TOOTING OUR OWN HORN

I am the Home Weekly—The little old paper that welcomed you when you were born—watched you grow up, marry, become a parent, from a grandparent—Always recording your good acts and successes; Suppressing your evil deeds, condoning your misfortunes and failures, Rejoicing when you rejoiced, And sympathizing in your times of sorrow. Ready to boost you in any honorable enterprise, while slow to encourage projects of a doubtful character. Your friend and helper, but rarely appreciated. At a true value by those most benefited by my efforts, Read by everyone within my field of circulation—Whether they be paid subscribers or only pests who borrow me from their neighbors. Like the "poor" of the Scriptures—I shall always be with you. I am the Home Weekly.

Since the invention of the radio, Rosie calls "emstatic-stics."

An improvement in Mexican-American relations is due to Morrow.

Home? Oh yes, that's the place where the old man keeps his check book.

Campaign literature is fiction the plot of which is disclosed by the opposing party.

Tammany's love for the farmer is the best piece of political comedy ever conceived.

One reason savages stand the heat better is because they haven't any thermometers.

There are always more people a home than there is at the circus, even if the big top is filled.

A caddy has it on the golfer; he walks the same distance as his employer and gets paid for it.

The chap who went over Niagara with a guitar, but now a motor horn fetches them out more quickly.

A remedy for insomnia has been sent to America by a Berlin scientist. It will never be needed in Philadelphia.

A couple married fifty years were given a great many gifts and a big party by their friends. They certainly deserved it!

A seventy-year old beggar, found to be worth $25,000 refused a free bath. Evidently he felt he had done enough cleaning up!

The chap who went over Niagara in a rubber ball can capitalize his fame by using the ball to take pedestrians across the street.

Hell hath no fury like a stout woman who has been taking a reducing treatment, gets on the scales and finds she has gained five pounds in a week.

Generally speaking, all the man on the street cares about is that under a Republican tariff he has a job and under a Democratic tariff he hasn't a job.

We learn that a university man has worked his way through college by caring for a baby. Great numbers of them have flunked their examinations for the same reason.

A survey shows that in Detroit the liquor industry ranks second. The auto industry is first. Perhaps some of the moonshine finds a market as a substitute for gasoline.

Prince McBride of Manchester wins the fur-lined bathtub for endurance piano playing, having pounded the keys for sixty-five consecutive hours. The real heroes are those that listened.

One of the finest cartoons that has been published in some time is that showing a lot of Tammanyites rushing to save a struggling farmer who had fallen in the water. When the drowning farmer saw who was approaching him, he yelled back, "Go away, you fellows, I don't want to be saved."

A. B. See famous elevator manufacturer and anti-feminist, has written a book calling on men to revolt against the dominance of women. The man should rule the home, he says, and the vote should be taken away from women. Try and get it!

A. B. See also holds that education should be confined mainly to a thorough study of the alphabet. Evidently he wants to perpetuate his name in the schools!

In Confidence

Readers desiring a personal reply can address Miss Flo, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Miss Flo, I have been going out with a young man three and a half years my senior. I am of eligible age and he is one of the finest I could choose, with the exception of one trait—he is inclined to be a bit grumpy when the other fellows he is with cross his will.

I do not like this attitude. Can I possibly make him stop it? I rather hate to say this, but I wish you'd tell me if I have a right to. We have been to shows together several times and he is always telling me about his prospects, his future home and ideals and always asked my advice and generally if he were sure I was not joking, he would follow my advice. We have been wonderful pals.

He has a lovely mother, father, and brothers and a sister. He has said nothing of a further union but can see it coming in the way he looks at me. I like him very well at as yet there is no void in my heart when he goes away. You know what I mean? What will I do when the time comes to say Yes or No? PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled, as a good friend of the young man you are of course entitled to try to correct his faults. But do not become too nagging about it. Try to reason with him and how him how much better it would be if he were not grumpy.

You do not feel that "void" when he leaves—in other words you say you do not love him. In that case, your answer should be No. But I am inclined to think perhaps you do love him. The tone of your letter indicates more than a friendly interest in him.

Try to keep off the time for making a definite decision as long as possible, meanwhile getting to know him better and better. Perhaps after some time passes you will know whether or not you care to have him as a husband—then will be the time to say definitely Yes or No, and not before. Be sure before you give him an answer.

Dear Miss Flo, I am a young girl of 17, considerer good-looking. I like a boy of 19, and also another boy my own age. The boy my own age does not want me to see the other.

Should I obey him? I like the other almost as much as I like him. He thinks it is wrong for a girl to see two boys. What shall I do? SEVENTEEN.

Dear Seventeen, I think your young boy friend is very strange in his behavior. I see no reason why you at your age cannot have as many friends of both sexes as you wish.

Unless you are engaged to a boy it is always well to know a good many young men. Even if you are engaged there is no reason why you should not have all kinds of friends.

I would not listen to the person who tells you it is wrong to see more than one boy. Dear Seventeen, you are still young enough not to be yourself up definitely with one person. There will be plenty of time in which to do that later.

VARIOUS PLANS TO STEAL TIME AND MONEY FROM THE UNWARY

Bankers Association Official Tells How Young People Are Fleeced in "Hokum Pokum" Movie Schemes—The Investor Loses Savings by Listening to Messrs. Slick and Smooth.

By W. R. MOREHOUSE, Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

THE fabulous salaries paid stars of the first magnitude, and the publicity of the "movies" naturally create longing in the breasts of thousands of our young Americans to get into motion pictures. Because so many are ready to leave home, and risk everything on a fling at motion pictures, unscrupulous persons have devised ways of fleecing these ambitious young people out of their savings. "Hokum-pokum" schemes of various kinds are used with great success. Fake courses in the art of acting before the camera, fake courses on how to make-up, fake registration gags and screen tests, are among the schemes used to separate these thousands of young people from their cash.

The pilgrimage to the motion picture centers by thousands of novices usually ends disastrously for the pilgrims. Naturally a few are successful, but only a very, very few, the ninety and nine meeting with disappointment. The truth is, the number of persons who seek to "break into" the movies exceed the number of available positions by one hundred to one, while in the realm of popular stars it is thousands to one.

Don't be misled by the promises of promoters of hokum-pokum schemes that there is room for all, because this last year over 100,000 young people knocked at the door for admission and were turned away because there was no room on the inside for them. Consult your banker or address the National Better Business Bureau, New York City, for information or advice regarding any enterprise that seeks to gain possession of your money. They will give disinterested counsel before it is too late.

Also let every investor approached by either Mr. Slick or Mr. Smooth with a proposition yielding big dividends remember that such assurances always spell financial danger ahead. To every investor who is inexperienced in making investments, in other words perhaps just a little green and perhaps a little too easy, any offer coming from this source should be like a red flag warning to come to a complete stop.

Such investments as Mr. Slick or Mr. Smooth offer are too good to be true and therefore they are not true. Slick, Smooth and Company are not miracle workers although from their sales talk you would infer that they could make you rich as if by magic. No, they are not miracle workers—just slick and smooth.

The Estate Gag Twenty-four "estates" representing $14 billions of dollars have been used as bait to interest a lot of savers and finally bleed them of their savings. The scheme is built around a supposed search for the heirs to certain phantom estates. At all costs these heirs must be found. Every person who can by any hook or crook, figure it out that he is in anyway related to the deceased are urged by some chyster lawyer or genealogist to send in their names and their life history.

Soon they receive glad tidings telling them that their family tree can be traced back to the deceased, in fact, they are a direct descendant and an heir at law.

Like fake raffles everybody who responds to the search is found to be a winner—in other words an "heir." Here is where the rainbow chaser gets trimmed. Before his claim to the mythical thousands can be pressed so as to insure success a demand is made on him to advance attorney's fees and pay the expense of tracing through his genealogy.

Not surmising that he is being trapped and seeing only the big inheritance which he is led to believe he will soon receive, he draws the amount necessary from his savings account and sends it on, not knowing he is actually throwing it away. But he is for like thousands and thousands of other rainbow chasers, he parts with it for the last time.

So-called estate schemes which have produced thousands of "heirs" and a heavy loss to them have been worked under the following names: Baker $250,000,000; Chadwick $7,000,000; Edwards $90,000,000; Ingraham $500,000,000; Hyde $350,000,000; Jennings $400,000,000; Hodges $250,000,000; Kern $200,000,000; Leak $100,000,000; Shepherd $175,000,000; Trotter $200,000,000; Chase $1,800,000,000; Townley $500,000,000; Wybber $60,000,000; Wales $20,000,000.

Again, before parting with your money in any scheme you do not know all about consult your banker or a Better Business Bureau.

The Pilgrimage to the Movies

THE NEW FARMING ACCOUNT SCHOOL

The good business farmer today watches his farm accounts carefully. In respect to his labor, his farm bank and his soil, he knows what they can do and how they can be most profitably handled. He knows the mathematics of growing feed from the soil, pigs and poultry from the feed and cash profits from pigs and poultry. He knows whether he is milking the cow for spring returns or the cow is milking him out of his invested capital. Wherever his accounts show a deficit or insufficient profit on one or more items, he immediately studies to overcome the handicap and correct any mistakes that have been made.

The Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association is conducting a nationwide educational campaign for better methods of farm accounting. The commission has been stressing the wisdom of country bankers through cooperation of county agents, calling farmers together, and holding account schools where instruction is given on the use of the farm account books.

Each person is led through the various steps in keeping accounts and each enters his own inventory which he has previously been instructed to take and bring to school. This gives a good start and when properly followed up by letters and an occasional visit by the specialist in charge, greatly aids the man who is really in earnest to come through his first year of keeping accounts successfully.

Many times country banks offer the rooms for holding the account schools. In some instances, an employee of the bank is designated to assist farmer patrons during the year in keeping their accounts.

HOW TO GO BROKE FARMING

- 1. Grow only one crop. 2. Keep no livestock. 3. Regard chickens and a garden as nuisances. 4. Take everything from the soil and return nothing. 5. Don't stop quillies or grow cover crops—let the top soil wash away, then you will have "bottom" land. 6. Don't plan your farm operations. It's hard work thinking—trust to luck. 7. Regard your woodland as you would a coal mine, cut every tree, sell the timber and wear the cleared land out cultivating it in corn. 8. Hold fast to the idea that the methods of farming employed by your grandfather are good enough for you. 9. Be independent—don't join with your neighbors in any form of cooperation. 10. Mortgage your farm for every dollar it will stand to buy things you would have the cash to buy if you followed a good system of farming—Division of Extension, University of Tennessee.

Where will You be at 70? Recent investigations have shown that a large number of persons are dependent on relatives in their old age. When the autumn of life approaches, and the leaves of youthful vim and enthusiasm fall it is extremely difficult for any person, no matter how able, these investigations prove, to compete in the world of business and commerce. What better insurance against dependence in old age than a savings account in a bank? One dollar will start you on the road to economic security.
