PENDLETON ROUND-UP PASSES INTO HISTORY

One of the things of interest was the manner in which Pendleton, a town of some 8,000 inhabitants, entertained its visitors numbering probably 40,000. Just think what it would mean for every man, woman, and child in your town having to entertain five people for three days, or, we will say, every family, supposing each family to number four, to have to entertain 20 extra people. The spirit of cooperation shown, the good will, the organization, the willingness to get in and help, shown by everyone, are remarkable, and are some of the characteristics of the old West that are often forgotten. Long live the Round-Up!

BOOSTER CLUB TO MEET TUESDAY

The Beaverton Booster club will meet in the regular place next Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, J. W. Baynard is president of the club and Frank Dietsch is secretary.

To say nothing of the Rose Festival float, which was put on by the Booster club and which is seldom remembered now, two visible evidences of the club's contribution to the welfare of the community are the drinking fountains, one on Broadway near the crossing to the S. P. depot, and one on Front street near the corner of Watson.

This club is doing a good work and seems to be filling a very useful niche in the community.

OUT OF THE PEPPER BOX

It gives a man a feeling of superiority to compare himself with his wife's relatives.

A customer doesn't stand well with the bank when the latter has to carry him too long.

The Germans say to choose a frugal wife, but fail to say where such a person may be found.

Here's a recent expert definition of an expert, "A man who knows more and more about less and less."

The difference between workers and shirkers is far more than the sound of the words would indicate.

When a woman gets a permanent wave she usually prays fervently that it may sweep some man off his feet.

The one thing a wife will cheerfully admit to her husband is that she can't think of any reason for having married him.

In Chicago a society of married men has been organized to define and defend the rights of husbands. Here is evidence that a few men in the world have entirely lost the sense of fear.
