DR. C. F. MILLESON

VETERINARIAN

Located at 805 E. Burnside, in Portland, conducts one of the best known veterinary hospitals in the city; an institution modernly equipped and practice devoted to treatment of dog and cat diseases and ailments.

There is perhaps no division of the field of scientific research in which greater advances have been made than have marked the development of veterinary diagnosis and surgery of today. Dr. Milleson is considered by those in the veterinary profession as being one of the foremost in the district having one of the largest practices in Portland. Study, research and wide practical experience in the different branches of the field have made it possible for him to render a comprehensive service.

The general satisfaction expressed by the clients of Dr. Milleson and the demand for his services constitutes a well merited tribute to his ability. He is one of the very few veterinarians on the Pacific coast interested in the dog fancy from a sporting angle and owning, breeding and showing dogs at the more important kennel fixtures. ERNEST E. HENRY

FARM LAND AND AGRICULTURAL SPECIALIST

Located at 83 Fourth Ave. in Portland, specializes in farm lands; rendering a professional service as well in agricultural supervising and land agency development work.

The farm land agent of today is one that meets the demands of conservative people of this advancing day and age where all are seeking investments that not only are increasing in value, but where a permanent income is assured. Mr. Henry is doing more than his share to meet this demand in Western Oregon.

He specializes in and does a large business in farm lands. His work is of a professional order inasmuch as his experience in agricultural supervision, land agency and farm development covers a period of many years, several of which have been spent in this immediate territory.

Through the service offered by Mr. Henry, the public has at its command a man who has studied the development of the state and has been actively identified with the growth of Portland and this Western territory. Thus, he is well acquainted with the various soils of this section.

Mr. Henry has listed country property that could not fail to be attractive to anyone interested in the purchase of real estate. Mr. Henry has established correspondents throughout the Pacific Northwest who keep him informed of realty conditions and of property exchanges both offered and wanted. His broad operations render his services invaluable to persons interested in negotiating deals. In making this review of the on-ward progress of Portland, we are glad to compliment Mr. Henry upon his standing in the community and professional world.

DR. J. E. ANDERSON

OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN

Located in the Selling Bldg. (322 Alder St.) Portland, has a general practice in chronic and acute disorders. Is among the prominent local professional men enjoying a large clientele in this city and the adjacent territory.

Science has progressed more rapidly during the last decade than in any previous period in the world's history, and one of the sciences that has been developed to a higher degree of perfect in is that of osteopathy. We are fortunately represented in this profession in Portland by Dr. J. E. Anderson.

Diseased conditions of the body are often due to obstructions of body tissues, whether muscle, bone, nerve or vascular. Under normal conditions the resistance of the body to disease and diseased conditions enables it to defeat the actions of bacteria. Should some part of the body fail to function correctly, disease immediately gains foothold. Thus it is that the osteopath can do much good by correcting these conditions. With his knowledge of the body, he adjusts these abnormal conditions by treatment and soon has the diseased part functioning normally. Nature takes her course and defeats the action of whatever has caused the disease, for osteopathy only assists—nature cures.

Many people who suffer from chronic or acute diseases and bear them with commendable fortitude could be well and happy if they would take osteopathic treatment.

Dr. Anderson enjoys a high standing in the community and in this review on the on-ward progress of Portland we are glad to compliment him upon the excellent position he has attained in his profession and upon the high character of his work in assisting to keep the people of the community in a good and healthy condition.

H. GRANT GLEASON

INSTRUCTOR OF PIANO

Located at 414 Terminal Sales Bldg. (446 Morrison St.) Portland, is one of the city's successful instructors of piano playing and the fundamentals of harmony. His achievements have gained favor for him in the surrounding territory as well as in the city.

To those who are interested in the so universally admired art of piano playing, and to those who may in the future wish to avail themselves of the opportunities for advancement so close at hand, we wish to bring the name of H. Grant Gleason, instructor of piano playing and the fundamentals of harmony.

In the study of music, whether the piano or some other musical instrument be the medium of expression, those primary principles upon which a beautiful tone picture is painted are of vital importance and emphasis on these well known facts can scarcely be overestimated.

Mr. Gleason is one of those far-seeing teachers of piano playing who not only realize the importance of building these principles into the nature of the prospective pianist or teacher, but actually makes it a point that these invaluable principles are, time after time, and day after day, brought before the student until they become, not second nature, but a part of the nature of the future artist or instructor. This requires a background of patience, which we are justified in saying this experienced teacher of piano possesses. The thought and care he puts into his work merits the admiration he receives in musical circles, and his students have praise for their teacher and satisfaction in their efforts. We might add that Mr. Gleason's work has developed artists both here and in the east who have received signal recognition in musical and concert circles.

We also wish to say concerning the work of Mr. Gleason that the course of study which he follows, the compositions and exercises he uses, are the works of the best composers, masterpieces in their style and purpose, and Mr. Gleason is one who never ceases to progress in his studies and to hand down the more modern ideas that he finds worthy of his calling.

DR. M. C. CASSEL

CHIROPRACTOR AND EXPERT DIAGNOSTICIAN

With offices at 624-5 Morgan Bldg. (346 1/2 Washington St.) Portland, is one of the prominent professional men of this city enjoying a large clientele. His able work has won the endorsement of many people of the city and adjacent territory.

The practice of Dr. Cassel has increased by rapid strokes and he is today considered one of the leading professional men of Portland and consulted by many engaged in the same profession, having had many years experience in giving chiropractic adjustments in this city.

The services rendered by Dr. Cassel, who is a Pacific Chiropractic College graduate, may well be termed competent and complete, as his adjustments and ability to cure have to do with all physical conditions of the body—restoring distorted tissues by hand. Science has pointed out that chiropractic adjustments when administered by competent hands are a direct road to health. Drugless and without surgery, chiropractic is a science founded on an entirely different basis than any other health system. It has advanced with such rapid strides that today it is the foremost non-therapeutic method in existence.

In correlation with his student and technical training he has equipped his office with several of the more recent instruments of scientific development necessary to cope with the progressive movements of the day in his particular field. This includes an instrument known as the Vatterberg Colonic Irrigation System, a comparatively new but thoroughly tested method of eliminating ailments such as stomach trouble, and liver disorders which represent 95% of the troubles of the lower bowels. The device is simple and effective. It provides a means of washing the stomach with a solution which thoroughly cleanses the system.

We are pleased in this review to compliment Dr. Cassel upon the merited success he is making and upon his excellent standing in the professional world and assure our readers that at his office they will receive the best in chiropractic spinal adjustments.

Appointments may be made by phoning BEacon 2512 Portland.

This advance has been applied to the modern dentist, and it is to him we look for proper medical guidance.

Dr. Wright has adopted the latest and accepted methods of dentistry for the benefit of his clientele and his research work has won recognition in professional circles as well. Particular credit must be given the financial houses, credit managers and the present-day highly developed commercial collection houses.

Few businesses function without experiencing "static" in its collection department, often through no fault of the house. There are attempts of methods resorted to in attempting the collection of delinquent and bad accounts and in line with the progressive movement of the day Robinson-Thurlow & Co. have perfected or devised a manner of handling and effecting collections with diplomacy—free from friction. In a review of this character it is eminently fitting that we devote space to a frank testimonial of the excellent work executed by Mr. Jones in the successful practice of an artistic profession.

The art of photography, which was introduced by Daguerre nearly a century ago has, within that period developed from a mechanical trade to an art of science and the photographer of today must be a person of advanced ideas and thorough training.
