Never hold a nail for your wife to strike at.

The best way to get a-head is to use your own head.

Bad people do openly what the good people do secretly.

We think talk isn't so cheap when you are talking back to a cop.

Great talkers are like leaky pitchers—everything runs out of them.

Some persons laugh at refinement; but look what polish will do for a pair of shoes.

Men and motors have little in common. Motors knock most when they begin to go up hill.

Three things never perform satisfactorily when there is company—the kids, radios, and automobiles.

The first fellow who should be jailed for carrying concealed weapons are those going around with "hammers."

Solomon must have been shunuff wise. He managed to be the richest man on earth without being investigated.

You are known by the company you keep; therefore avoid Mayonnaise dressing. It has been mixed up with oil.

TODAY'S CHEERFUL THOUGHT

The less money you make, the bigger laugh you can have on the income tax collectors.

Cutting advertising may reduce the cost of doing business, but cutting your windpipe will also reduce the cost of living.

Then there is the simpaton who thinks that when he stops his subscription to a newspaper he has also stopped the press.

"They talk about the hardships Columbus endured. But they ignore the fact that he had a whole continent of parking space.

Only the rich have time and can afford to walk. The rest of us have to hustle to buy tires.

A cupid is what men take shots at and miss.

Mrs. Windy Wolf says: I know six men who don't believe in woman's rights, and their wives use common washboards and of washing machines.

The old night shirt has disappeared—everybody wears pajamas now, says a news item.
Beats all how much these reporter fellows know nowadays doesn't it.

SUCH A DELICATE LITTLE INSTRUMENT

The little girl, with childlike frankness, was talking family affairs at the neighbors. "My mamma wouldn't pay the telephone bill," she said, "and my papa wouldn't pay it, and so now the phone is out of order."

NO SUCH LUCK

Bright the world would be and sunny, Life's enjoyment it would double,
One only borrow money and one borrows

How Are You Paid?

A man may be worth all he is paid, no matter how much he is paid, or be worth less than he is paid no matter how little he is paid. Don't complain because you are paid less than others. You are paid for what you do, and what you do is up to you.

Go down in history as the retiring president." He has already two soldiers bonus bills, and the tax reduction bill, the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, and several others are yet to come. The President insists that reduction of federal expenditures is the most important thing he has to accomplish and he is determined to "fight it out on that line" whatever the cost, just so it is not in cash.

The political guns that have locked two Cabinet members into private life have been turned on John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, but with little effect thus far. A powerful country-wide chain of newspapers is heading the assault, charging Weeks with improper connections with large financial organizations which had relations with the U. S. government. Secretary of State Hughes likewise has been involved in the Shipping Board investigation. It is alleged that he influenced the board to sell a big passenger ship to a foreign firm for a small amount when American companies offered much more.
Hughes denies it.

A SCRAP OF PAPER

When you come to think of it, nearly as much can be accomplished today with a sheet of plain white paper, as the magician of old could encompass with all his charms and amulets and touchstones.

For a scrap of paper can be made into a check that will convey a huge fortune half around the world. It can be made into a deed that will convey the possession of an enormous property.
Upon it a warrant of arrest can be written; or a pardon. The musician can compose on it a song that will cheer the hearts of millions. Or the poet, a verse that will be passed on to future generations.

Yet withal, there is such an abundance of this commodity that it may be freely used, not only for the rarer purpose of commerce and art but for universal dissemination of the day's news and wide spread selling of a multitude of goods.

Truly, paper is a magic carpet, an Aladdin's lamp and a fairy scepter all rolled into one.

COMPETITIVE OR CO-OPERATIVE

Really progressive advertisers are no longer held back by any fear that their advertising may have a beneficial influence upon the affairs of their competitors.
They have not the least doubt along this line.

They used to have a suspicion that when they made a forceful effort in behalf of their merchandise, their competitors would be helped also. They suspect no longer. They definitely know that their competitors are thus helped. But at the same time they realize the thing is capable of working both ways.

If there are ten large manufacturers putting out a similar line of goods, and five advertise the other five naturally are going to get a good part of the benefit. But if all ten advertise the general effort in behalf of that class of goods is doubled.
More people are reached and all ten sell more merchandise.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful
Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance.
Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.
"Don't stay gray!" Look young!
Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly.
You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

It is of course going too far to say there is no competition in advertising. Necessarily there must be. But it is pretty much of a co-operative affair after all, when you get right down to a real analysis.

Bids on Printing

Bids from different printers are sure to differ in at least one important item—an item which cannot be put into specifications because it cannot be measured or expressed in quantity. We do not know just what to call it.
Perhaps if we named it Quality that would help to identify it.
Its principal ingredients are Skill, Experience, Personality.
There are many other intangible ingredients. It is about the most valuable commodity that a printer has to offer (provided he has it at all). And it cannot be in any way definitely enumerated in a set of specifications or in an order. You can be sure of having it, however, by making a careful selection of your printer.

A MILK SONG

(Sung to the tune of "Smiles") There are drinks that make you sleander,
There are drinks that make you stout,
There are drinks that steal away your beauty,
There are drinks that make you whine and pout;
But the drink that's best for every reason
It will give H. C. of L. the punch,
It will fill you full of pep and gladness, It's the milk that you drink for lunch.

CROSS-EYED CARPENTER

The only cross-eyed carpenter in captivity makes his appearance in Stan Laurel's latest Pathecomedie, "Smithy," which comes to the Pacific Theatre Saturday and Sunday.
He demonstrates in humorous style how cross-eyed carpenters manage to hit the nail on the head. Judging from the frequency that some people hit their fingers when they have regulation orbs, it seems no handicap to carpenters to see things differently from everyone else.
