FATHER'S GLASSES
Father's glasses lay on the mantle,
Beside the family clock.
They look so peaceful, lying there
For they get to rest a lot.

Dad, you see, a busy man,
He has to work a lot;
And so those glasses stay right there,
Beside the family clock.

He rises when the dew is on,
And hardly stops to eat,
You'd think that he would wear
Especially his feet.

He never thinks about himself,
He hasn't time to stop,
He's earning bread to feed us all,
And it takes an awful lot.

Then there is clothes for all of us,
And they wear out so fast,
I guess that Dad thinks clothes
Are never made to last.

I cannot count the many things
My father has to get,
So those glasses stay
For he hasn't time to "set".

But sometimes in the evening,
When it's too dark to see,
Father sits by the fireplace,
And it's a treat to me.

To see him get a paper,
Then put his glasses on,
And read the news a little bit;
It isn't very long.

Until his head begins to nod,
Then mother quickly goes
And takes those precious glasses,
From off my father's nose.

And Oh! the love shines right out,
Upon my mother's face,
When she puts my father's glasses
Back in their accustomed place.

Come, folks, let's give our Dads
The glasses they've earned;
Then we can see them read
With those glasses on their nose.

Miss Merlo Chosen For Beaverton Queen

Float Is Being Prepared by
Beaverton Ladies Under
Mrs. French's Direction

LARGE NUMBER COME

Each Of These Girls Will Be Given A Nice Prize

Approximately one hundred and fifty people gathered at the Masonic Hall Wednesday when a card party was given for the benefit of the float from Beaverton which is to be entered in the Portland Regatta, which will be held Thursday and Friday of this week.

At the party the last votes for "Miss Beaverton", for the Beaverton float, were counted, and Miss Ada Merlo was declared queen, by an overwhelming majority, having 157,800 votes. Miss Gladys McLeod was second, with 71,400 votes; Marie Amacher, third, and Erma Nelson, fourth.

Miss Merlo is a very pretty girl and will make a beautiful, petite queen. Each of these girls will receive a prize.

Twenty-two tables of cards were in play. Mrs. F. G. Donaldson won ladies first prize, and Mrs. Vera Meyer, second. Mr. Gipper won first gentlemen's prize, and A. M. Janssen, second. Mrs. McKell won ladies' door prize and Mr. C. J. Bielman, gentlemen's door prize.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served at a late hour.

The float is now being decorated and made ready for the parade by a number of Beaverton ladies under the direction of Mrs. French.

PEPCO FILES NEW EXTENSION RULES

In compliance with the recent order of the Public Service Commission, increasing the expenditures necessary to be made in serving rural districts, the Pacific Northwest Public Service Company (Pepeco) has now filed new extension rules which are more liberal. In fact, farmers living in territory served by Pepeco energy may now obtain its service without advancing any money toward the cost of the pole lines. Under the new rules, the company will make the entire line extension at its own expense. These new rules apply to the Tualatin Valley district as well as all other territories served by the Pacific Northwest Public Service Company and its affiliated companies, and will become effective June 15, 1930.

In brief, the principal advantages of the new line extension rules to the farmer and rural districts are as follows:

(1) The company will make a free extension up to $75 for each customer instead of $60 as obtained under the old rules. This is an increase of 25% in the amount of free extension service which the company offers to the rural customer.

(2) The company will invest in a line extension a sum of money up to three times the estimated annual revenue guaranteed by the customer, without any additional investment by the customer, and the customer will receive service at the same rates as obtain in adjacent cities and communities in district in which he lives. Heretofore the company had invested two and one-half times the revenue. This represents an increase of 20% in free investment over the former policy.

(3) In the event that the cost of the extension is greater than $75, or three times the estimated annual revenue, the company nevertheless will spend the excess cost, which sum heretofore under the old rules had been paid by the farmer.

(4) Because of the company making the entire expenditure necessary to render service, a delivery charge which heretofore has been 1% per month is increased to 1 1/2% per month. This charge takes care of the actual cost of maintaining the investment in line over and above that which the regular rates would provide for together with 6% return upon the investment in excess line, for which the rate structure does not provide return. In other words, the company acts as banker for the entire line extension. Thus the farmer and rural subscriber keeps the money which heretofore would have been invested in line extension and is, therefore, more able to properly wire and equip his premises for the utilization of electric service so necessary to his farm operations.

It is interesting to know that practically 60% of the farmers in Washington County are now receiving electric service, a very high percentage when we consider this service is available to less than 15% of the farmers of the United States. Washington County is indeed fortunate, and, under these most liberal rules, should soon approach the 100% saturation point.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Petch who moved to Yamhill Tuesday were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Doy Gray at the Yew Bow Inn Sunday. They were also entertained at a trout dinner Monday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Livermore, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilmut entertained for them Monday evening.

Westside Club Holds Meet At Forest Grove

Geo Joseph Gives Address.
He Is A Very Entertaining Speaker

IS REGULAR MEETING

Aaron Frank Speaks On The Subject of The Portland Rose Festival

The United Westside Clubs held their regular monthly meeting in the Legion Hall at Forest Grove, Tuesday evening, June 10, with probably as large a crowd as has attended any of these gatherings present. One of the first features on the program was the introduction of the candidates for "Miss Beaverton" who were present. Only four were there to answer to their names, Ada Merlo, Helen Teft, Erma Nelson, and Marie Amacher. The candidates were cheered heartily.

Senator Milton Miller of Portland was present and delivered one of his celebrated patriotic addresses supporting the sponsoring by the clubs of a "Super-Highway" from Portland, past Champeau to Salem. Senator Miller then introduced a resolution to the effect that the club go on record as favoring not only the Pioneer Highway but the Memorial building for which there is a bill now before Congress setting aside $125,000 for that purpose. After the vote to adopt the resolution, President Geo. W. Lippert stated that copies of the resolution would be forwarded to the delegation in Congress.

Aaron Frank, partner in the Meier & Frank store in Portland gave a short address about the Portland Rose Festival which is being held this week. He urged its support. During the course of his talk he gave some interesting figures about Oregon and its products.

The principal speaker of the evening was Geo. Joseph, Candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket. He made somewhat of a political talk concerning his platform. As an entertaining speaker he is one of the best. Space hardly permits much of a resume of what he said. Had his subject been "Municipal Ownership of Public Utilities" he could have been considered earnest, convincing, and enthusiastic. He told of the hundreds of thousands of horsepower going to waste here in the Northwest, and especially in Oregon, which has within its borders one quarter of the potential hydro-electric power in this whole United States. He told of the development of other sections which enjoy public ownership of power. He also told many personal incidents which gave some insight into the character of the man.

D U V HOLD THEIR REGULAR MEETING

The D. U. V. of the Civil War met Monday at their regular meeting. Mrs. Celia Huelt and Mrs. Emma Bush were chosen delegates to the State Convention to be held in Eugene, June 24, 25 and 26. These coronation ceremonies are open to the public, and after the grand march following the coronation there will be a jitter dance the rest of the evening. There will be dancing day and night on July Fourth.

In passing we note that Senator Earl Fisher was not present at the meeting. He was probably too busy digging the tunnel in accordance with the statement alongside his name on the ballot at the recent election.

BEAVERTONIANS ARE AGAIN THE VICTORS

Sundays ball game at Lake Grove was considerable of a one-sided affair. The Lake Grove boys are new in the Tualatin Valley league and perhaps have not yet hit their stride. They are a fine bunch of fellows and like the National pastime but there is some of the lack of team work so evident some years ago in the Beavertonians.

At present Beaverton stands at the head of the League for the present half season and are playing great ball, much better than they did a few years ago under former managers. This year, Clinton has worked out a system of team work which is bringing home the tallies.

In last Sunday's game, Watkins allowed only three hits, struck out fourteen men, allowed no walks, and had the misfortune to hit one man. After Elston had been called safe at first by the umpire on an error by Grund, Watkins proceeded to catch the runner napping and shield the pill over to first for an unquestioned put out.

It was in the seventh frame that the Beavertonians got in their best work. Cox led off hitting a grounder down the third base line. He was followed by Watkins who got a safe single; Grund followed with a nice little single and Cox crossed the plate. Jones hit to Stengel who fumbled the ball and Jones was safe, as Watkins scored. Murphy sacrificed and Galbreath hit to Harris who failed to hang on to the pill. Concannon got a hit but was thrown out at second, trying to steal.

Steel got to first on a fielder's choice and scored on Hempe's nice two bagger. But Cox failed to connect with the ball and was out with Hempe at second.

Next Sunday Beaverton will play Garden Home a double-header at Beaverton. The teams are tied for the second half and will fight it out for the lead.

C J BIELMAN SELLS MANY FORD CARS

C. J. Bielman, proprietor of the Bielman Motors, local Ford agency, is in receipt of a letter stating that on the automobile sales in Washington county during the month of May, 1930, 69.1% were Ford cars. Considering the fact that this country is rather new in the field and that they have been very busy in the construction of their new quarters, the volume of their sales speaks volumes.

The letter above mentioned also states that for the five months of 1930, that of all cars sold in this county, Fords consisted of 50.8%. At the rate sales have been increasing it would seem that instead of having a building about completed and ready for occupancy, this concern has only just begun building. We'll see.

Anyway the Bielman Motors are to be congratulated on their enterprise in getting business in a territory already covered by agencies selling other makes of cars; and on their new building now almost ready to move into.

W. K. Phippen has rented the Walter Harris house at the corner of Second and Stott streets. He is employed by the West Coast Telephone Co. The deal was made through the Beaverton Finance Co.

FRUIT FLY IS GREAT ENEMY OF CHERRY

The cherry fruit-fly started operations about the 6 of June. The effect will be small white maggots in the cherries whenever the fly is allowed to work. The fly is about two-thirds the size of the ordinary house fly, blackish, with the head and legs yellow.

Immediate action is necessary to control the situation and to secure edible fruit.

Control is possible by using a spray composed of 1/2 pound lead arsenate; 2 quarts of molasses or syrup and ten gallons of water. This should spray approximately fifty trees.

Spray with rather coarse spray to form droplets on the leaves, covering the outside leaves only.

Three applications should be made; the first one at this time, the next two at seven-day intervals. In case of rain respray immediately.

It is not necessary or advisable to give heavy application of the spray; too heavy applications may injure the foliage.

Prompt spraying when the fly appears should give a satisfactory control and assure marketable fruit.
