Many succeed but few stay succeeded.

Some shows are worth going miles to keep from seeing.

A man about town is quite often about ready to leave town.

"Two minds with but a single thought." We wonder which is the dumbbell.

One very excellent way to get acquainted with a nice girl is to marry her.

Those who never marry may miss some joy, but they avoid a lot of trouble.

Your reputation runs down in about the same proportion as your bills run up.

Dimpled knees are fine, but that is no excuse for displaying them ostentatiously.

The crossword puzzle is bringing lots of obsolete words back into common usage.

It is called a wave of prosperity. Waves, you know, affect only those at the top.

A wise man keeps his nose to the grindstone, so he can turn it up to the bill collectors.

It's a sad and disappointing thing, this world. Nobody ever gets to be as important as he feels at 16.

The tightest guy we know is the chap who takes only soft drinks to save the wear and tear on his gold teeth.

A man who was his own lawyer got one year in the penitentiary. He couldn't have been a good lawyer any way you look at it.

The new postal bill increases the vacationist's expense. He'll now have to pay two cents on all his "wish you were here" messages.

Speaking of signs, there's a good one on a house in Boston. It reads: "This is The House Paul Revere would have passed. Had he Come This Way."

Will somebody please give us a word with four letters that rhymes with ham, and which expresses the thing we want to say when we are talking about politicians.

Estelle Taylor probably found Jack Dempsey perfectly stunning. That's the way Jess Willard, Georges Carpentier, Tommy Gibbons and Luis Angelo Firpo found him.

"It is easy to get married on $500 a year," writes a sob sister. Aye, aye, as easy as rolling off a log. The trouble will come in trying to live on it after you really get hooked up.

Paris has announced that the women's clothes are to be "mannish" this season. It is beginning to look as if "the old man" will be obliged to surrender all his claim to the family trousers.

SMILE

A smile is quite a funny thing; it wrinkles up your face, and when it's gone you never find its secret hiding place. But far more wonderful it is to see what smiles can do; you smile at one, he smiles at you.

And so one smile makes two. He smiles at someone since you smiled.

And that one then smiles back and that one smile until, in truth, you fall in keeping track. Now, since a smile can do great good,

By cheering hearts of care, Let's smile and smile, and not forget,

That smiles go everywhere.

HOME OPPORTUNITIES

It is natural for youth to take far distant looks. Many young folks today look up a somewhat slighting way on the town where they have grown up. They think that far away scenes offer broader opportunities.

Sometimes they do, for young people of a very exceptional type. But in the majority of cases, a young person does best in his home environment. He knows the ways of his home people, and how to adjust himself to their personalities, and way of thinking.

The acquaintance that a young person has in his home environment helps toward success. The young man starting life in some distant town must push himself entirely. In his home town, he has back of him whatever of friendship and reputation has been created by those who went before. It is a big asset. The young people of Beaverton should hesitate long before throwing it away and settling elsewhere.

NEW OREGON BOOK-LET TO BE GIVEN FREE

The atmosphere of the delightful Oregon Country strolls at you from the pictures and paragraphs of the new beautiful illustrated folder "Oregon Outdoors" just off the press of the Southern Pacific for free distribution.

Rushing trout streams, high wooded mountain lakes, pack trails and caverns, stretches of rock-bound headlands, white sand, charming beaches, whispering forests and roaring cataraacts look out at you, and then, of course, there is the panorama of Crater Lake in colors, the azure blue water and the painted cliffs standing out in sharp relief.

Of course, there are details giving information, rates, etc., concerning hotel and camping accommodations at the various resorts and a few brief paragraphs of travel information. Altogether this new folder is of interest to every Oregonian because of the information that it contains.

Copies of the folder can be secured from any Southern Pacific Agent or from the General Passenger Agent of the Southern Pacific, 805 Yeon Building, Portland.

HORSE VOICE

Wife—How do you like my new gown? It's the last word from Europe.

Hubbie—Well, from appearances they must be dumb in that country.

LIMITED PUBLICITY

She—Why won't you let me announce our engagement? You keep saying you'll tell the world you love me.

He—Darling, you know you are all the world to me.

DAMAGE EXPECTED FROM APPLE SOAB

Much damage is expected from apple soab and pear soab in western Oregon as a result of recent cold rains which favor rapid spread of the soab fungi," says H. B. Barss, plant pathologist of the state experiment station. "Special precaution must be taken in putting on the calyx spray in commercial orchards to insure absolutely complete covering of the entire foliage as well as the young fruit, with the spray as soon as the petals have dropped.

Liquid lime-sulfur at the rate of two and one-half gallons of water should be used except on sensitive-skinned pears which should be sprayed with some non-caustic sulfur spray or dusted with dusting sulfur when the air is still.

The Spray Program for Oregon Orchards gives the complete spray schedule. It is sent free by the Oregon college at Corvallis, upon request of growers.

COUNTY FARMERS PLANT GRIMM

Washington County is starting her second year of real interest in Grimm Alfalfa growing. Two hundred and twenty farmers have pooled orders for Northern grown Grimm seed and will plant from one fourth acre plots to as much as thirty acres each. An encouraging feature of this interest in alfalfa planting is that those who planted trial plots one and two years ago are now planting several acres.

Last year being one of the driest in the history of the county made it somewhat difficult to get a good stand of alfalfa, but those farmers who prepared alfalfa land with a firm seed bed with a shallow covering of loose soil found very little difficulty in securing a fine catch of Grimm alfalfa.

While addressing a field meeting of men interested in alfalfa last July, Sherman Hyre, a local grower, stated, "This has been the best year to start alfalfa that I have seen in Oregon, provided the soil has been properly prepared. I advise full plowing and the use of light tillage implements in the Spring to loosen the top soil and make a shallow soil covering. This method leaves the ground solid or firm underneath, a requirement for a good alfalfa seed bed."

In Mr. Hyre's statement we find one of the outstanding essentials for successful culture locally.
