Special favors follow special duties.

So long as you are discontented with yourself, there is hope.

Singing doesn't always indicate talent. Sometimes it's a positive insult.

A good listener generally knows more than the fellow who does the talking.

The world extends the glad hand to the successful man and hands it to the unfortunate.

Travelers once were enhanced by beautiful scenery; now they get that way over good roads.

Everybody stands ready to forgive automobile salesmen who will try to make him buy a car.

Many of the men who fail are those who stopped to congratulate themselves on the road to success.

A price war at Napoleon, Ohio, has resulted in free bread. A good argument against peace at any price.

A girl of 19 admitted to the judge that she "picked up" a car in Detroit. Probably it was equipped with balloon tires.

Walking is the best exercise, but some won't indulge in it because it is too cheap, and others because they think it makes them appear cheap.

"Slays three, then himself, says headline. It's an old story. If a man must kill, he would save others a lot of trouble by picking on himself first.

The boys don't sing as much as they did in the pre-prohibition days, but neither do they break down and weep on the bartender's neck at closing time.

The only sure method of eliminating war is to have laws requiring that the first to go shall be the government officials, legislative bodies, money kings and politicians. That would settle it.

After deciding to publish a paper at the Illinois state penitentiary at Jolliet to be edited by the convicts, the prison officials were somewhat embarrassed—not to say surprised—to find there was not a printer among the 1,500 inmates.

A man in New York was granted citizenship papers despite his confession that he had committed larceny. He said he had stolen a kiss from a girl. The judge was too lenient; he didn't even demand return of the pilfered article.

AN OUTSIDER'S VIEW

It was indeed surprising to me that the Beaverton School district turned down the new proposed increase and improvements to the High School at the election.

Withaut the eight extra class rooms, how are they going to accommodate the extra 125 students that will enroll next September? It is over crowded now. It also seems to me that Beaverton ought to be ashamed of the little hole in the ground they call the "gym".

The High School as it is, is not a standard school as the gym is not standard, not enough class rooms, the assembly room too small even for the past season's number of students, not to mention the lack of room at times of graduation, plays, recitals, etc.

A good education is becoming more and more necessary to the young people, not only to acquire good positions, but to have a better intellectual foundation on which to build for the future. The High School is also a step upward toward college. The colleges are constantly advancing in learning and so must the high schools in order that its graduates may come up to those new college requiremeits. If Beaverton does not advance in this line, what about its future graduates? Or would you rather leave the High School as it is and force many out to other schools who realize the importance of this need for advancement?

Now, regarding a new standard gym. It is discouraging to students to organize teams, and have to train and practice in the present gym (if you can call it that) and then go out to meet other teams where they have standard gyms. This discouragement and handicap is not inducive to the best results.

But let us take up, for a moment the importance of athletic training, a subject that is apt to be over looked. Few of us realize that a trained body is very necessary if we want to get good results from our minds. A sound, trained body strengthens the will, aids greatly in executing the demands and judgements of our intellectual training. Too many of us fail to advance because we lack the physical strength and training to carry out what our minds are capable to direct and work out. You can get bodily strength by working, but good physical training comes mainly thru athletics. The athlete must have quick judgement, good judgement, concentration, a co-operative spirit, a steady head and a sense of fair play. That requires training. And all this will be of great value to the young man or woman when they meet the difficult problems of our present commercial life—and spiritual life, too, for that matter.

This physical training shows the importance of proper diet and care of the body. It teaches the detrimental effect of gluttony, of eating everything simply because it tastes good, like excessive eating of sweets, pastries, etc., and the harm of cigarette smoking.

Athletic training is a wonderful aid in directing the energy of the active boy or girl into the right channel. It promotes clean thinking. It helps to keep the mind diverted from the loafing places and other things that tend to cloud and smirch it. (Of course, in importance, I place it after the home and church.)

Four years ago, a census was taken of the young criminals of New York City. Not one was found who had taken an active interest in athletics, while in or out of school.

What about the future of our young people? Isn't it worth-while to help prepare them adequately to take our places and do our work better than we are doing it? Let's keep going ahead!

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT every body wants to save money; you save money when you buy advertised goods and buy it in your own home city.

THAT there are two ways to spend money: spend it at home where you and your city will get some benefit from it in some other city where that city will benefit Help your own home city!

THAT economy is not only in the saving of money, but it is also in the intelligent spending of it.

THAT opportunity is knocking at the door of every thrifty bargain-wise person who reads the ads.

THAT the newspaper is the great get-together medium for the buyer and the seller.

THAT in many cities there has always existed, and always will exist, a feeling on the prt of a large number of the buying public that prices charged by the home merchants are higher than those charged by the merchants of other cities.

THAT it is quite natural that this mistake should be made in some cities especially in those cities where the merchants do little advertising and the people have little knowledge of what is sold at home.

THE CITIES WHERE THE MERCHANTS ARE HEAVY ADVERTISERS ALWAYS DRAW MUCH TRADE FROM THOSE CITIES WHOSE MERCHANTS ARE NOT UP-TO-DATE AND DO NOT ADVERTISE.

Trails of Springtime Will Swarm With Motor Gypsies

CHICAGO—One out of every four automobile owners in the United States will bundle his family into the car and take the open road for a motor vacation to America's far places this spring and summer.

Six million motor cars will [illegible] out on the long trail between the opening of the trout fishing in April and the duck shooting season in October.

Where will the motor nomads go?

"Most favored motor vacation area of all America lies in the northeastern section, taking in New York, New England, and the Atlantic seaboard," says a travel bulletin issued here by the American Research Foundation. "Tourist records of recent years show that [illegible] automobiles from other states more auton[illegible] have visited this area than any other in the United States. The Great Lakes region including the states that fringe this great fresh water chain will be host to the next greatest number of visiting motor tourists.

"The Rocky Mountain region, California, and the national parks of Wyoming, Montana, Utah, and Arizona will draw a heavy quota of motor tourists because of their scenic appeal.

"With the extension of America's magnificent highway system, with new markers and routings continually easing the way for the tourist and with the gasoline service stations of Sinclair, Standard, and other refiners never more than a few miles apart on the highway, the lure of the open road is irresistible. Moreover, with attractive tourist cottage camps and [illegible] lodgings, almost universal comfortable [illegible] hardships of rule along the road, a[illegible] camping out and the inconveni[illegible] of early touring days have been eliminated."
