A Frock Straight from Paris

by Lucile

PARIS—Lucile combines two of her most recent successes the rainbow gown of pastel chiffons and Fanchon hose in this lovely costume.

The design illustrates the new kinetic silhouette, in which swift lines are achieved by a complexity of cut outlining to any save the most expert of technicians. The blue rose apricot and mauve tints of the great U-shaped motifs fall in flaring lines of graceful beauty which create a new and affable any whit of width to the figure. Lucile says great stress is on "artistic accessories without which this pastel ensemble would be incomplete. The celebrated modiste is the best of Parisian designers to create hosiery colors. Her Fanchon, a creamy flesh shade, is intended especially to complement any evening gown. With Maxine and Celeste also introduced by Lucile and manufactured for American women by the Halescroft hosiery company Fanchon is developed in chiffon so shadows that its consequence as a garment is chiefly in its ability to accentuate the natural beauty of the legs.

RAINBOW FROCK IN PASTEL CHIFFONS

With the flesh-colored hose are worn pumps of pale blue satin, a "thought never" than metal evening shoes which repeat the strongest contrasting color of the dress motifs. Huge ear-drops of pearl ice for the severity of the close outfit and reflect the varied colors.

Hay Cafeteria Service

Great-Hoebuck Agricultural Foundation

Our hay crop furnishes one of the largest cafeteria services in existence, according to the Sears-Hoebuck Agricultural Foundation. Seventy-eight million tons, it is expected, will be produced in 1927, a large part of which will be consumed by cattle. According to figures put out by the Department of Agriculture, 51.4% of this amount will be eaten by cattle, 44.6% by horses and the remaining 3.8% by sheep. The amount of hay eaten by horses is very slight, only a small fraction of one per cent of the total crop. As in the case of other feed crops most of this hay is consumed right on the farm where it is grown.
