

Lamb Travels To Exposition By Air

O. M. Plummer and grand-daughter Doris Ann Barnes; Chauncey Hubbard and Chauncey Jr. greet Hampshire Ewe (donated to Boy and Girl Club Exhibitors by Fleming and Hubbard, Sunnyside, Wash.) on its arrival in Dick Rankin's plane at 1929 Pacific International.

Approximately one thousand head of outstanding breeding sheep in America will be exhibited at 20th Annual Pacific International Livestock Exposition, Portland, Oregon, Oct. 25 - Nov. 1. The Sheep Division is one of the stronger departments of the Exposition, offering almost $10,000 in premiums.

With the assistance of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and Pacific Co-operative Wool Growers Association a Wool and Mohair Show will be staged exhibiting fleeces of all breeds shown in the Sheep Show.

Eleven other complete shows combine, under the 11-acre roof, to make the 1930 Exposition the greatest of all Pacific Internationals—Pure-Bred Livestock Show; Fat Stock Show; Manufacturers' and Land Products Shows; Industrial Exposition (covering 2 acres); Fox Show; Poultry and Rabbit Show in the new T. B. Wilcox, Jr., Hall; Boys' and Girls' Club Work Exhibits; "Truth-in-Meat" Exhibits; Life Exhibit by Oregon Fish and Game Commission; and a complete Dairy Show featuring milk, cream, ice-cream, butter and cheese of all kinds. Premiums offered total $100,000.

The Pacific International Horse Show is the Exposition's great entertainment, providing seven evening and three afternoon programs and $25,000 in cash prizes.

All leading transportation lines offer reduced round-trip fares to the Exposition.

SENSATIONAL GAINS IN USE OF OIL AND GAS FOR HOME HEATING

During the past five years the consumption of fuel oil for domestic heating has increased by leaps and bounds, according to the Holland Institute of Thermology of Holland, Michigan. The output of fuel oil for this purpose has more than doubled in that period. Manufactured gas also is becoming more and more popular with home owners. In 1927, according to the Institute, approximately twelve billion cubic feet of manufactured gas were used for this purpose. In 1929 this figure jumped to twenty-seven billion cubic feet. Natural gas consumption for domestic heating, according to some authorities, is far in excess of this amount.

These figures tell an amazing story of prosperity and indicate that anything that makes for greater comfort and convenience is received with open arms by the American public, even if it does cost more.

Many home owners whose homes are now equipped with coal burning plants raise the question as to whether present plants can be utilized for oil or gas heating. If heating plants are in good physical condition and if they efficiently function as heating systems during the extremes of cold weather, it may be taken for granted that they will serve efficiently for oil or gas heating, provided that the new type burners are of approved design and correctly installed. Warm air heating systems of the vapor-air type which are equipped with an automatic humidifier and also an electrically operated air propeller unit for distributing the warm air as it is generated, readily lend themselves to the use of oil or gas fuel. They are undoubtedly more effective because of forced warm air circulation and because of the humidifier which maintains a proper moisture content in the home air.

These are important factors to consider when using more expensive fuel. In lieu of customary high indoor temperature, approximately 78 to 82 degrees, the maintenance of a proper degree of relative humidity definitely assures bodily comfort at moderate temperature of 70 or 72 degrees. The electrically operated air-propeller unit uniformly distributes the warm-vaporized air throughout the home, and there are no extreme differences in temperature, such as characterize homes equipped with the old-style heating systems. Therefore, definite economies are in order, as far less fuel oil or gas is required to maintain the lower indoor temperature.

Home owners are warned by the Institute not to expect oil or gas heating units to overcome any heating deficiencies that may characterize systems now installed, due to improper size, physical defects, or poor location.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Louis Hughson was operated on at a Portland hospital, Tuesday.

Mr. C. E. Hedge has rented the house formerly occupied by Johnny Davis at the northwest corner of Betts and First Sts. to Mr. R. B. Markwait of Gresham. Mr. Markwait is employed by the telephone company.

Rev. and Mrs. T. A. Dungan are attending the West Willamette Association of the Congregational Churches at Forest Grove Thursday. Delegates representing the local church were Mrs. McKell, Miss Carter, Mrs. Webb, and Mrs. Metcalf.

The Needle and Social Club met Thursday in the I. O. O. F. Hall, with a birthday party in honor of Mrs. J. H. Dobbins and Mrs. Hugh Lewis. A nice dinner was partaken of at noon. In the afternoon the ladies tied a quilt which they had made to present to the Oddfellows home in Portland.

Mrs. A. M. Kennedy has graciously offered her home for the next regular afternoon card party of the Beaver Social Club to be held next Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 15. A cordial invitation is extended to all. The committee in charge is Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Engelke, and Mrs. Venn.

Mrs. J. W. Barnes is very ill in a Portland hospital.

Mrs. F. Steffins of Cedar Mills has been in town the past week selling advertising space on the new curtains to be painted and put up in the Leedy Grange hall at Cedar Mill. Mrs. Steffins reports that most of the businessmen in Beaverton who were approached, were pleased to take an ad. Only one or two seemed cold towards the proposition.

At the regular monthly meeting of Kinton grange held last Wednesday evening, two applications for membership were read. During the past few months meetings have been held in the evening but it was decided to return to the day meetings beginning with the next regular meeting on Saturday, November 1st. There will be an all day session with grange dinner at noon.

KINTON LADIES' AID SOCIETY TO MEET

The next regular meeting of the Kinton Ladies' Aid society which will be October 15th, Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock will be at the home of the secretary, Mrs. W. C. Hall. The president, Mrs. Harry A. Richards, desires that there be a full attendance of the officers, and members as there is important business to be transacted. There will also be work on a comforter, so sewing tools will be necessary.

MRS. SHAW GIVES A RADIO ADDRESS

"A Business Man for Governor" was the subject of a radio address Wednesday evening by Mrs. Leland B. Shaw, widely known for her student activities while a member of the class of 1928 at the University of Oregon, and an ardent supporter of the late Senator George W. Joseph in the May primaries.

Mrs. Shaw offered her services when Julius L. Meier decided to fight for his friends platform and principles. Mrs. Shaw's services were accepted by the Meier-for-Governor committee and she has since been assistant to Secretary Clarence R. Hotchkiss of that committee.

Mrs. Shaw comes into the business and political world well equipped. She was graduated from the school of business administration at the university in 1928, and was offered a scholarship at the New York university school of business administration, which she was unable to accept at that time.

While on the campus at Eugene, Mrs. Shaw was secretary of the Associated Students, woman representative on the finance board of the university, appointed to serve on the executive council of affairs, and appointed to serve on the student council of affairs. Phi Chi Theta, national professional business women's honorary, elected her to membership in 1927. She is affiliated with Bet Pi of Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority on the campus.

Keen interest in the welfare of Oregon and its people is not unnatural in Mrs. Shaw. She was formerly Vena Gaskill, daughter of Mrs. George Thyng of Beaverton, and grand-daughter of two pioneers, G. W. Stitt and W. W. Gaskill, both of Washington county. She was a graduate of Beaverton High school. She has taught English two years in the high schools of Gervais and Walker. Last year she married Leland B. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shaw.

JACOB KEMMER GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. Jacob Kemmer was pleasantly surprised Monday evening by a group of relatives and friends, the occasion being his birthday.

Three tables of 500 were played. Mrs. A. P. Erickson won the high score for ladies, and Albert Kemmer won the high score for the men, while the consolation went to A. P. Erickson and J. A. Muesig. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wager; Mr. and Mrs. John Muesig; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Muesig; T. P. Flynn; and Mr. Joe Muesig, all of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Erickson and son Kenneth; Mrs. Anna Kemmer; Mr. Albert Muesig; Mr. Albert Kemmer; Mr. and Mrs. R. Teufel; and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kemmer.

After refreshments were served the guests departed wishing Mr. Kemmer many happy returns.

THE BEAVERTON REVIEW

Egg and Poultry Production
Is West's Opportunity

Western eggs sell in New York at a premium. Western canned chicken is featured on menus of most expensive hotels in Florida. Realizing the potentialities in this industry, T. B. Wilcox, Jr., has donated a $15,000 annex (to be dedicated this year) to encourage better and larger exhibits at Poultry and Rabbits at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, 20th Annual of which will be held Portland, Oregon, Oct. 25-Nov. 1.

Thirteen Shows in one feature this year's event. $100,000 in Premiums are offered for exhibits of pure-bred Beef and Dairy Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Hogs, Goats, Foxes, Mink, Marten Poultry and Rabbits.

The Bank of Beaverton congratulates Pacific International on securing the new T. B. Wilcox, Jr., Hall, and we urge everyone in this community to attend the Exposition—to learn about the opportunities now available in the Poultry industry.
