Varying shades of opinion have been expressed concerning the ultimate effect of the peace treaty signed on August 27 in Paris by the representatives of fifteen leading nations of the world. Some see in this action a real hope for permanent world peace, while others are less optimistic and some frankly skeptical.

Whatever effect the treaty may have depends on the good faith with which the nations live up to these simple statements. If, as some contend, the treaty will do little good, it is difficult to see how it can do any harm. The fact that such traditional enemies as France and Germany have signed such a compact is at least encouraging.

Organization on political party lines called "get-out-the-vote" clubs, are being pushed for the November election. In six states the last chance to register is already past and in 37 states registry rights expire 30 days before election. In a few states there is permanent registration for property owners whose taxes are paid—Indiana has repealed its registration laws.

In many states registered voters lose their rights if they omit voting a certain number of times in each biennial period. The enormous volume of state and federal laws relating to naturalization, registration, primaries and elections proper, have all tended to increase the non-voting class. Doing away with manhood suffrage and increasing the obstacles, difficulties and voting requirements cause uncertainty and chaos with the result that in many instances a minority of voters control election results.

In a little pamphlet recently published by the Southern Pacific entitled, "A Citizen of Oregon," is enumerated state and county expenditures in taxes material and wages to employees. The amount of taxes paid to Linn county is $97,037.30; expended in the state for wages $8,960,616.00; material and supplies $3,000,000.00.

These are regular yearly expenditures which are increased from time to time due to more or less unusual activities such as the thirty-six million dollars expended in the construction of the Cascade line and the line from Klamath Falls to Alturas, which is going forward now, says Mr. Ormandy.

"I believe you will agree with us that Southern Pacific is indeed 'a citizen of Oregon,'" said Mr. Ormandy.

No More Worry for Employees

Never will the twin fears of worries about accidents and sickness trouble the minds of the 300 odd employees of the Mountain States Power Company, stationed in the 50 towns and cities which it serves.

Negotiations have been completed with the industrial hospital association of Oregon, which afford complete protection against these hazards, it has been announced by Martin E. Sands, assistant to the vice-president.

Regardless of where he may be, or at what time or the day or night the accident occurs or sickness develops, the power company employee will receive first-class doctor's, nurse's, hospital's and ambulance services, as required, without cost and, in addition, will be reimbursed for loss of earnings, if any, according to the state compensation act, Sands said.

Prior to September first, when the new measures became effective employees were covered only during the hours actually engaged in pursuit of their duties in the state of Oregon. The new arrangement covers "all general medical and surgical care; eye, ear, nose and throat; and for both sickness and accident, for 24 hours per day and every day in the month." Both men and women employees are entitled to full privileges provided by the signing of the new contract, it was said.
