SESSION AT SALEM ENTERS FINAL WEEK

Lawmakers Confronted With the Usual Jam of Unfinished Business.

Salem.—The present legislature in one respect at least has followed precedent for it started out on the closing week of the session with the legislative hopper clogged with unfinished business. Both houses were badly congested with work and the closing days will witness the usual confusion, heated arguments and strenuous efforts to save pet bills.

The measures which ran the gauntlet of both houses during the first five weeks were mostly unimportant and of no great interest to the state at large. As a matter of fact, few really big measures of state wide interest have been offered during the present session.

There was plenty of fuel for controversy when the legislature started on the last lap of the session Monday. No action had been taken by either house on the report of the Cleaver investigating committee and ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution was still in the air.

The senate resolution to prohibit inheritance of income tax and the fish commission bill, giving appointment to the board of control instead of the governor were in the house for final action.

The Mills post-primary bill which passed the house has been slumbering for long days in the senate. The primary bill still is sleeping in committee awaiting the fate of the Mills bill.

Ousting Cleaver Urged.

In furtherance of the cause of law enforcement, George L. Cleaver, state prohibition commissioner, should be removed or his resignation should be demanded, is the conclusion of the special legislative committee investigating Cleaver's department.

No charge of dishonesty is made against Cleaver. In addition to the "findings of fact," we distinct "conclusions" were submitted for the consideration of the legislature.

One is the recommendation that the law, and the department, be left as it is at present without change. The other is that the law be changed and the prohibition enforcement work be given into the direct charge of sheriffs and district attorneys; that provision be made for a "flying squadron" of armed and experienced operatives, to be appointed by and under the direction and control of the attorney general, to be sent by him when, and where, they are needed within the state to aid local officials.

Dry Law Changes Asked.

Following a report of the finding and recommendations of the special committee investigating the state prohibition department, two bills affecting that department were introduced by the senate committee on alcoholic traffic.

One of these provides that the moneys derived from fines under the prohibition act shall be divided equally between the counties and the state, whereby the prohibition department will have 50 per cent instead of 25 per cent for enforcement of the law. The other half is divided between the sheriffs and the district attorney, 75 and 25 per cent respectively.

The other bill would repeal the present law whereby the governor is allowed to take from the prohibition fund for enforcement of the narcotic drugs law.

Fish Bill Passes Senate.

After a very brief debate and with no spirited speechmaking except that of Senator Joseph in opposition, the Ritter fish commission bill passed the senate with 16 favorable votes. This is the measure which proposes to take from the governor the power of appointing the members of the state fish commission and lodging that power with the state board of control.

The commercial fish code bill passed the house in the face of a bitter and fight by Mott in which charges and personalities were bandied about freely.

A supplemental tax levy for state purposes may be promulgated by the state legislature to cover up a deficacy between the financial needs of the state and the funds available under the levy, as set by the state tax commission.

Members of the ways and means committee have expressed themselves favorably to the plan and Attorney General Van White was to be asked for an opinion on the legality of such a levy.

Divert Fees to General Fund.

In an effort to raise sufficient money to meet the state's financial requirements during the present biennium the joint ways and means committee of the senate and house went on record favoring the passage of a bill requiring that all state activities supported by fees, with the exception of the state highway department and a few of the less important commissions turn over to the general fund a percentage of their receipts, ranging from 10 to 15 per cent.

By a vote of 16 to 1 the Dennis joint resolution directed against income and inheritance taxes passed the senate. The resolution proposes to submit to the people a constitutional amendment to prevent the enactment of income and inheritance tax laws until the year 1940, and would repeal the present inheritance tax.

Bible Reading Bill Passed.

The Garland bill providing for the reading of portions of the Bible in the public schools of the state was passed by the senate with only five votes opposed.

The bill provides for the appointment by the governor of a commission of nine members to include the state superintendent of public instruction, a Catholic, a Jew, a Christian Scientist and five Protestants, no two of whom shall be of the same denomination. The commission is to select portions of the Bible suitable for reading in the schools with a view to avoiding sectarian teachings, and the passages so selected are to be read by the teachers without comment.

Supreme Court Salaries Raised.

Despite impassioned pleas that strict economy should be practiced by the Oregon state legislature during its present session, the senate, by a vote of 18 to 11, overrode the adverse report of the joint ways and means committee and passed a bill increasing the salaries of the seven justices of the state supreme court from $5200 to $7500 a year.

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Back of the love story, back of all the mystery and excitement of this new story by Rousseau, is a fine picture—a picture of the Northwest and of the part being played in its development by Canada's soldier-police, the Northwest Mounted.

The author, one of the most industrious of the romantic writers of the North, is thoroughly at home in all his scenes and amidst all his characters. He brings the near-arctic to our doors and in this case shows its summer phases.
