Electricity in Franklin's time was a wonder. Now we make light of it.

Many a bachelor has made a number of women happy by not marrying them.

Love is said to level all things—with the possible exception of the head.

One of the most popular words of education we have heard of is the sign-by-the-road.

The style of beauty that a man prefers generally depends upon the girl he happens to be with.

It doesn't save a cent of money for you when you laugh at the expense of some one else.

An old bachelor is said to bear a resemblance to a pair of scissors which has only one blade.

A woman always thinks that just another little hat can not possibly do him even a little harm.

The canary fills the home with song, but we have noticed that the stork isn't always so particular.

It's a funny thing that a homely baby is always said to resemble his father's people, is it not?

Whether "engine" is a masculine or a feminine word depends a great deal upan whether or not it Mrs.

A man in love is always blind until he finds that it is necessary for him to sew on his own buttons.

Among the fresh things to be found on a farm in the summer time are the boarders from the city.

We know of men who owe their success to the fact that they acted contrary to the advice of their friends.

Some people are so very popular that they could carry all their friends in a roadster and they would still have a seat to spare.

According to the latest reports from headquarters, no spokesman has as yet been appointed for the disc wheel dealers' committee.

We think that these "intelligence tests" are extremely silly. What comfort is there in knowing that the guy who hit you is noboob?

Reports have it that a fellow just crossed the continent in a stripped Ford. That's just another proof that a little bit will often go a long ways.

There's one thing which motorists and aviators have in common—the tree. The flier drops in on his way down and the driver stops off on his way up.

The page ad in last week's Review brings up the old question of the right of a publisher to accept any advertising matter he sees fit that is paid for by the advertiser.

The two sources of income for a newspaper is its subscription list and its advertising space. The subscription charged for any of present-day newspapers hardly pays for the paper on which it is printed.

It must follow that pay for the work, for the investment, for the actual support of a newspaper must come from its advertising space.

When the publisher makes application for the right to mail as second class mail matter he must state whether his publication is open to advertising of different kinds or whether it is to be used for the promotion of some particular project or proposition. If it is open for general advertising there is no question about the application for mailing as second class mail matter being allowed. If it is not open to advertising it must be continually scrutinized by the Post Office Department as to the contents.

We might compare selling advertising space with the sale of any other legitimate commodity. The fact that the advertisement for an automobile carries statements with which the editor does not agree is no legitimate excuse for his refusing space in his paper and we continually see such statements as "The most economical car," "The longest-lived car," and other superlatives applied to merchandise which is to be sold.

The Review has little choice in accepting copy for advertising. It can turn down and refuse to print scandal, libel, or anything furthering illegitimate enterprises, enterprises which are strictly against the law, but when Bull Run water was being advocated in Beaverton it could not have turned down an advertisement in opposition to the installation of that project, which carried almost unanimously.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Spoken From the Soul

Nick was the grizzle-headed factotum of an assembly room in a certain southern town. This story, which has to do with him, possesses one merit if it possesses none other—it has the merit of being true.

According to local gossip Nick was a sorely henpecked man. It was said that when displeased with him Aunt Effie, his mastodonic wife, had a way of tying his hands behind him and then correcting him with a bed slat. Sometimes she corrected him so thoroughly that he limped for a week afterward and sat down only on cushioned chairs. If there were no cushioned chairs handy he preferred to stand.

Yet Nick bore the secret of his domestic tragedy bravely. He never swore out a warrant for Effie; never publicly complained of the roughness of her disciplinary methods.

But, as the saying goes, the worm will turn, although why it should turn, seeing that a worm is the same on both sides, no one knows. Nick didn't exactly turn, but one time he did bare his inner convictions without exactly going into details.

Some ladies were decorating the assembly rooms for a wedding reception which was to follow the ceremony at the bride's home and Nick was helping them.

"So they's fixin' to have 'nother marriage, is they?" said Nick, half to himself as he unraveled an armful of southern smilax. "Well, seems lak folks will keep on gettin' married." He fetched a soft, pensive sigh under his breath.

One of the ladies overheard him. She knew something of the life Nick was said to lead in the privacy of his home. Mischief led her to speak.

"Why, Uncle Nick," she said, "you surely haven't any grudge against marriage, have you?"

"Oh, none, not fur other folks," said Nick. "But, Miss May, speakin' fur myself in strictes' confidence to you, I'll jes' say dis: Ef I wuzn't, I wouldn't."

Drink Water If Kidneys Bother

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quar of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

VALUABLE HOUSEHOLD RECIPES AND SUGGESTIONS

Master Recipe—1 cup water or milk, scalded, 1 tablespoon melted shortening, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, one-half compressed yeast cake dissolved in one-fourth cup lukewarm water, between 3 and 4 cups of flour. Put sugar, shortening, and salt in scalded liquid; let it stand until lukewarm, then add dissolved yeast and flour gradually, beating until too stiff to stir. Turn on moulding board and knead in remaining flour until mixture is smooth, does not stick to the hands or board, and bubbles may be seen under the surface. Return to well-greased bowl, brush dough over with melted shortening, cover, and allow to rise in a warm place to twice its original size, then knead down in a bowl and let rise again. This second kneading, after the dough has risen once, gives a much finer grain to bread and should always be used. When dough has again risen to double its size, it will be ready to shape into loaves or rolls. Place loaves in well-greased pans, having them about half full. Brush both bread and rolls with melted shortening, let them rise again to double their size, and bake in a hot oven about 45 minutes for the medium-sized loaves, and from 20 to 30 minutes for rolls, according to size.

This quantity of dough is for one large loaf of bread or pan of rolls. With one-half yeast cake used to each half-pint measuring cup of liquid, bread can be made and completed, if kept in a warm room, in about 5 hours. If a longer period be given to the rising process less yeast will be required. One-quarter yeast cake to each cup of liquid will be sufficient if dough is set over night. In either case the same method of preparation is used. If home made yeast is used it will take the place of liquid, handle the same as for compressed yeast.

If milk is used, scalding, while not essential, is an absolute test of its freshness. If scalded, cool to luke-warm, or it will kill the yeast plant.

Election Cake—When preparing the Master Recipe for bread or coffee cake, reserve enough dough to make 1 loaf of cake. To this dough knead in 2 tablespoons softened butter or substitute, one-half cup sugar, 1 egg, beaten, one-half teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Dredge one and one-half cups seeded or seedless raisins and one-half cup shredded citron with flour. It may be necessary to add a little flour to the dough in order to handle it; however, avoid this if possible. Let rise in a warm place until very light, then bake about an hour in a moderately hot oven. Cut seeded raisins in pieces with scissors

Parker House Rolls—Prepare the Master Recipe. After the dough has risen to double in size the second time, roll into a sheet about one inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter, then with the handle of a knife dipped in flour press lightly through the center of each roll, brush with melted shortening, fold over and place close together in a well-greased pan. Set in a warm place until light, then bake in a hot oven. When baked, brush over with melted shortening or the unbeaten white of an egg. The egg-white gives a high glaze.
