SOCIETY NEWS

From Our Regular Correspondents

An outstanding social event of the past week was the masquerade party for which the B. B. club girls were hostesses, Saturday evening. The city hall was used for this affair and was decorated in keeping with the spirit of Hallow'en with black cats, witches, and streamers of orange and black paper.

Close fitting masks of plain or grotesque form hid identities of the merry makers, and were the cause of much amusement. Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Miss Lillian Reynolds and her brother Ray. The former was gracefully gowned in a tight waisted, full skirted dress of long ago. The prize was a vanity box containing powder, rouge and a special compact, and was a lovely gift, greatly appreciated by the winner.

Mr. Reynold's prize was a nice leather bill fold. He was dressed as a Spaniard. Frank Koontz, as a dude, was awarded the booby prize.

Among other representations were a pirate lady, clowns of many different characters, serving maid, cowboy, sailors, ghosts, Spanish gentleman, Pierot and Pierette, and many quaint sheiks of the days of '49.

Games were played until a late hour when refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Morris, Mrs. Nora Coleman and Mrs. Florence Leeper were patrons and patronesses for the evening.
