We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

There's nothing like short skirts to make men look down on women.

Is a woman who is elected to Congress a statesman or a stateswoman?

Santa Claus had better leave his sleigh behind this year and come in a coal wagon.

A man isn't necessarily a live wire just because he happens to be full of juice.

A woman's declining years come before the age of thirty. After that she is glad to accept.

Doctors advise sleeping with windows open the year round. We suppose burglars also favor it.

It is our experience that the man who hesitates is lost—but the woman who hesitates is not only lost, but extinct.

We know a man who, when the ambulance came, wouldn't give his right name because he thought it was the patrol wagon!

A great many people seem to enjoy the crime news more when there happens to be a preacher mixed up in it somewhere.

A young bride of Beaverton recently sent her hubby to the grocery store to get her some soap so that she could wash the lettuce.

There's a couple living in Hillsboro who run a cleaning and dyeing establishment. He has a poker joint and she sells bootleg whiskey.

Most folks resent the attempt of the law to act as guardian in preventing them from losing their money on games of chance.

MAYBE THIS FITS YOU

A man stuck out his hand to pet a bull dog the other day. He wanted to find whether the dog was gentle or not. He wasn't.

Another fellow, driving an auto, tried to beat a train to the crossing. He didn't.

Still another fellow looked down the business end of a gun to see whether it was loaded. It was.

And yet another fellow stopped advertising to see whether his business would continue to grow. It didn't.

(From the Beaverton Hummer)

It was Thursday, Dec. 17. Nervous students, some proud, some conceited, others timid and bashful, stood waiting for the click of the camera. Some had shining hair, others new marcels, all had smiles, which plainly told that his would be the best picture in the history of the Student Body.

As they later took their places class by class they were a little more hopeful that they would look better yet. When the pictures were brought back the next day everyone showed he was right in his conviction. It was especially noticed among the Seniors who wore perpetual smiles and viewed and reviewed their likenesses for the last time. It was rumored that the Girls' Glee Club picture was the best. No wonder—they had three chances.

Any secret dissatisfaction, we are sure, was overcome by the gift to the High School of a Student Body picture by the photographer.

We learned one lesson from this outcome that among the many things you can't change is your face.

VALUABLE HOUSEHOLD RECIPES AND SUGGESTIONS

CREAM SOUPS

All soups are of two classes—those which are made with meat as a foundation, or what we call soups with stock, and soups without stock. The latter class includes the heavier or more nourishing types of soups, cream soups, purees and chowders.

Cream soups are variations of our White Sauce Master Recipe. They use the proportions of fat and flour for Thin White Sauce. These soups are the most nourishing of all and with bread and butter make a substantial lunch or supper. For a luncheon or informal dinner such a soup may well be served as the first course. Thus the dinner itself will not require as much of the more expensive foods.

All vegetable cream soups are a combination of a white sauce, vegetables, and seasonings. The vegetables may be diced, shredded or sifted. Water in which the vegetables are cooked may be used as a part of the liquid. It is better to drain the liquid from any canned vegetables as it is likely to give a "canned" taste to the soup.

Thin White Sauce—One pint milk, 2 tablespoons flour, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Blend flour, fat and seasonings, cook until it is frothy, then add cold milk gradually, stirring constantly, and heat to scalding or until creamy.

Cream of Tomato Soup—Prepare Master Recipe. Heat the following to scalding and simmer five minutes, then remove the bay leaf and onion.

Two cups stewed tomatoes, 1 or 2 leaves bay leaf, and one slice onion.

Just before serving, add tomatoes gradually to the white sauce. Do not cook after combining mixtures. Made in this manner the soup will not curdle.

Pea Soup—Double the Master Recipe. Cook the following together and put through a chopper or strainer. Two cups of peas, one teaspoon onion. Add the hot white sauce, reheat and serve with croutons.

Croutons—Cut stale bread in one-fourth inch slices and remove crusts. Spread thinly with butter on both sides. Cut into small cubes, place in a pan and bake until dry and a delicate brown, having a slow oven.

Cream of Corn Soup—Double the Master Recipe. Scald two cups canned corn, or use two cups cooked corn, removed from cob, put through strainer and add to hot white sauce. Reheat, season and serve.

Bean Soup—Double Master Recipe. To the hot white sauce add two cups of whole cooked beans. (They can also be split or mashed.) Reheat season and serve.

Cream of Celery Soup—Double the Master Recipe. Cook celery which is cut is one-half inch pieces and add two cups of the cooked celery to hot white sauce. If celery to hot white sauce. If celery is cooked early, part of the celery water can be used in white sauce. Add celery and seasonings to hot sauce, reheat and serve.

Potato Soup—Double Master Recipe. Cook three cups diced potatoes, 1 tablespoon onion together. Mash and combine with hot white sauce. Season, reheat, and serve. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon chopped parsley on each serving.

Squash Soup—Double Master Recipe. Measure two cups of cooked squash and into it grate 1 tablespoon onion. Add the squash to the hot white sauce, reheat and serve.

Duchess Soup—Double Master recipe, using for the liquid 3 and one-half cups milk and ½ cup water from the vegetables. Two tablespoons onion, one-half cup chopped carrots, one-half cup grated cheese. Cook vegetables, and add them to the hot white sauce. Add cheese. Stir until melted. Pour gradually upon two or three beaten egg yolks, reheat and serve.

Berkshire Soup—Double the Master Recipe. Three cups of tomatoes, two teaspoons onion one cup corn, one-half bay leaf, three cloves, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup cream, two egg yolks. Cook vegetables, bay leaf and cloves together, strain and add soda. Pour into hot white sauce. Add cream and beaten egg yolks. Reheat and serve. Tomato soup may be made using this recipe and omitting corn, cream and eggs.

Spinach Soup—Double Master Recipe. Cut up spinach, bring to boiling point, and strain. Combine with hot white sauce, season, reheat and serve. All other greens may be used in the same way.

Peanut Butter Soup—Double Master Recipe. Moisten one-third cup of peanut butter with a small amount of the white sauce. Add mixture to the remainder of the sauce, season, reheat, and serve.

DO YOU KNOW?

(From the Beaverton Hummer)

That Jim Kimmey doesn't know enough to write the Do You Know column without the help of the whole staff?

That the Freshman class really wanted to have a Christmas entertainment?

What became of the 20 bags of candy, which mysteriously disappeared Friday night?

That Mr. Metzler's Chev. has run 27,000 miles and has never been overhauled, and that he is now trying to run it without gas?

That the production of the vaudeville seemed to bring down the average of a number of the active students?

That Pete Bous makes a better "Coon" than a white man?

That Milton Corum will pay a good price for Mildred McLeod's name?

That Myron Gray really IS a good basketball player—even if no one knows it.

That Byron Nichol can't quite forget that he is no longer a freshman?

Whether Evelyn Lichty and Donald Jackson are going to follow in the footsteps of their elders?

That B. H. S. has a very good looking bunch of Post Grads.?

What Miss Lanning wants for Christmas?

That we are on the home stretch of the first semester's exercitations?

That Curtis Tigard is the only boy of a class of twenty-three in shorthand?

That Helen Kearns would like a mamma doll, a tea set, a pop gun, a white elephant, a church steeple, some applesauce, and a safety-pin, for Christmas?

That Johnnie Livermore and Merwin Dant haven't grown up yet?

That the Glee Club girls are sporting stiff collars?

That there has been much mistletoe around the school lately?

That Myron Gray had a "loud Sox" day?

FARM REMINDERS

Red raspberry growers of Oregon who have had difficulty with western red raspberry rust and are removing old canes at this time, will find it practical to cut canes as close to the ground as possible. Much of the winter stage of this rust is carried over in small cankers at the base of old canes. In spring plowing all old leaves that are on the ground are covered. These 2 precautions go the farthest to control western red raspberry rust, says the O. A. C. experiment station.

Bacterial blight of filbert is the most destructive filbert disease in Oregon. Because of its germ character it is easily spread in young plantings by pruning, disbudding and suckering if no attention is paid to disinfecting hands, tools, or cut surfaces. Reimer's disinfecting solution is advised by the O. A. C. experiment station. The formula is one part mercuric chloride, one part mercuric cyanide, and five hundred parts of water by weight. This is prepared by the druggist.

Mineral mixtures are necessary for hogs if they are to reach their best development, advises H. A. Lindgren, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the Oregon Agricultural College. The use of mineral mixtures, because of the elements they contain that are required by the body, results in a better utilization of the other feeds. The most satisfactory results are obtained when minerals are kept before the hogs at all times. This can readily be done by means of a self-feeder. A liberal proportion of salt is contained in the best mixtures. A satisfactory combination is made up of two parts of common salt, one and one-half parts of bone meal and one-half part of air slacked lime.

ANNUAL SALES BIG SUCCESS

(From the Beaverton Hummer)

The Annual sale conducted by the Senior Class went over the top last week. The staff wishes to thank everyone who aided in making a success.

The individual prize winners were as follows: First prize, Helen Stiles, a gold fountain pen; second prize, "Hank" Gerrow, a Eversharp pencil; third prize, Hanna Young, a box of stationery; fourth prize, Edna Frewing, a box of candy.

The Sophomore Class will receive the pennant for selling their quota of coupons first.

It requires only three and one-half turns of the regulator to raise or lower the window of a Chevrolet coach.
