Black raspberry culture in Oregon is better understood than formerly, though many small home growers do not realize the value of this berry. Trellising of blackcaps, says the experiment station, is not necessary when the canes are pruned low.

A ewe may be expected to produce two lambs a year, but if forced to raise four she lays down on the job. She can profitably raise a lamb and a wool crop, but if she has to raise a crop of ticks and stomach worms in addition she soon ceases to exist. Dipping immediately after shearing helps to eliminate the ticks. Stomach worms can be treated with a copper sulfate solution, which has proved successful in getting rid of these parasites. Write the state college or see your county agent for instructions.

AS A BUSINESS INSTITUTION AND AS A BUSINESS BUILDER

THE ABILITY to conduct a legitimate, constructive business at a profit is necessary to every concern which would succeed. Service and not price alone is the deciding factor to the wise buyer, who would know that the dollars he spends to stimulate his business not only return but that they bring some of their fellows with them. Buying space in the Review is not passing out money for an intangible asset; numerous voluntary testimonials verify our statement that Review advertising has produced great returns. Merchants, you have the field. If you do not get the trade whose fault is it? You may be sure that the mail order houses put their catalogs into every home in Washington county they can reach, but their circulation does not begin to compare with the Review's weekly newspaper circulation. THE BEAVERTON REVIEW

HOW EXCESSIVE TAXES BLIGHT A NATION'S LIFE

Productive Effort Stops if Government Takes Undue Share of Profits, Says Treasury Official.

WEALTH IN RUSSIA FLED BEFORE THE TAXGATHERER

Men in America Prefer Golf to Giving Fruits of Three Days Work a Week to Income Taxes

The blighting effects of excessive taxation, leading to a nation's economic destruction, are described in the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal by Garrard B. Winston, Under-secretary of the Treasury. Citing possible effects on the Ford Motor Car Company, he declares that "the value is so large and its ownership so centered it is conceivable that collection of labor-income taxes may check, if not destroy, that unit of policy which has created and expanded that industry and thus prevent its future prosperity. Of what avail, then, is it to any government if it collects one hundred million dollars once in estate taxes and destroys a source of income upon which it can rely for revenue year after year?"

"Success of the Ford Company does not mean simply that Mr. Ford and his son have grown wealthy. It means employment of tens of thousands of men and women; that mines, forests, railroads and vessels are brought into use; that the public has received an efficient and inexpensive means of transportation; that the farms are in touch with the city; and the worker with his office." Mr. Winston says in part:

Wealth Flees Oppression
"Upon first impression it might appear that a nation could take all of the earnings of its citizens or all of their property. The Soviet government proposed to appropriate all instrumentalities of trade and commerce. Yet, when the state reached out to grasp this wealth, it disappeared and left nothing but a few tangible objects, such as gold and jewels which were easily transported to other countries. Wealth in Russia ceased to exist."

"If income tax rates are placed so high that capital in productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with the risk, capital will go out of productive business. It will go abroad, go into tax-exempt securities, or find other ways of avoiding the tax. If income tax rates are so excessive that a man of ability finds he must work more than three days a week for the government, he will become discouraged and decide that the result is not worth the effort. Less income will be produced and less will be realized from the tax."

"Recently a letter came to the Treasury from a small farmer. He owned a few acres which in 1913 were assessed at $900 and on which a tax of $12 was levied. In 1924 the assessed value increased to $2,200 and the tax to $123, but the farm failed to produce any more. Taxes exceeded the rental value of the land and more than the net earnings of the property were taken by the state. The farm was abandoned and now produces no tax."

"Often there come to notice cases where a particular improvement is not made, or a particular business is not started, because after deducting taxes the risk exceeds the value of the expected return. Men have dropped business, spent their winters in Florida and their summers abroad, because what they are permitted to retain under present tax rates is not worth the labor they must give to acquire it. They prefer golf to the further development of the country."

Unscientific Taxes Destroy a Nation
"Unscientific methods of taxation may actually destroy the very earnings or property which it should be the principal interest of a government to foster. When it reaches the limits of what is known as its taxable capacity, a nation has begun to die. If taxes are raised too high, a country will slowly but surely destroy itself. It will use for daily consumption the seed corn on which its future life depends, and the spirit of initiative and adventure in its people will finally disappear. One or more of three things happen: The quantity of consumption is cut down, which means a lowering of the standard of living; or capital accumulations for extensions, improvements and new undertakings must diminish, resulting in a slowing up of progress and lessening eventually of taxable revenue; or, thirdly, a slackening of effort on the part of the citizen will take place when too large a part of his earnings are taken in taxes."

"The effort in taxation should be to find the tax which will continue to raise money over a period of years. Invariably, with an excessive tax, its yield has fallen off year by year, while each rate reduction is reflected in an increase of taxable income. If the Treasury is to be assured a continuance of revenue, our citizens must prosper. If they are to prosper, the appropriation by the state of their earnings and property must be based upon economically sound principles."

An open seed bed for broccoli is regarded by many Oregon growers as the best method of raising young plants. The seeds are drilled at the rate of 70 to 90 for every three feet. This is usually done with the hand seeder.

You are on the way to prosperity when you get more joy putting a dollar in the bank than you get spending it.

PLATINUM COINS
In coinage, platinum was first used in counterfeitings of gold coins. From 1828 to 1845 a bona-fide platinum-coinage was struck in Russia, the coinage containing some 2 per cent of iridium. A three-ruble piece was worth $2.32 of our money, but at the present value of this metal it would bring $35.

FEW SHARKS ATTACK HUMANS

The bureau of fisheries says that sharks sometimes enter relatively shallow water. Danger of attack from this form is very slight. That sharks do occasionally attack human beings is admitted, but the danger is far more remote than ordinary hazards of life, such as being killed by an automobile or death from the more common forms of disease.
