

Work of State Chamber of Commerce Toward Settlers

Requests for newspapers published in that section of Oregon in which prospective settlers contemplate locating are received every day at the office of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, Portland, according to a statement made by W. G. Ide, manager.

In commenting further on this feature of his work, Mr. Ide said, "One of the finest ways to gain an idea of the nature of the country, its crops, living conditions, social advantages and opportunities is by reading the newspapers published in the section in which you are interested. And further, there is no better way to cultivate prospective settlers and make them acquainted with your advantages than to send them copies of your newspapers. Here is one way in which every citizen may assist the work of local chamber of commerce in building up the community and getting new settlers and new industries. A fine Christmas gift to a friend back east and one that will remind him of your interest in him throughout the year would be a year's subscription to your local newspaper."

During the month of October, 825 packages of literature were mailed out to prospective settlers through Mr. Ide's office who had requested such information. Newspapers and booklets issued by the different communities of Oregon are going out in a daily stream to all parts of the United States and Canada.

Themes in Harmony With National Educational Week

The following is an article by Dr. Henry Davidson Sheldon of U. of O., teaching on themes in harmony with educational week.

"One of the great problems of modern life is the proper use of leisure time. We frequently see quite successful men and women who are no longer compelled to earn a living, who have achieved affluence, and are at the same time bored. The fast night life of our large towns and cities is the result of this state of affairs. How can the schools help to train the next generation for higher types of enjoyment?

"First: There is the source of reading. Not only in biographies, novels, and books of travels do we have a sure refuge against a burden, but also in genuine love of poetry and higher literature is to be found one of the most elevating forces in life. The good modern teacher by reading appropriate selections of verse aloud, by calling attention to suitable books of adventure and to stimulate biographies, performs great service in the direction of character building. Nowadays all our towns have good public libraries. What the school can furnish is direction and motivation.

"Second: Another source of intelligent enjoyment is to be found in the drama. 'Little Theatres' have arisen by the thousand all over the country where intelligent amateurs frequently put on plays of a high degree of merit. The school through its dramatic club and the study of plays in its English department can and is doing much to make the drama a great positive and constructive force in a creative way. Certainly no better use of leisure can be imagined than in connection with a play which grips the emotions and sets us thinking.

"Third: Most powerful of all the arts is music. Its roots are deep in our emotions. It cheers us when we are sad and forms a fitting expression of joy in the hour of success. Yet proper music requires technical training. In the work of the schools the glea clubs, orchestras and choruses lay the foundation of one of the most pleasant and vital modes of occupying leisure time.

"Thus we see that the school can be and to a large extent is at the present time a great moral resource in building up the lives of young people. We of the older generation can promote this great work by seeing that the libraries are properly supplied with books, that the teachers of drama have proper facilities for performing good plays and that sufficient time and setting be given to the musical interests.

M. E. Gardner and Chas. Gansle built a garage for N. E. Chandler last week.
Mr. and Mrs. Earl Albertson of Monmouth spent the week end at the A. F. Albertson home.
Eunice Sylvester was home for the week end.
Everett Mason is building a chicken house on the Shepherd place occupied by Ray Hover.
L. E. Eagy and family and Mrs. E. E. Hover attended church at Peoria Sunday morning.

E. E. Hover and family visited at the Everett Hover home in Harrisburg Saturday and attended the community sale.

Ray Hover was an Albany visitor Wednesday. He was accompanied on the return trip by Miss Georgia Overton who visited her mother, until Sunday.

Miss Grace Kirk went to Halsey Tuesday and after voting visited at her home in the Spoon River district returning to her school work here Wednesday morning.

Quite a crowd was present at the community meeting Friday evening. Political speeches by P. H. Freerksen, J. A. Lawrenson, Hector McPherson, and Lee Giddings interspersed with orchestra music and readings by Doris Workinger and Rev. Gibson composed the program after which lunch was served by the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Chandler attended church at Halsey Sunday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols in the afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Sylvester went to Portland Monday to be with her daughter who is seriously ill.

Mrs. W. D. McLaren came up from Corvallis Tuesday to cast her vote. A large per cent of Pine Grove voters expressed their wishes by the ballot, some in west Halsey and others at Peoria.

Receiving Better Prices

Farmers of this country are receiving appreciably higher average prices for products this year than last, according to the department of agriculture.

The most pronounced gain is in cotton which shows a 35 per cent increase in a year. Beef cattle are bringing 29 per cent more than last year and hogs 12 per cent. Grain, corn and poultry are also up, from two to 21 per cent.

A few products, including wheat are to some extent below last year's prices. But these are exceptions to the general trend which undoubtedly is toward improved agricultural conditions.

Girls see little sense in the rule which penalizes a fellow editor holding.

Praise for School Pupils

Brownsville, Nov. 3.—The entertainment at the Rialto Theatre last Friday night in which three one-act plays were given by the students of the high school, was well arranged and carried out. Most of the players were new but all did fine. There were about 30 and all proved ability.

Leighton Boyles played like a professional and better than some we have seen. Kenton Thompson's portrayal of an old man could not have been better, was the verdict of the audience. Margaret Thompson, 12 years of age, has histrionic talent far beyond her years. Thelma Mae Fox is a born actress and with her charming personality always takes with the audience she has been in several plays, always taking a leading part.

Others taking a part in the play and who deserve mention for their ability are: Ariene Newman, Earl Stevens, Violet Habersham, Ellis Ferril, Doris Overton, Nadine Templeton, Alice Cochran.

Are your children's eyes Ready for school work?

That children may develop physically, co-ordinately with the pressure of their school work, their eyes must have immediate attention. It is very important that children see clearly and comfortably. You will find the correction of imperfect vision will reduce nervousness and crossness, and bring about a willingness to do and new ambition to accomplish in study. Unusual advantages are offered here. You receive the expert services. Nothing is spared that your children may see as Nature intended them to. Do not neglect your children's eyes. Have them examined now.

There's Nothing Like the Bridge-Beach WOOD SUPERIOR CIRCULATOR

Built Like a Warm Air Furnace

The cold air enters at the bottom, is heated and humidified between the fire pot and the outer casing—and passes out through the top, CIRCULATING the warm, moist, healthful air to the most distant corners of the adjoining rooms. Has wonderful heating capacity—will heat several rooms comfortably in the coldest weather. Burns cord wood, chips, blocks, knots—is easily regulated and heats up quickly in the morning. Comes in beautiful Walnut Enamel finish and also in plain black with Wellsville polished steel body.
