WOMAN, 92, BOASTS 308 LIVING HEIRS

Challenges Any Grandmother to Show Equal Record.

Ogden, Utah—Boasting that she has the largest posterity of any woman in the country, Mrs. Sarah Jane Taylor of Harrisville recently celebrated her ninety-second birthday. She has 298 living descendants, who include 8 children, 50 grandchildren, 189 great-grandchildren and 61 great-great-grandchildren.

She has challenged any woman in the country to show a larger number of lineal descendants and is anxious to correspond with any such woman.

Mrs. Taylor has been married twice, the first time when she was only sixteen. The marriage was with Bailey Lake, a fellow Mormon convert whom the young girl met on her way to Utah in 1850. They settled in Ogden where four children were born.

When the youngest was still a baby Brigham Young pressed Mr. Lake into service and sent him to Idaho to spread the Mormon gospel among the Indians. With the other Mormon elders at Fort Lemhi, Lake was attacked by Indians. The little girl, beset, begged, sent Lake as a messenger for help. He was ambushed and killed in the Malad mountains.

A few years later his widow was married to the late Pleasant Green Taylor. Six children, four of them still living, were born from this union. Mrs. Taylor was born in Port Gibson, Miss., November 12, 1834. She has the distinction of being one of the few remaining Mormons who crossed the plains in exerts in the early fifties. She was among the religious followers who left the northern part of the state and went south when General Johnston's army came to Utah to subdue Brigham Young.

Work is soon to begin on the Vale irrigation project.

AN OPPORTUNITY

The editor of a newspaper can help the community in a great many ways—if it has the confidence of the community. But if the editor has to stand on the street corner and get his impressions of the wishes of the community from what he hears on that corner, he is not very well grounded in his knowledge of what the community needs.

And in order that the editor may do his best for his community he must know where to locate the sources of information that he must have in order to express the desires, the ambitions, the ideals of the community as a whole. When he asks for information regarding this or that he must be supplied with accurate data, not with an array of suppositions or opinions.

The editor of this newspaper has never closed its columns to anything that was offered in good faith, with no axe to grind.

When this paper was first founded in 1922, there was an almost absolute ignorance of where what or why Beaverton, so far as surrounding communities were concerned. The "Mystery House" showed to a very small house because the Review was not informed of facts. The Tunnel Election carried because of The Review's efforts and there are a lot of other matters that are a credit to this community have been done because of the Review, not to mention that Portland is looking to the Valley to the West because the Review sponsored the adoption of a slogan you have often seen, which says in part, "Let Portland Grow West." Hard money went into the contest as a result of which that slogan was written.
