Reformer Confesses

Often in our early enthusiasms we battle for causes which seem to us of supreme importance at the time, but which we may later conclude were not so vital, after all.

In a recent magazine a well known writer and lecturer gives his experiences along this line. He has been quite a reformer in his time. Among the causes for which he has fought with tongue and pen are the single tax, the direct primary, votes for women, the League of Nations, spelling reform and prohibition. His present views on these questions are interesting. He says: "Single tax still seems good to me, but vastly less important or likely of attainment than it appeared in the height of my excitement about the great cause."

"I have reluctantly concluded that the direct primary will not change the nature of man very much."

"I still think we should be official in the League, but I no longer believe that it is an idealistic institution."

"I still think women are entitled to the ballot, but I can't see that they are doing such wonders with it."

"Spelling reform engaged my attention at one time, but I am beginning to think that people are entitled to spell correctly if they insist upon it."

"I heated myself and my audiences to incandescent luminosity for the cause of prohibition, and now that the cause is written into the constitution, I am inclined to think that we traded a wasp for an adder."

Less Waste on Farm

New discoveries which enable former waste products of the farm to be used for various purposes and even for human food, are being made by chemists to Dr. F. C. Blanck, government food research director.

Waste matter in the citrus fruit industry, which formerly cost the growers about $1 a ton to get rid of, is now being utilized in the production of citric acid, orange and lemon oils, juice for beverages and pectin, the jelly basis in fruit.

Pea pods have been found rich in protein and sugar and methods of converting these into human food are being worked out. Skim milk, already used to advantage in feeding hogs and chickens, is being more profitably made into a milk powder used extensively in the baking industry.

For some time the fiber of corn stalks has been successfully turned into paper and building boards.

straw is utilized in similar products and a long list of former waste materials have been found of economic value. All these developments tend to give the farmer a greater return from his crops, and in the opinion of many the chemist will ultimately prove to be the one to point the way to real farm relief.

Liquor law enforcement officials of this county have been active as evidenced by a report made public a short time ago in which it was set forth that in 1927 $3608.05 above all expenses of prosecution was realized from the prohibition campaign against bootleggers. Numerous gangs and cliques handling and peddling illegal booze have been broken up and several fugitives from justice will get a hearing if they ever return to the state.

Should the Deschutes, Rogue, McKenzie and Umpqua river bills pass they would place a handicap on future progress for parts of the state. It would be simply legislation for a few—or rather class legislation.

"Two more for Hoover", says a headline. That's the way they did when Noah was carrying on his dry campaign.

Hal E. Hoss' stub pen is already making marks on state papers just over the printed line, "secretary of state."

Less than a month now and all will be rosy again.

W.C.T.U. Campaign Educational

(By Ella A. Boole)

The object of the National W.C.T.U. in the present political campaign is to elect an administration that will uphold and enforce prohibition. It will take no part in the discussion of religious issues and is not distributing anti-Catholic literature. Its campaign will be conducted through state W.C.T.U. organizations and through the 10,000 local unions. The campaign will be educational. It will stress the economic importance of prohibition which has decreased poverty, increased wealth and is a factor in the increased betterment of the national standards of living. It will emphasize that while many methods of dealing with the liquor traffic have been tried, prohibition is the best method.

It will urge all who recognize the corrupting influence of the liquor traffic, the degenerating effects of alcoholic liquor as a beverage, the waste of money caused by the consumption of liquors, the baneful effects of strong drink on public morals and public health, upon all who remember what the saloon was and what it did, to vote for Herbert Hoover for president.

It will urge this not for the reason that the W.C.T.U. has endorsed any political party as such but because Herbert Hoover has said "I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," and "modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification." His election will strengthen law enforcement and his personal example will promote law observance. The National W.C.T.U. will show the fallacy of Governor Smith's proposal to permit each state to determine the alcoholic content of intoxicating liquors and will show that neither the Canadian plan of government sale nor a dispensary system would solve the problem of law enforcement. His program is the program of the Association against Prohibition amendment; his election would be their victory.

The election of Herbert Hoover will place in the White House an undoubted friend of prohibition, a man experienced in the solution of difficult problems, a man who will approach this problem with the determination to solve it, and solve it in the interest of public welfare. For these reasons the W.C.T.U. membership is practically unanimous in his support.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union do not as an organization endorse candidates—work only for dry from both political parties.

A Contrast in Principles and Parties

Republican

FOR the protection of labor, industry, agriculture and citizenship the Republican party started the protective tariff. The Paine-Aldrich bill which was wiped out by democratic leadership in 1913 and the Fordney-McCumber bill which went into effect in 1922, closed America's doors to the free entry of European manufactured goods, produced by cheap labor, and the livestock and agricultural products of South America, New Zealand and Australia. Under these a duty of 42 cents a bushel was placed on wheat; 15 cents a bushel on corn; 1 1/2 to 2 cents a pound on cattle; 50 cents per hundred pounds on potatoes; $2 a head on sheep and 31 cents per pound on scoured wool.

Democratic

THE Democratic party has always opposed a high protective tariff. It stands for "tariff for revenue only" or a "competitive tariff". When the Underwood law went into effect there followed in its wake a near panic that was only averted by the World War in Europe. Wheat, corn, cattle, sheep, wool, potatoes and other products were placed on the free list. The farmer suffered from foreign competition, and scores of factories closed down and brought on unemployment and bread lines. Revenue for government expense became so low that the Stamp Act of October 22, 1914, went into effect and a tax was required on all notes, deeds and mortgages and perfumes and other sundries.

THE tariff is the safeguard of American industry, agriculture and commerce. If changes are to be made in existing tariff laws they can best be entrusted to friends in the tariff party—the Republican party. Protection against foreign competition means prosperity. If you would have a continuation of prosperity—
