SEA HILLS

By DERNE BRIGHT

Dawn is on the dune-lands, on the golden sea-hills,
The wind is a crying voice over waters dim;
A scarf of silken sea-mist wraps the off-shore islands--
Beauty is a sea-bird slim.

Beauty lives and moves here among these golden sea-hills
Singing as a sea-wind under dawn-bright skies--
Silver as a sea-mist under slender pine trees
Beauty is a gull with grey eyes.

Boy Killed By Auto On Highway

Myron Stores Meets Death When Woman Loses Control Of
Speeding Machine

Mrs. Charles Rudeen of Long Beach, California, was speeding east on the highway just this side of Rock Creek Tuesday evening. Myron Stores and his brother were playing ball in the road. A quick application of the brakes, a sudden turn of the auto into the ditch. The machine turns over on its side. The boy is underneath the top of the heavy car. His neck is broken.

The car must have been speeding, though of course the driver says she was not exceeding the speed limit. The car skidded almost sixty feet before it toppled over.

The little chap had no business on the highway playing. The place is not a bad one, just this side of the upgrade coming this way from the creek. Probably the lady did not see the child until she had made the grade, the rise hiding him from sight.

Had the car not tipped over the boy would have been unhurt. Probably she did all she could to avoid the accident after she saw the boy. And all of us are too apt to step on it a little when going up grade.

The machine was a Studebaker Special and had regular four wheel brakes. They worked all right for the tracks of the skidding car could be plainly seen.

The only safe rule of the road is to have the car under such control that it can be stopped in half the distance the driver can see ahead. No number of miles per hour will do. Control of the car must be made the rule of the road before the highway can be made safe.

VAN KLEEK HENS STILL FIRST IN CONTEST

The W. A. Van Kleek Barred Rocks are still leading in the Washington Egg-Laying Contest. The five birds have laid a total of 635 eggs, ten more than the next highest pen, which has laid 625 eggs and which was in first place for the first three months. The J. J. and E. L. Van Kleek pen have a total of 601 eggs to their credit and stand in third place in the contest. The pens run as low as 237 eggs for the 191 days. The Trututype Farm in Seattle, Washington, merits this consolation prize. J. R. Maguire's pen from Portland, Ore., has laid 593 eggs. Dorothy Kleinsmith's of Canby laid 424. The Hanson Leghorns are from Corvallis and hold second place in this contest, giving Oregon first, second and third places against birds entered from all of the United States, Canada, and England. Of course, a large percent of the entries are from Washington and Oregon. A third entry from Beaverton is E. R. Stromquist, who has a pen of Buff Leghorns in the contest.

W. A. Van Kleek has second place in individual birds for 5 months, 4th place in highest value of eggs for five months, first and second place in individual birds producing the highest value of eggs for 5 months.
