Beaverton Annual Rose Festival

Show Has Been Held Annually for
Fifteen Years; Good Program
Prepared; Prizes Offered

Each June, for more than fifteen years, the Beaverton Grange has staged their regular Annual Rose Show. This is not a copy after the Portland Rose Show, but rather an institution distinct and characteristic of this community.

It is also characteristic of this community that an institution of this kind should be given so little publicity as these annual affairs have been enjoying in the past.

This show will be given in the Grange Hall next Saturday, June 13.

While the prizes offered are not so large as those offered by the similar if larger Portland organization they are well worth competing for. There will be prizes for the best single roses, for the best collections, and prizes for the children for the largest and best and most representative collection of wild flowers on exhibition.

Besides the regular show there will be a program consisting of solos by Rhoda Shellenberger, and Verle Emmons. Two flower drills have been arranged, one to be staged by a number of little girls and the other to be put on by several little boys. Mrs. B. K. Denney has charge of the program and the effect of her twenty years' experience in Grange work coupled with her decade or more of service as Lecturer assures a program well worth listening to.

One of the main features of the program will be a lecture by Mrs. S. B. Lawrence, well-known lecturer and authority on flora of the Pacific Northwest. She will address the meeting on "Wild Shrubs of Oregon."

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the fact that this Rose Show is a public institution to which everybody is cordially invited and urged to attend. The exhibition is free, and the public is urged to give their support by coming out to see what is being done.

CHORAL CLUB PROGRAM EXCELLENT

A program of unusual merit was given in the high school auditorium last week under the direction of Miss Gertrude Porter, by the Beaverton Choral Club and assisting soloists.

The work of the Choral Club was well presented, with varying quantities of light and shade. Probably the highest point was reached in the presentation of the "Gondola Song" (Roberts), which was characterized with particular clearness of interpretation.

A number of soloists were also presented by Miss Porter, among them being Miss Rhoda Shellenberger, Mrs. H. M. Barnes, Mrs. E. G. Webb, Miss Carina Peterson, and Miss Florence Sutherland. Miss Shellenberger was heard to good advantage in her numbers, "I Heard You Go By," being especially enjoyed. "A Night of Romance" was given in good form by Mrs. Barnes, while "The Spirit Flower," by Mrs. Webb was clear and true.

Miss Gertrude Hoerber of Portland assisted with violin numbers which were well received, while too much praise cannot be given to Miss Gladys Taft for her work at the piano, both in her solos, and also her careful sympathetic accompaniments.

The members of the choral club were: First Sopranos, Mrs. J. I. Eggman, Mrs. C. E. Allen, Mrs. E. G. Webb, and Mrs. H. M. Barnes; Second Sopranos Mrs. R. B. Denney, Mrs. D. C. Howard, and Mrs. L. R. Dean; Altos, Mrs. Walter Harris, Mrs. R. T. Weills, Mrs. F. L. Spencer, and Mrs. J. E. Davis.

Next Monday evening, June 15, the adjourned meeting of the Common Council will be held, when street improvement petitions and other matters of interest will be acted upon.

LETTERS

From Our Readers

Last week we printed a letter from a Beaverton boy on board the U. S. S. Mississippi, stationed at Hawaii.

The following is a letter written by another Beaverton boy to his parents. This boy is stationed on Coast Guard Rum Runner Patrol Boat No. 271, headquarters at Port Angeles, Washington.

Port Angeles, Wash., June 5, 1925. Dear Folks: I thought I was having it too easy to last, when we came up to Angeles this time I was transferred to the C. G. 271, so my address now will be the same but the number of the boat different. They are plugging everyone around, so I guess this is part of the shake-up that was coming off.

We had lots of excitement down at Quillayute about an hour after I wrote that last letter to you from there. We caught an auto load of moonshine and had just gone back to the boat when the fishermen told us about a boat that had gone ashore up the beach a ways, so we went up there, and it was an ex-runnner, and in the cabin we found the fellow who had been running it shot to death. Hi-jackers did it, I guess. The next day we were on our way back to Tatoosh Island and they had a wire from the Swiftsure light ship that they had picked up a man who had been lost last January and wanted us to come out and get him. We did and it sure was an unpleasant mess that we brought back with us.

Stuart Hanna.

BEAVERTONIANS ENTERTAIN SHRINERS

The Moolah Temple, the mystic Shrine, from St. Louis, Missouri, were the guests of some of the local people Wednesday. Eight cars left Beaverton to take these Shriners for a trip up the Columbia River Highway.

Those driving cars were Otto Erickson, Mrs. Erickson, "Doc" Evans, Guy Carr, Mrs. F. H. Schoene, Mrs. Doy Gray, Mrs. J. E. Davis and Mrs. Jansen, now of Hillsboro, but formerly of Beaverton.

Mr. Otto Erickson unloaded a car of McCormick-Deering Tractors Tuesday.

A good crowd, probably mostly Portland people, though some local faces were in evidence, attended the Bazaar at the new St. Mary's Home near Huber Sunday.

The Dead Letter Office is The Cemetery of Live Ideas Entombed in misdirected envelopes.

NORTH PLAINS CAPTURES GAME

Beaverton lost Sunday on the home grounds to North Plains. The first part of the game looked like a victory for Beaverton, but the long lead which they were able to pile up in the first part of the game was slowly but surely overcome toward the end, when the score stood four to eight in favor of the visitors.

The Beaverton line-up was somewhat changed. We saw Victor Emmons, "Snose" Halsten, Carl Desinger, and a pitcher that we did not recognize.

It seems that Beaverton is laboring under a streak of bad luck which is the only way we can account for loss of so many games, for the boys certainly put up a stiff fight and play a good game.

We hope for better luck next Sunday, when Beaverton plays at Laurel.

ERICKSON DEMONSTRATES TRACTORS

Friday, June 5, Otto Erickson and Co., demonstrated McCormick-Deering Tractors at the Farmington home of Edgar Reese. They plowed on an old meadow that had not been plowed for years, which had been used for a corral. The second demonstration was on the bottom of the hardest of gumbo soil.

The tractor pulled two 14-inch bottoms to a depth of 9 inches without any appreciable effort.

Mr. Reese was so well pleased with the tractor that he kept the plow and tractor on the farm.

There were seventeen other people interested in tractors present, and prospects for the sale of McCormick-Deering tractors are great, in Mr. Erickson's opinion.

"RED LIGHTS"

Sometimes the title that is given a story is the main cause of the story's lack of success as a means of popular entertainment or enlightenment. This occasionally happens in the movie world, though much more seldom, as generally trained "headliners" are hired to figure out and write proper titles for screen plays.

The headliner who wrote the title for "Red Lights," however, must have been reared somewhere where that term did not call up visions of the certain unnamable districts in cities. The photoplay, "Red Lights," has absolutely nothing to do with such districts. It is a mystery story of a new invention whereby the inventor was able to project different colored rays of light on any desired point without any trace of the origin of the rays being visible.

Some time ago the writer read an article by Merle Crowell, one of the foremost contributors to the best class of American magazines. In this article Crowell spoke of the "Birth of a Nation," "Cabrila," "When Knighthood was in Flower," and several other of the best and most popular photoplays. The writer has seen all of those he mentioned, and in his estimation the play "Red Lights" surpasses any of these.

One requisite of a good movie is the story. In "Red Lights" you have a gripping detective story. Another element which must not be omitted is the plot. In "Red Lights" there is a marvellous plot that you cannot unravel until the end of the last reel. The acting is unsurpassed. The "crime defector" is as strong a characterization as Sherlock Holmes. The photography is excellent. The films must have been hand colored, for by no other means could the vivid coloring have been brought out. You will miss one of the big things in life if you miss seeing this wonderful production.

The Lady Slipper Club gave a handkerchief shower at the home of Mrs. Wood last Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. C. E. Allen, who is soon to depart for an extended eastern trip. The time was spent in playing cards.

Sad Accident At Tobias Saturday

Richard Baldwin, Sixteen-year-old Son of W. P. Baldwin Fatally Burned While At Play.

A sad and distressing accident occurred Sunday afternoon when Richard Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Baldwin of Aloha, was burned so severely that he died from the effects Tuesday afternoon.

The boy had been away to the lumber camp and in some way had acquired a quantity of powder, which he was carrying in his pocket. He was amusing himself and other boys by stringing out a long line of the powder and watching it burn. He probably didn't understand that the oily nitro-glycerine would saturate his clothing and that it would become inflammable.

The parents, and people of the neighborhood had warned him that he shouldn't play with such dangerous substances but the warning was unheeded. Sunday afternoon he strung out a bunch of it and applied a match to it. The flames from the train ignited his clothing and from the calves of his legs to his armpits was burned to a crisp.

An emergency call was sent in to Dr. Mason, who rushed up there, and also to the St. Vincent's hospital, from where an ambulance soon arrived. They took the boy to the hospital, where he lingered along until three o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

OBITUARY

Richard Baldwin was born in Portland in 1908, the second son in a family of four, children of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Baldwin. He attended school in Portland, and later, in 1920 he moved with his parents to Tobias, where he graduated from the eighth grade in 1923.

That fall he enrolled in the Beaverton High School for a short time, but, not liking school, thought it better to get out and earn something.

He had been away from home a few days, and returned Saturday, June 6. His death was accidental, caused by burns sustained when his clothing took fire from a powder train he had been laying.

He died at St. Vincent's Hospital Tuesday at 3 P. M. The remains were taken to Finley's Mortuary in Portland, from which the funeral will be held Saturday at 1 P. M. Rev. Pratt of the Redville Presbyterian Church will deliver the funeral address. Interment will be in the Mt. Scott Cemetery.

PETERSON BROS. SELL GARAGE

The firm of Peterson Bros. is made up of Harley C. Peterson, Manager, and Frank W. Peterson of Walla Walla, Wn.

Harley started in the automobile business in Washington Co. in 1915, at that time selling Studebakers out of Forest Grove and in 1916 moved his business to Hillsboro and has been doing business in Hillsboro ever since. He has been in the automobile business in Washington County longer than any other dealer except Otto Erickson.

Harley without any question has sold more dollars worth of automobiles in the county than any other dealer. Since the 1925 Buicks came out he has sold $177,264.37 worth of automobiles.

It is with regrets that Harley quits the automobile and garage business, but his Doctors have advised, because of his failing health, that it is necessary for him to give up his active business and take a much needed rest.

His successor, Mr. V. Richter, is a well known Washington County man, having been for several years connected in an official way with the Standard Box and Lumber Company of Scofield, near Buxton.
