Snappy Answer Left Honors With Johnson

Samuel Johnson, who received $7,875 for compiling his dictionary, had almost exhausted the patience of the booksellers by whom he was employed, and was frequently urged to complete his engagement. Andrew Millar, who had the principal charge of conducting the publication, could not forbear acknowledging the receipt of the last sheet of the manuscript in the following terms:

"Andrew Millar sends his compliments to Mr. Samuel Johnson, with the money for the last sheet of the copy of the dictionary, and thanks God he has done with him."

To which Johnson returned this brief answer:

"Samuel Johnson returns his compliments to Mr. Andrew Millar, and is very glad to find (as he does by his note) that Andrew Millar has the grace to thank God for anything."—Market for Exchange.

The Impossible

The late Albert J. Beveridge, statesman and author, hated divorce or, rather, he hated the offenders who who make divorce necessary.

Once, at a dinner in Indianapolis, the guests discussed with pity the case of a very admirable woman, the mother of seven young children, who found herself obliged to divorce her husband. There were obstacles, financial and other, in the way, and Mr. Beveridge said:

"A divorce like this is too bad, too impossible, difficult. It's like unscrambling an omelet to remove one bad egg."

Jungle Youth Restless

Youth also flames in darkest Africa. The Presbyterian board of foreign missions reports that evangelistic work in west Africa is becoming increasingly difficult. In the old days the boys and girls stayed at home and obeyed the tribal laws. Now they are chasing off to other tribes while still in their teens, and the dusky elders do not know how to handle them. Apparently this "revolt of youth" is going on in the jungle as well as in the United States.—Capper's Weekly.

Prehistoric people of Central America and Mexico used oil centuries before American oil wells were "discovered" and developed.
