

FACTS about used car allowances

Most new car sales now involve the trading-in of a buyer's used car. More and more people are asking: "Why should my used car seem to have several values? . . . Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances differing materially? . . . Does the largest allowance offered mean the best deal for me?"

Here are basic facts:

- 1 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 The largest trade-in allowance which is offered on your used car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; but sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 Judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

WHEN YOU are ready to trade-in your present car, remember that after all you are making a purchase and not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

Biographical

Robert Buford Morris, the new druggist mentioned in the advertisement of the Morris pharmacy, was born in Albany May 30, 1927, and has resided in this state all his life, as have a large number of his relatives some of whom are more than grand; for instance, his great-grandfather and great-grandmother Mayberry of Albany and great-grandmother Morris of Seio. The latter lady came to Oregon in 1845 and remembers many events of the overland trek.

Sue has been chosen Queen Rebecca of next week's pioneer picnic at Brownsville, so Robert Buford can claim royal lineage.

The new druggist is a person of simple habits. He eats no meat and subsists largely on a milk diet, which evidently agrees with him, for his health is reported to be tip-top.

Attaining Happiness

The secret of happiness lies not in doing only what one likes to do, but in liking what one has to do. The one is selfishness, the other cheerfulness, and there can be little genuine happiness without cheerfulness.—Grit.
