A tablespoon of egg white added to coffee will give the beverage a clear color.

To prevent cream from spattering while whipping it, a piece of wrapping paper a little larger than the bowl may be split in the center and fitted around the narrow part of the egg beater, so that it serves as a covering for the bowl.

If tomatoes for salad are covered with boiling water for a minute, the water drained off and the tomatoes rinsed in cold water, the skins will come off easily, leaving the tomatoes whole and solid.

Onions sliced and served with vinegar, salt and pepper make a deli-

Radishes are attractive when served in the form of "radish ro-dish to within a short distance of the top. It is then placed in cold water and upon standing for a few minutes the skins will turn back, giving each slice the appearance of a rose petal.

Experienced growers of clover seed usually pasture back or clip the crop early, says the Oregon experiment station. Reasons for this are: the bloom will be delayed to miss the infestation of midges; there will be more moisture left in the soil for the development of the second crop; it reduces weeds and there are more insects for red clover pollination.

Great Industry Springs From Idea Born 60 Years Ago

DR. C.E. WELCH, THE DEVELOPER OF CONCORD GRAPE JUICE. DR. T.S. WELCH, THE DISCOVERER.

Sixty years ago, in the autumn of this year, an idea was born whose influence has spread to all nooks and corners of the globe. Back in the little New Jersey town of Vineland, in the Fall of '69, Dr. T. B. Welch realized a desire to serve a communion wine in the church of which he was a member, by substituting fresh grape juice for the traditional Concord grapes then were relatively new, having resulted a few years before from the horticultural wizardry of one Ephraim W. Bull, the fruit taking the name from the town in which the experiments were made—Concord, Mass.
Substitution of the unfermented juice for the fermented wine was revolutionary, the entire pack consisting of only a dozen bottles—a dozen bottles now grown to many thousands of tons annually.
From Dr. Welch's tradition-shattering idea, real industrial, religious, health and social romance has sprung, for grape juice now forms the basis of a business which has assumed huge proportions and which has linked itself with the seven-days-a-week life of the world. Dr. Welch's experiment gave to his son—Dr. C. E. Welch, then
