

STILL WATERS AT SUNSET

By Derne Bright

Still waters at sunset
Guarded a gold-filled sky;
And three stood watching—
Silence—and you—and I.

Still waters at sunset. . .
And silence, silken shod,
Showed us the way to beauty,
To love—and God!

BEAVERTON H. S. HOOPERS TO BE IN TOURNAMENT

When the district basketball tournament starts at McMinnville the Orange shirted warriors from Beaverton high will be among those fighting for the honor of representing this district at the state championship contest to be held later.

Though the locals did not qualify directly for the tournament, the withdrawal of Hillsboro from the running caused the sponsors to look around for another team to compete. And due to their fine showing against the teams of the League, the locals were invited to take part.

The hope is against the Beavertonians as they have won only one League game this season, but the dope bucket has received some awfully vicious kicks and there is no telling what the Beavertonians may do.

Poulson's boys have played stellar ball all season but outside of a victory over the fast McMinnville team, they have lost every game they have played; all these defeats can be charged to their inability to find the basket.

Once they find that basket they are as good as anything in the League. If Beaverton finds that basket, they will go through with the tournament without difficulty.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS TO MEET HILLSBORO

The Beaverton debate team has accepted a challenge for a debate to be scheduled with Hillsboro in the near future. This is a new series and the system will be changed a little.

Heretofore the question for debate has been announced several weeks before the debate was held but the terms of the challenge were that no team shall know the question until twenty-four hours before the debate.

We think that this is an excellent plan in that it will eliminate much of the work connected with the preparation of a flawless argument, it will give both sides an equal opportunity to exhibit their abilities in impromptu and extemporaneous debating.

The question is likely to be one of current interest, one that our law-making bodies and legislatures are now arguing as to the action they must take yet there is a possibility that we may have an old question handed to us. But it is immaterial what the nature of the question will be. The debate team will equip itself with a horde of destructive arguments in the twenty-four hours. The team intends to put every possible effort into the preparation for the coming combat.

If Mr. Webb's suggestions carry, we will have only one team.

Lil Berg (bidding John goodbye)—"Are you going to send me violets every day?"

Johnnie L.—"No, I'll send you up a package of seed and you can raise them yourself."

Tunnel Amendment Held Up In House

"Filibuster" Methods Used to Delay Passage of Measure Until Adjournment

An ex-mayor of Portland Mr. A. G. Rushlight seems to have had the major part in giving the proposed Beaverton-Portland tunnel another delay. By means that would be denounced by almost any fair-minded person as the rankest kind of "filibustering" Mr. Rushlight used his position as chairman of the railway and transportation committee to get the engrossed copy of the amended bill where it could not be had until after the legislature had adjourned.

Directly after the decision of the supreme court that certain portions of the original tunnel bill were invalid, Senator W. G. Lane from this district introduced a bill into the state senate to amend the original bill so as to make it come within the constitution. The bill passed the senate and went to the house where it seems to have been referred to the committee on railroads and transportation.

It seems that the chairman of that committee had wanted a pet measure of his, the so-called plumbing bill (Rushlight, the chairman is a plumber) but as he plumbing bill was lost he took the occasion to defeat the amendment to the tunnel bill.

The amount of money that seemed to come from parties interested in property on Portland's east side, and the fact that Mr. Rushlight lives over here, too, gives rein to the imagination of what might have been the reward for the defeat of the tunnel bill.

Let it be said for Mr. Loyal Graham, representative from Washington county, that he made a determined fight to get the tunnel bill reported back to the house and even went so far as to move the arrest of the chairman of the committee who was not to be found and who had charge of the bill. This chairman had been present only a short time before Mr. Graham introduced his resolution to recall the bill from the committee.

It used to be said several years ago, when there seemed a big demand that the Government adopt a parcel post system that there were three big reasons why the people could not have parcel post. One reason was the Adams Express Co. another was the American Express Co. and another reason was the Wells, Fargo Express Co. It may be that there are even more than three big reasons why we can't have the tunnel though for the life of us we can't see them, anyway, not so readily as we used to see the big express companies.

They seem to be real reasons just the same.

BEAVERTON BIRDS AGAIN AMONG CONTEST LEADERS

The eighth Egg-laying contest held at Puyallup, Washington started November 1 and has just completed its fourth month.

The report for the month of January just came in, and in it we find the pen of Barred Rocks entered by W. A. Van Kleek holding second place being topped only by the Barred Rocks entered by Cedarbrook Poultry Farm of Seattle, Wash.

Our readers will remember that the contest seemed almost won by Mr. Van Kleek's Rocks but that they lost out right at the very end of the contest.

J. J. and E. L. Van Kleek also have a pen entered at the contest and are getting good returns, they holding fourteenth place in the whole three months (thirteenth place for the production of individual birds for the three months and fifth place for the production of individuals in January).

There are 1,200 birds entered by 100 different owners who live in many different states. Although the majority of the entries are from Oregon and Washington, with entries from Idaho, California, British Columbia, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Utah, Indiana, Michigan, etc.

RECORD AGAIN BROKEN AT COUNTRY STORE

The walls of the Beaver Theatre shook Tuesday night from the roars and roars of laughter when Mr. Hicks presented Mr. Carl Wildman with one of the supplies donated by the Sanitary Market as the surprise of the evening.

The beautiful floor lamp was won by Richard Tule. Mr. F. Bowman of Aloha won a 50-lb sack of flour donated by Mr. Anderson of Bethany.

The boys' square-hold contest to find the strongest boy of Beaverton caused so much comment among the men that Mr. Hicks has promised one for the men next week.

Mr. Stiles, who claims the championship in this particular feat of strength will pull the winner of the contest at a later date.

Mr. Hicks, not content with breaking one house record of attendance after another, is attempting to fill the house to standing-room-only by giving, not one, but three big blankets and promises the largest "country store" even held in Beaverton.

BEAVERTON MAN GIVES PRINCIPAL ADDRESS

Mr. Weed will speak next Sunday evening, March 6, at the Shaw Personal Message church at the corner of Tenth and Yamhill.

A number of Beaverton people are planning on attending the meeting Sunday evening.

OBITUARY

Nettie Lou Carter
Nettie Lou Carter, age 16, died of pneumonia at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Carter, in Seattle, Washington. The funeral services were held there Monday afternoon.

Miss Carter was well known here as she lived for two years with her aunt, Mrs. S. B. Lawrence, of Raleigh Station.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brown, of Garden Home, went to Seattle to attend the funeral. They returned Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Carter and daughter Genevieve.

Adelbert Merrill Spraner

Adelbert Merrill Spraner was born in Iowa, the son of Adelbert and Hattie Merrill.

He came to Oregon when about a year and a half old and when three years of age he was legally adopted by Arthur H. and Katherine M. Spraner.

He attended the Beaverton school and was active in athletics and an accomplished violinist.

He has recently been in Alaska and has spent about thirty months near Fairbanks.

While always active and interested in physical pursuits, he never seemed to have that particular something that seems to tell that a certain person is long for this world. For some months he had been coughing and went south for his health. Death found him in a hospital at Yuma, Ariz., where he was suffering from typhoid pneumonia. The remains were shipped here and the funeral held at Pegg's Mortuary, Monday at one o'clock, under the direction of the Christian Science church.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his foster mother, Mrs. Katherine Spraner, and his foster sister, Mrs. Van Rodman, besides an own sister, Mrs. Blanche Ryan of Portland and three brothers, James Merrill of Cascade Locks, and two others, Dewey and Polson Merrill whose address we have not learned.

Delbert was the type of youth that anybody could be pleased to call friend. Quiet and manly, yet at the same time with a gleam in his eye that told of strength of character.

He was a favorite with all his associates and well loved by all with whom he came in intimate contact. The world can ill afford to lose such boys as Del Spraner.

Frances Ann Hickey

Frances Ann Hickey was born in Iowa, April 15, 1864 and died at Aloha, Oregon, Wednesday night, February 23, aged sixty-two years, ten months and eight days.

Her family came to Oregon in 1865.

She was married to William J. Hickey on September 13, 1882. They lived in Oregon City, Portland and Aloha all their married life.

Mrs. Hickey was a good neighbor, a true and loyal friend and a kind and loving mother. She had been in poor health for two years but through all her suffering she was ever patient and cheerful.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides a large circle of friends two sons, R. J. and C. W. Hickey of Brightwood, Oregon, a daughter, Mrs. Ina E. Montgomery of Aloha and brothers and sisters Mrs. Sarah Rinearson, Gladstone; William T. and Richard Johnston and Mrs. Clara Patterson of Clackamas; Mrs. Alice Risley of Concord; and Jacob Johnston of St. Helens.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. H. Tetwiler of Aloha at the Finley Undertaking parlors in Portland Saturday, at 2:00 p.m., with interment at Lincoln Memorial Park.

Leland Shaw, of Beaverton, has been appointed a member of the construction committee for the Senior Ball, the formal dance given annually by the members of the senior class at the University of Oregon, by William Kidwell, chairman.

The decorations this year will be modern in spirit and setting instead of going back to other ages and countries, it is announced. Edgar Weichtman of Silverton, is general chairman of the affair and work is progressing rapidly under his direction.

Prowlers Enter Two Buildings

High School and Grocery Store Suffer from Night Visits During Past Week

Two burglaries the past week makes it look as though our town was becoming a real city. Not that we have not the number of people to justify us in being called a city but that we have a charter as we have designated this place a Town.

Thursday night of last week unknown parties attempted to break into the grade school but thought the barriers too stout so they went to the high school building and broke out a glass and entered. Nothing of any value was removed from the building but a filing cabinet was forced open and damaged considerably.

Monday night the Twentieth Century Grocery was entered and the "change" all taken.

The thieves gained entrance by prying off the padlock at the back door. The night lock on the regular door lock had not been fastened so that it was a comparatively easy matter to pry off the hasp and open the door.

The thieves went directly to the place where the cash had been hid and did not molest a thing only what had been used to cover up the money.

That looks as though the one who broke in had been watching where the money was put at the time the store was closed in the evening.

It is little wonder that the prowlers at the school houses could work unobserved but this grocery is in one of the most exposed places in town and at all hours of the night there are people around. The first intimation that the store had been entered was when the manager left his room to go to breakfast and to see what had happened. Nothing had been disturbed except the change box. There was a considerable amount of money in the cash register and varying sums in other places as the store is obliged to keep considerable amounts of money on hand to take care of its business. But none of the other places that money was placed was tampered with. Evidently the thieves didn't know of the other places or were frightened away or had been watching the change put in the particular spot where they went.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING

The Church of Christ is glad to announce to the people of Beaverton and the surrounding community, the coming of William R. Baird, of Santa Cruz, California, in an evangelistic meeting, beginning Sunday, March 6.

"Billy" Baird is an evangelist worthy of the name. His messages are simple, yet forcefully presented. Abounding in faith, he gives forth no uncertain sound. He does not compromise with sin, but calls upon the sinner to follow the way of salvation.

Hear this man. He preaches the old Jerusalem gospel without fear or favor.

Following are some subjects upon which he will probably speak:

"God's Masterpiece."

"Is The Bible An Inspired Book?"

"Who Was Jesus Christ?"

"The Most Neglected Piece of Real Estate in Beaverton."

"The Last Will and Testament of Jesus Christ."

"Why So Many Churches?"

"A Great Unanswered Question."

Services will be held every night except Monday, at 8 p.m. Start attending from the first and you will not say later, "If I had only known what I was missing, I would have attended sooner."

There will be special services on Wednesday, March 9, at 8 p.m. Remember the place, the Church of Christ, Corner of Second and Main streets, Beaverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Don't Shook, who have been in the home here for some time left Saturday for Chappelle, Neb.
