

Building for the Ages

[[Built centuries ago, yet built so well that it will withstand many more centuries, the Sphinx stands as a lasting monument to honest effort]]

So may we build, not alone the material creations which go toward making up this community, but may we also build good will upon a foundation of honest trading with our fellow men, so that it will outlast even the most substantial of concrete erections.

To make our dreams of a greater community come true, we must start to build from the very foundation. Confidence in our home institutions, as evidenced by our trade relations with them, is the cornerstone—careful and conscientious regard for our credit standing in our dealings, and a willingness to do our full share in any and every enterprise that tends to the good of our community, are the materials we should use in our building, if it is to outlast the ages.

Then we will have a Community of which we may well be proud.
