

Plum Pudding for Christmas

"SUGAR and spice and every-thing nice" is what both little girls and plum puddings are made of. Also Jack Horner is reputed to have exulted mightily when he succeeded in pulling a plum out of his Christmas pudding. But the modern housewife can exult equally because she no longer has to spend weary hours preparing all the ingredients and then steaming to perfection a plum pudding that will make your mouth water.

They Come in Cans
Not only plum puddings in which Jack Horner could make a great reputation as a fisherman, but fig puddings, rich and savory, and mince, both with and without meat, are now available, ready prepared, in cans. All the housewife has to do is to heat the can thoroughly in boiling water, twist the attached key for less than a minute, and there before her is an appetizing plum pudding, steaming hot. Every precaution has been taken by the canners not only to make the best plum pudding possible, but to make them easy for the housewife to open and serve. A herringbone scoring around the can guides the attached key where it ought to go and prevents it from breaking the tip strip when the top is twisted off.

Ready in a Trice

Thus the pudding comes out whole. Topped with whipped cream and decked with a sprig of holly, it is ready in a trice for the Christmas table, and the housewife has saved many hours of her time. These puddings are not only popular over here, but quantities of them are exported every Christmas to England, the plum pudding's native habitat.

SOCIETY NOTES

On Thanksgiving day the John Gormley home presented a festive appearance when Mrs. Gormley entertained at dinner not only in honor of Thanksgiving but also to celebrate the birthdays of her daughter, Myrtle Tobey who was home from Medford, where she is teaching, for the vacation and Mrs. G. W. Hockensmith. Other guests were Mr. Hockensmith and daughter Jessaline, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Underwood and son Jack.

All-Gray Costume

The ensemble note in fashion has been taken advantage of by Loretta Young, star of the film "Scarlet Seas," to create a stunning appearance in an all gray costume. She wears a smart dress of gray covered by a velvet coat of gray, gray shoes and hat. To increase the importance of the color scheme a platinum fox scarf is added. It is in the popular two-fox effect.
