Only 29 of 150 college girls interviewed said they would marry Colonel Lindbergh if they had the chance. But who ever denied a woman the right to change her mind when the chance came?

Field root crops, including mangels or cow beets, rutabagas, turnips and carrots, play an important part in the dairy and livestock program in several sections of Oregon.

They have long been recognized as a valuable form of winter succulence. They may be stored rather cheaply, provide an excellent condition for livestock and take the place of a considerable amount of grain, finds the experiment station.

SHERIFF'S FORECLOSURE SALE In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Washington County.

Ann McBrien, Plaintiff, vs. L. R. Espey, and Annie L. Espey, husband and wife; Minnie Ardell Gourley and J. M. Gourley, wife and husband; A. L. Barton and Harriette Lee Barton, husband and wife, Defendants.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by virtue of an execution, judgment, decree and order of sale, duly issued out of and under the seal of the above entitled Court, dated the 24th day of April, 1929, upon a judgment rendered and entered in said Court on the 24th day of April, 1929, in favor of Ann McBrien, plaintiff, and against L. R. Espey, and Annie Espey, his wife, Minnie Ardell Gourley and J. M. Gourley wife and husband, A. L. Barton and Harriette Lee Barton, the above named defendants, for the sum of $1050.00, with interest thereon since February 13, 1928, at the rate of six per cent per annum, and the further sum of $85.00, attorney's fees, and the further sum of $24.55 costs and disbursements, and the costs of said sale and said writ, commanding and requiring me to make sale of all the following described real property situated in Washington County State of Oregon, to-wit:

Beginning at an iron pipe south 10 minutes east 484 feet and south 89 degrees and 02 minutes west 1316.22 feet to an iron pipe, and south 14 min. east 1766.76 feet to a point in the center of the county road from an iron pipe at the center of section 11, T. 1 S. R. 2 West of the Willamette Meridian, thence following along the center line of said County Road north 62 deg. and 16 min. east 882.8 feet; thence north 47 deg. 47 min. east 1075 feet to a point on a line north and south through section 11; thence leaving the county road and running north 10 min. west a long said line through center of section 11, 195 feet, more or less, to a point on the south line of the Railroad Co.'s right of way; thence in a southwesterly direction following along the south line of said right of way 1750 feet to a point north 14 min. west of the point of beginning; thence south 14 min. east 55 feet, more or less, to the place of beginning containing 3.72 acres, more or less.

Now, therefore, by virtue of said execution, judgment, decree and order of sale, and in compliance with the demands of said writ, I will on Monday, the 27th day of May 1929, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the East door of the County Court House in the City of Hillsboro, Washington County, Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand, all the right title and interest which the above named defendants, or either or any of them, had in said real property above described on the date of the mortgage belonging to plaintiff herein, namely, February 19, 1927, and all the right, title and interest which the said named defendants, or either or any of them, since have had or now have in and to the above described real property, to satisfy said execution, judgment, decree and order of sale, interest and costs and all accruing costs. Said sale will be made subject to redemption as per statute of the State of Oregon.

Dated this 24th day of April, 1929.

Eugene Wright, 24, Author of "Great Horn Spoon," Starts On Trip Across the Sahara Desert to the Congo Basin

EUGENE P. WRIGHT of Rutherford, N. J., author of "The Great Horn Spoon," a book of travels and impressions in Borneo, the Straits Settlements, and Persia, left on Thursday for France to begin a two-year journey which will take him across the Sahara Desert to Lake Chad and thence to the Congo River Basin in Africa.

Mr. Wright's journey will be made for the purpose of gathering material for two new books to be issued by his publishers, the Bobbs-Merrill Company of Indianapolis.

Few young men, it is safe to say, have ever undertaken on their own responsibility so lengthy and hazardous an expedition as that on which Mr. Wright is embarking. Aside from a general knowledge of their aridity little could be found about the more remote sections he will traverse.

His object, Mr. Wright said before leaving, is not particularly to gather a recitative story of adventure but to study the elemental forces at play in the desert and jungles, and their influence on the lives and thought of the people. He plans contrasting books, one on the desert, where life struggles to exist, and another on the jungle, where life is abundant and competitive. Such a background, it was said yesterday, he hopes to find by traversing the arid desert, with its antithesis in the humid Congo as his later goal. He also hopes to record the many progressive undertakings of the French rule both in North Africa and the Congo, and their successful and peaceful control of the vast intervening area.

This will be Mr. Wright's longest trip, for, although but little past his twenty-fourth birthday anniversary, he has had considerable experience as a traveler in several of the world's little known regions. He was a member of the class of 1926 at Columbia University when on the completion of his junior year he shipped as a seaman on a freighter bound for Calcutta. A breaking ship's cable sent him into a hospital there and on his dismissal he journeyed into the Straits Settlements and thence passed into the interior of Borneo via the Barito and Djopoi Rivers under an escort of Javanese soldiers provided by the Dutch colonial authorities who stated that he had reached 750 miles from the coast. As a result of this and subsequent travels in Persia, he produced the "Great Horn Spoon," whose success has enabled him to start on his forthcoming expedition.

In his long tour of the desert, which he proposed to take in easy stages; stopping at unusual places where conditions permit, the young author plans to visit the vast Tibesti Mountain region in the Sahara Desert North of Lake Chad and lying at the Eastern edge of the Libyan Desert, of which much is unknown. The ornithological department of the American Museum of Natural History has provided him with chemicals for the preservation of bird specimens in his scientific quest.

Mr. Wright will stop in Paris several days presenting himself to the French colonial administration before proceeding to Algeria where he will outfit for the trip.

He bears a letter of commendation from the Secretary of State.

Bungalow Camps In Canada's Alpine Paradise Lure Vacationists Desiring To "Rough It" In Comfort

LAKE O'HARA BUNGALOW CAMP

Wapta Camp

"There's a long, long trail a-winding into the land of my dreams"— This and other well known ballads echo through the mountains on many a summer's evening, for those blending their voices in song are happy—happy to have chosen to spend their few well-earned weeks of rest in the woods after a year of toil. To those desiring to leave every semblance of city life behind them, to those who love nature unadorned, to those who prefer the banks of some rippling stream to a staid hotel veranda, what could be better, for instance, than the bungalow camps, strategically located in the various beauty spots of the Canadian Rockies. These consist chiefly of a series of comfortable individual cabins centering around a main club house. Most of them are open from June 15 to September 15, their rates are reasonable, and all are reached from various stations on the main transcontinental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. There is Wapta Camp, overlooking beautiful Lake Wapta, the center for pony rides, hiking to Kicking Horse Canyon and fishing in Sherbrooke Lake close by; Lake O'Hara Camp, at one of the most exquisite spots in the whole of the Rockies; Yoho Valley Camp, being Takakkaw Falls which are higher than Niagara, center for excursions to Emerald Lake; Moraine Lake Camp, at the head of the Valley of the Ten Peaks, where wonderful trout fishing, Alpine climbing, riding, and hiking to innumerable glaciers can be enjoyed; Castle Mountain Camp, the first stop on the new Banff-Windermere Highway, where the magnificent views of the surrounding country, and other equally fascinating camps—all catering to those who would take their nature "straight."

But the Home Paper Told It!

"Wasn't it fine about Priscilla getting honors in her school work last term?" said Mrs. Smith to Mrs. Brown. "What?" asked Mrs. Brown. "I didn't know about it." "But it was in the Home Town Paper," replied Mrs. Smith. "Don't you take it?" "No," said Mrs. Brown. "But I am going to." And she did, for this is a true story.

As much a part of the community life as is the school or church is the Home Town Paper.
