FRIDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1928.

Life is not so short that there is time for courtesy.

The largest room in the world is room for improvement.

Even a poor fish would not get caught if he kept his mouth shut.

The man who gets fun out of his work is usually in for a good time.

Nobody wants to be called Santa Claus but its lots of fun to play the part.

Fillings usually hold cake layers together better when the bottom crusts are turned together.

If cream candies are over cooked, a little water may be added and then recooked to the correct temperature.

When substituting brown for white sugar in sugars no cream of tartar or corn sirup is needed.

When measuring a solid fat, one-fourth cup for instance, a measuring cup may be filled three-fourths full of cold water and the fat added until the water reaches the top of the cup. When the water is poured off one-fourth cup of fat is left.

To make fudge creamy allow it to cool to room temperature before eating.

Hot milk beat into mashed potatoes will keep them white.

Use bread cubes instead of bread crumbs when making dressing and it will not be heavy or soggy.

When making cream of tomato soup add the hot tomato to the hot white sauce and it will not curdle.

A tablespoon of vinegar added to the water in which a tough cut meat is to be cooked will help make the meat tender by breaking down the connective tissue. A tough steak is helped if soaked in vinegar over night.

Four-year Course at University Present For Portland Youth

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—Some young men of Portland will wake up Christmas and find a real present in his stocking, one that he will enjoy to the utmost for the next four years, and one that will be remembered by him the rest of his life.

Recently a business man of Portland who declined to give his name called up Earl M. Pallett, registrar of the University and wanted to know "how much it costs to go to the University." "You mean how much it costs a year?" he was asked. "No, I want to know how much it costs for four years," was the reply. "I am going to give one of the boys up here a complete college education for a Christmas present."

Topics for Oriental Essay Contest Given

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—Two specific topics will be given this year to students who wish to participate in the Murray Warner essay contest on the Orient, it is announced by Dr. Warren D. Smith, member of the committee on arrangements. This has been done at the request of Mrs. Warner, the donor of the prizes, with the hope that in this way it will be easier for students to compile data for papers.

Prizes totalling $650 have been offered this year, and classifications made so that all contestants have an equal chance of winning one of the awards. The topics as stated are: First, "How may relations between the United States and Japan, or China or the Philippines be best promoted?" Second, "What difficulties social, commercial or political, exist between the United States and Japan, or China, or the Philippines, and how may they be removed?" The first is for American students, and the second for Oriental students.

Students taking geography, history, journalism, or other subjects may write essays from the point of view of their favorite subject and this will be taken into account by the judges, it is stated. The contest will close some time next term. Three prizes, one each of $150, $100 and $50 will be offered to American students; one prize of $50 is offered for the essay by a freshman; and prizes of $100 each are offered for the best essay by Chinese, Japanese and Filipino students.

Omi Gosh "I hear that you and Dolly have quarreled." "Yes, I found something about her that I didn't like." "What was that?" "Another fellow's arm."

RADIO PLAYS STELLAR ROLE IN MODERN BALLOON RACING

At least four of the fifteen contestants in the last Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race were equipped with radio receivers. These pilots deliberately sacrificed precious weight in the small basket suspended from the huge gas bags in return for the advantages to be gained through the use of radio. The skill required in piloting a big gas bag is not generally appreciated by the laity, hence the need for radio may not be altogether clear. A balloon having no motive power of its own, must drift along with the winds, somewhat after the fashion of a sailing ship. However, the balloon has one decided advantage over the sailing ship, in that it moves in the vertical as well as the horizontal plane. By throwing out ballast, the pilot can rise; and by valving the gas, the pilot can descend. Skill in piloting the balloon is necessary to take full advantage of the favorable winds that exist at various levels, and to avoid adverse winds and serious storms. Hence a knowledge of meteorological conditions is an invaluable aid to successful ballooning. There is still another human element that enters into consideration. A balloon in flight does not have the noise, the dash and the vibration of the swiftly moving airplane or airship. Instead, the big gas bag floats along with the wind, and, at night, the balloonist is completely enveloped in a black isolation unbroken by any human contact. This monotony is a serious factor in competition and must weigh in the ultimate result. With this foregoing picture in mind, it can be understood what radio means to the balloon pilot. During the annual races, the National Broadcasting Company undertook to broadcast regular bulletins giving weather reports and news of the other contestants. Aside from the invaluable weather and news bulletins thus flashed to them, the fortunate radio-equipped balloons were enabled to listen to the entertainment as broadcast far below in their lonely vigil throughout the night. Ernest Demuyter, pilot of the Belgian entry, equipped the Belgica with a special adaptation of a radiola super-heterodyne, supplied by the Radio Corporation of America, which was mounted in a weather-proof cabinet including the batteries and a loop antenna. The loudspeaker was of the cone type, also mounted in a special weather-proof cabinet with a leather carrying strap. The receiver was suspended from the ring of the gas bag by means of leather straps, so that the entire cabinet, with its enclosed loop, could be oriented to take direction bearings by means of intercepted broadcast signals. Prior to the flight, the receiver was tested on the roof of the tallest building in Detroit, and signals 250 miles distant were brought in clear and loud. Although this receiver is not primarily intended as a radio direction finder or radio compass equipment, accurate bearings were taken and compared with a map. Thus in free ballooning, as well as in airplane and airship flight, and on the high seas, radio has taken its place as an indispensable aid to the navigator.
