarin's days there was one woman cook who achieved an almost unparalleled popularity. This was Marie, the cook of the Paris fermier-general of the period, whose dinners at the Elysee palace had a wide celebrity. The host would not employ a man cook, and though this at first caused astonishment among the people whom he asked to dinner, Marie's achievements soon became famous.

According to an historian of the time, she used to be called like a "prima donna" at the end of a course, and she was enthusiastically toasted as "Le Cordon Bleu." Cordon Bleu, though usually applied to men cooks in our day, was originally used of French women cooks, and was probably derived from the blue aprons which they wore in the kitchen.

Log; Eats Anything

"After taking Adlerika I can Aad gas on the stomach and (signed) R. C. Miller. One spoonful Adlerika removes gas, often brings surprising relief to the stomach.

Stops that full bloated feeling. Removes old waste matter from intestines which you never thought was in your system. Excellent for obstinate constipation. Halsey

Odd Eastern Customs

Some queer kinks in Chinese civilization are described by Thomas Steep in "Chinese Fantastics," a book on Chinese customs published by the Century company. Here is a prohibition kink: "A total abstainer, not wishing to be remiss at a banquet, delegates his drinking to a servant. The servant, standing at a respectful distance, advances whenever a toast is proposed, lifts his master's cup, and drinks. The master is thus vicariously able to drink indefinitely. The servant, drunk, may be replaced by a sober one." This might be called a sex kink: "Students, when informed by their teacher that a Western man proposes directly to the girl he wishes to marry, were astonished, for they could not understand how the man, in the event of a refusal, could survive the loss of face."—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Case for Books

Why books, anyway? The answer is simple. Books, as yet, afford the only existing means of constantly and continuously enlarging the individual's range of experience; the only means of giving the individual thoroughgoing understanding of any of the great aspects of life; the only means of giving the individual that enduring perspective, broad vision and real knowledge which are necessary for his security, growth and happiness under civilized conditions. Other devices may give the same mental or emotional stimulation or delight.
But no other devices can so thoroughly and enduringly tie men's minds together, link men into man.—Jesse Lee Bennett in the Bookman.
