

THE BEAVERTON REVIEW

CLEAN READING FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Volume III, Number 50

Single Copy, 5 Cents

Beaverton, Washington County, Oregon, Friday, November 13, 1925

$1.00 Per Year

Town Caucus

Tuesday Night

Meeting Will Be Held In Little Brown Jug for Purpose of Nominating City Officials

Next Tuesday night, November 17, the citizens of Beaverton will hold a Town Caucus for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for Town officers to be voted for at the coming Town election. Candidates will be nominated as follows: One Mayor, to serve one year; one Councilman to serve two years, and one Recorder-Treasurer to serve one year, and the transaction of any other business that may come before the meeting. Arrangements have been made with E. J. Hecox to hold said caucus in the Little Brown Jug Tuesday night, Nov. 17 at 7:30 P. M. All citizens are urged to be present and help nominate the Citizens' Progressive ticket. The Tunnel is coming! Beaverton must be ready for 5,000 people in 1930!

"COLD WINTER"

BATTLE RAGES

Oregon farmers are being warned against placing faith in forecasts of an extremely cold winter ahead to be followed by an unseasonable summer in 1926. The winter may be extremely cold and the summer unseasonable, but scientists have no means of telling it at this early date. A week is the longest dip possible into the weather future. Neither is there reason for believing that the winters in this section are no longer so cold nor the summers so hot as formerly, according to weather bureau figures running back three decades. The mean December-January-February temperature over the decade 1895-1904 was 41.9 degrees. For the decade 1905-1914 it was 49.3; and for 1915-1924, 40.4 degrees, a difference in the total range of 4.8 degree. The mean temperature for the same three winter months or last year was 40.5 degrees.

Snows that lay on the ground for months on end, skating that began in November and lasted until March, snow drifts that reached almost any height one might mention, were the exceptional occurrences in grandfather's day as they are today. One mild winter starts the rumor that overcoat manufacturers had better go into the Palm Beach suit business, while an extremely cold winter is dubbed as a good old-fashioned winter. One explanation for this is that memory is tricky and recalls the exceptional rather than the average. Another is that modern living has taken the edge off the extreme weather. A snowfall that our forefathers would have trodden under foot for days now is shovelled away before we get up in the morning. Better heating, too, makes us feel the low temperature less, and electric fans and ice refrigerating plants make extremes of heat more endurable.

While the weather is constantly changing from one year to another, big climatic changes are too gradual to be observed in the lifetime of one or even a hundred generations. Scientists figure that the climate of this continent has not changed in some ten million years, not since the passing of the glacial period, and probably will not for another ten million.

NEW ORCHESTRA WILL MAKE APPEARANCE

The Sunday evening service at the Bethel Congregational Church will be marked by the introduction of the recently formed orchestra. This organization, while still in its formative state, gives promise of becoming a well balanced musical aggregation, and will add a good deal not only to the musical life of the church, but to the community as well.

The Rev. Geo. N. Taylor will preach again both morning and evening, morning services starting at 11, and evening at 7:30.

OREGON STATE NEWS

Over $80,000.00 was spent on municipal improvements at The Dalles this year.

The Sunset Smelter Company is building a fifty-ton ore smelter at Gold Hill.

The Menasha Woodware Company plans to build a large plant at North Bend.

Building permits issued at Salem during the month of October reached a total of $79,650.

A new tile and concrete edifice is being built in Wheeler. It will be occupied by a shoe store.

A new garage, one hundred feet square, will be erected in Cottage Grove at a cost of $20,000.00.

Klamath County's experimental crop of sugar beets yielded 2,400 tons. The crop is worth $8 a ton.

Two thousand men are busy on the Southern Pacific Nalron cut-off. They have only 25 miles of track left to lay.

Following the taxpayers' demand, the City Council of the city of Astoria cut the budget for the year 1926 $16,400.00.

The old stage barn at Myrtle Point will be rebuilt into a modern business house, according to plans now being completed.

The Daddy Lode Copper Company of Baker will prospect for six months on some promising copper property situated near Baker.

The contract has been let for a new school building at Cascade Locks, to be erected at a cost of nearly sixteen thousand dollars.

A union high school district is being planned at Hubler. At present seven school districts are planning on joining the union district.

A report from Powers states that there has been a revival of mining interest all through that district. Phaser mines, on Johnson Creek employ about a dozen men at present.

The following figures were submitted: Walker Road Division: Kelly Road, 2 mills; McKinley Road, 1 mill; General Repair, 2 mills; and Ludgren Road, 1 mill; or a total of 6 mills for Walker Road. The other committee recommended Barnes Road for General Repair, 4 mills; or a grand total of 10 mills.

A vote followed and the 10-mill levy carried 16 to 11. The meeting adjourned.

We wish to thank our many friends for their acts of kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved husband, father and brother, and also for the many beautiful floral offerings.

The Welch family.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Interesting Little Notes from the Surrounding Country as Told by Our Active Special Correspondents Weekly

SKOOKUMVILLE NEWS

J. D. Trachsel sold a Jersey cow to Mr. Shellberger Monday.

The German Baptist Church will give a program Sunday, Nov. 15.

The new song books arrived this week. A glee club will be organized next Monday.

Winifred Berst was promoted to the 3rd grade at school this week—and she made good.

Roy Berst purchased slating for the blackboards at school Monday. The painting will be done this week.

The Pacific Fruit and Produce Company purchased 200 sacks of onions of J. D. Trachsel this week.

Subscribe for the Beaverton Review. Keep posted on "What's doing around Skookumville." Subscription price $1.50 per year.

Notices have been posted for the Annual Budget meeting of School District No. 57 to be held at the Barnes Schoolhouse Saturday, Nov. 21, at 1 o'clock P. M.

John Barry was busy digging potatoes Friday. Potatoes will be high this winter. The Irish will be wearing the small ones for watch charms by St. Patrick's Day!

The Annual Budget Meeting for Road District 26 was held last Saturday at the Barnes School House at 2 P. M. John Trachsel acted as Chairman, and Peter Johnson was chosen as Clerk.

The call for the meeting was read. The chairman appointed Mesdames Jenkins and Young, and Jack Jenne, the budget committee for the Walker Road and Messrs. Peter Johnson, Peterson, and Westhoff for the Barnes Road.

The following figures were submitted: Walker Road Division: Kelly Road, 2 mills; McKinley Road, 1 mill; General Repair, 2 mills; and Ludgren Road, 1 mill; or a total of 6 mills for Walker Road. The other committee recommended Barnes Road for General Repair, 4 mills; or a grand total of 10 mills.

A vote followed and the 10-mill levy carried 16 to 11. The meeting adjourned.

We wish to thank our many friends for their acts of kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved husband, father and brother, and also for the many beautiful floral offerings.

The Welch family.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

TIGARD NEWS

The next meeting of the local grange will be held in their new hall, which has been completed.

The Rebekahs held their annual bazaar and dinner last Saturday. A program was given in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Salygaber of Bremerton, Wash., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Rue of Greenburg last week.

Petitions have been signed and filed to form a union high school district at Tigard out of the Metzger, Bend, Durham, and Tigard districts.

The schools were closed on Thursday and Friday of last week. The teachers were attending the County Teachers' Institute held in Hillsboro on those two days.

CAPITOL HILL

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hatton spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. McCullen at Estacada.

Capitol Hill now has a bus line service from Portland. A bus goes from Capitol Hill to Portland every hour.

Mrs. La Vey Kohlbase entertained last Saturday evening with a Halloween party for her daughter, Edith Vey, and her friends.

"Open night" will be held by the school on the evening of November 20th. A program will be rendered and refreshments served. Everyone is invited.

The Bill Brownies participated in the play "The Legend of the Stars," staged by the Portland Girl Scouts at Lincoln High last Saturday afternoon.

MULINOMAH ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Woodhouse visited in Eugene several days last week.

The country home of J. A. Johnson was the scene of a jolly Halloween party in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Esther Beaman.

Among the events of Halloween an outstanding one was the delightful card party and dance given by the Masons on Saturday evening, October 31.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McConnell entertained a group of friends and relatives at a very enjoyable house warming party in their new home Tuesday evening.

Thomas hall was the scene of a merry dancing party Halloween night given by the Powell, Bush, and Goffman families. About eighty guests were present.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

LETTERS

From Our Readers

Portland, Oregon, November 5th, 1925. To the Editor of the Beaverton Review: I see in your paper notice of a Special School Election to raise $6,000 for auto busses. In one paper it is said additional pupils will pay for the service. Now it is a proposal to tax the district.

Why not allow the parents to do something for their children? I see men going to work here. One will have a machine, and he picks up a bunch, and carries them for a small sum. Parents pay for a lot of these young people coming with them to school, and should do so up there.

A Taxpayer, T. B. Killin.

GARDEN HOME

Friday evening, November 13, at 8 P. M. the Kilbourne musical family will put on a musical entertainment at the clubhouse.

The Women's Neighborhood Club will give a hardtime dance at the clubhouse Saturday evening, November 21. There will be appropriate prizes and refreshments.

HILLSBORO NEWS

Rev. L. C. Poor, of the local M. E. Church, will speak this afternoon at the Women's Coffee Club meeting. His subject will be, "The American Home."

Paving and macadamizing of the city streets of Sherwood for the 1925 season, are practically completed, according to Beaton Bowman, city attorney.

Minerva J. Shirley is suing for divorce from Joseph P. Shirley, charging cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple were married September 5, of this year, at Vancouver, Washington.

County Judge E. J. Ward and Market Roadmaster G. D. Jones spent Saturday in Salem discussing Washington County road projects for 1926, with officers and engineers of the state highway commission.

The annual bazaar and dinner of the Bethel Ladies' Aid of the Congregational Church will be held in the new Church Friday evening, Nov. 20th. Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 8 o'clock, after which a program will be given.

Everyone is invited. Come and bring your friends. The ladies will appreciate the same generous patronage that their friends have accorded them in the past.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

UNIVERSITY HOMECOMING TO BE FULL OF INTEREST

(By Cecil D. Emmons) The students of the University of Oregon are putting forward a great deal of effort to make the Homecoming to be held November 12, 13, and 14, the best Oregon has ever had. The University wishes every citizen, whether an Alumnus or not, to come and share in the celebration and get acquainted with the University students.

The central event of Homecoming is to be the Oregon-O. A. C. football game. This game is always of interest to all the friends of the two colleges, especially to the old "Grads," because the outcome cannot be forecast.

Friday evening the Pajamarino Parade and fireworks will take place. Starting from the top of Skinner's Butte, the torchlight parade will wind its way down the hill and proceed up Willamette street, turn on Eleventh, and to the bonfires on the campus. Here the "Beaver and Drum" ceremonies will take place, and the bonfire will be lighted.

After the bonfire the procession will go to the Woman's Building for the rally. It is planned to go back to the old-time kind of rally used fifteen years ago. The usual stunts will take place, and speakers of the type of Charles ("Beauty") Robison of Astoria, will talk. After the rally a smoker will be held in the Men's Gym, where everyone will have a chance to speak and the usual boxing and wrestling will take place. Some snappy bouts will be put on.

The women will be entertained by the Women's Club of the University.

Saturday morning the Alumni meeting will be held from 9 to 10 o'clock. At 11:30 the Campus Luncheon will be served under the trees on the campus. On the old campus each of several trees is to represent five classes from 1878 down.

Saturday afternoon the meeting of the football teams of O. A. C. and Oregon will be the biggest event of the homecoming. Rally stunts before the game have been planned. In the evening an Alumni and upperclass dance will be held in the Woman's Building. This will not be a formal dance. Those not attending the dance will be entertained at the Alumni Hall.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the Mortar Board, Senior Women's honorary, will give a breakfast at the anchorage. In the afternoon vespers will be held at the Music auditorium. Reverend Walter T. Sumner, Episcopal Bishop of Oregon, will preside.

The University expects that there will be 1,000 people present at the Homecoming.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

Old Resident

Passes Suddenly

William Welch Came to Beaverton in About 1866 when a Boy; Lived Here Ever Since

William Welch was born on a farm near Peoria, Ill., April 15, 1864, the oldest of a family of 4 boys and 2 girls, the children of Michael and Margaret Welch.

When only a small child 2 years old his parents brought him to Oregon. They settled on the farm which William has occupied ever since, about a mile north of Beaverton on the hill and in plain sight from almost every spot in town. The farm was part of the Lacer Donation Land Claim.

William went to school with many of the old time residents here in Beaverton in a little schoolhouse that stood near the corner of what is now 1st and Washington Sts.

He married Nora Carrig Oct. 23, 1906, to which union two daughters were born, Margaret and Agnes, who are now living at home but are employed in Portland.

He has always been healthy, robust, and has never been sick to speak of until he was taken with a stroke of paralysis Oct. 31st, from which he was unable to survive, the stroke being brought on, apparently, by high blood pressure. He was buried Saturday from the St. Cecilia Church, Father O'Neil administering the last rites. He was laid to rest in the Cedar Mills Cemetery. W. E. Pegg had charge of arrangements.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Kate Maloney and Mrs. Mary Simmons of Portland; and one brother, John Welch of Beaverton; his wife, Mrs. Nora Welch, two daughters, Margaret and Agnes.

He has always been a good neighbor, kind and highly esteemed in this community, a kind father, true friend, and a good citizen.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.

What thoughts were in their minds, It would be hard to spell; What pains were in their stomachs, I'd rather guess than tell.

And through the long night, Until the rising of the sun, They groan, but with the consolation Of a duty well done.