WHO DOES IT JUST LOVE HOT BREADS?

Probably your family is fond of hot breads in most any form. Most families are. Tuck these variations of the Muffin Master Recipe in your cook book and treat the family to them often.

Muffins really are the easiest quick breads in the world to make. Just mix and sift the dry ingredients, adding the liquid and melted fat to the beaten eggs, then combine the mixtures. The less stirring and mixing, the lighter and finer the grain of the quick bread will be.

CHRISTMAS MORNING
 —THE MAGIC PILLOW

THE serene, hushed silence of the hospital was of utmost contrast to the turbulent, rushing, noisy jostling crowds elbowing their way along the well-filled thoroughfare.
 The comfortable, even temperature of the hospital contrasted singularly with the blustering, crisp, wintry, typically Christmas weather outside.

The silence of this huge, white building was broken now and then by the soft, though swift footsteps of three or four busy young men. The patients in the free ward who were well enough, wondered what it all meant.
 Two youths in particular were interested in the coils of wire and cones of these men. They secretly hoped that they might be up and bustling about, shortly, as these lads were. It is not strange that two normal boys would be interested in being up and busy with crisp Christmas air and inspirations floating about. A free ward is a bit dull.

Bill occupied the last cot in the south end of the room, and Jack was on the cot at Bill's left. The next morning, Christmas morning, Bill woke, listened a moment, then rang for the nurse. In his excitement he roused Jack.

"Jack, are we alive? I hear bells, chiming, singing."

"Well, I heard it, too, when I had my head on the pillow, but now that I have lifted my head up, I don't hear it."

The nurse arrived, beaming with smiles. When questioned by the excited boys, she answered, "The boys in the radio class at the high school in back of us here, thought they would surprise you, and I guess they did.
 The head phones worked fine. Perhaps you would like to talk to those boys who installed your set. They are tuning in. I will get them."

Jack and Bill could not contain themselves. "A radio, how wonderful! The days won't be half so long."

CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR THE SHOP GIRLS

THE woman made a leisurely survey of the vast outspread of Christmas goods, then turned to the girl behind the counter.

"You must have a Christmas feeling in here," she congratulated. "I almost envy you, my dear. That group of school girls did seem so happy over something."

It was early, with very few customers. The woman talked at the counter ten minutes or more, then was conscious of a low, peculiar whistle.

The counter girl flushed anxiously and moved straight toward the office of the room manager.

The customer went on a few yards to another girl.

"What is it?" she asked. "my talking with her? She is a nice girl."

"Janie is awful nice, paying a student's expenses at school, and supporting her mother. 'Tity the room manager wants her job for another—but please don't be seen talking to me any more. I—I can't risk losing my place."

"Why, my poor child! I should be seen buying instead of talking. Um!
 And down by the door a girl said that this store stops salaries on vacations."
 "Um!"

The girl Janie was just coming from the office, crying.

"Fixed some did they?" snapped the customer, frowning. "Tell me how?"

"Here—here," fumed the floor manager, at the door. "Our discipline—er, why Mrs. Walte, I—I didn't recognize you in that plain dress. It's—er, all right. Nothing will be done. And —and don't mention it to Mr. Hall. It might—er, lose me my—head."

"Might be a good thing for the help, too," ungraciously. "Now, look here, Janie is to have a new position, at half salary extra, as sort of room boss to go round and talk with customers and help smooth out their peoplexities. And vacations of all the girls are to be taken with salaries continued."

"Or I shall change my custom to a more humane store. Have a talk with the owners. Tell them the alternative.
 They will jump to do it. No, Janie," at the girl's wondering look, "I don't own a cent of stock; just supposed to be the largest customer. And—er, I'm trying to make all you girls a Christmas present."—Frank Herbert Sweet,

ELECTRIC SQUIBS

ROUT JACK FROST

The most recent application of electricity to agriculture is the use of the electric squib as an orchard guard against freezing.

The squib, a small sparking device designed to set off blasts and flashlight powders, is attached to each of the oil pots under the fruit trees. The squibs are all connected to a battery and to a thermostat.

When the temperature approaches the danger point of frost at which the thermostat has been set, an electric connection is made, all the squibs go off and the oil pots, sometimes hundreds in a single orchard, are lighted.

The heat from the pots prevents freezing of the trees and the crop is saved.

SAVES PENNIES FOR CAPITAL CHRISTMAS

"MRS. HULL has a capital plan of saving and giving Christmas capital which she calls her 'fancy fund,' because she uses it exactly as she wishes, with no drawing on the regular family income." Mrs.
 Hull explained enthusiastically to her friends at an afternoon tea.

"The day after Christmas Mrs. Hull begins saving pennies that come into her hands through the year. She places them in a toy bank and adds six per cent interest at the end of the year. If she has saved ten dollars in pennies she adds sixty cents, which she says pays postage on her Christmas parcels. She always has a fund for Christmas. For she has never acquired the 'penny habit of giving' to church activities. Last year she divided the 'fancy fund' among her nieces and nephews, with instructions that the small amount was to be placed in saving and to be added to, or used as capital to compile more capital. The results were interesting, for each recipient must always keep that amount in reserve for a future savings account.

"Once Mrs. Hull purchased seeds and bulbs and distributed them where they would be appreciated; once she subscribed for magazines which rotated among a large number of readers, some in public institutions. Another time she ordered toys, games and books for a children's home; a small year she procured dozens of small dolls, with remnants for clothes, to send to a needy mission school.
 Once she sent hundreds of greeting cards, and once scores of inspiring mottoes to places where such things are seldom seen. Her mother one year received a fresh bouquet or a plant every few weeks during the year. This year her husband, who promised her his pennies, has added to her 'fancy fund.' She has over twelve dollars with the interest, and she has figured she may spend twenty-five cents each week during the year in making someone happier—fifty-two weeks of sending Christmas cheer! As ideas and opportunities present themselves each week she will use the fund. The first week she invited a homesick college boy into her home to spend the weekend.

"It seems to me that Mrs. Hull is accumulating more than cold capital in her penny plan. She is establishing a 'bank of blessings' with unlimited 'reserve funds of love,' which compounds interest at a rapid rate and pays one hundred per cent."

"Divine-like dividends," Mrs. Leigh answered softly.—Gertrude Walton.
