Put That Tangible Tang In Your Indian Summer Breakfasts

Indian Summer's here! The "bright blue weather" of October and November, when the well-known Mr. Frost has touched all the pumpkins that did not go to make grinning Jack o'lanterns, has tumbled the apples from the trees, helped strip the shucks from the golden corn, and sent the old thermometer down around its own shoetops every single morning!

To some folks, Indian summer means poetry, to others beautiful scenery, to the farmers Harvest, and to all of us who are lucky enough to sit around the family board—bigger and better breakfasts! "Bigger and better" breakfasts mean—you've guessed it—waffles and pancakes and muffins, with all of the delicious syrup you want poured on top of them—a tangible tang you can eat! Isn't that a treat that was worth waiting all summer for?

There are all kinds of syrup for the waffles and cakes of our Autumn appetites, but the best and most healthful kind, the kind that melts in your mouth, is made from the food most appropriate to Indian summer—corn, the first food of the Americans. Straight from the tidy cans you can pour it, or from your favorite fat pitcher: the crystalline light kind, the mellow dark variety, or, for a change, the butterscotch or maple or caramel-flavored corn syrups.

If it's piping hot you like your syrup, that's easy, too! Just pour it into a saucepan, to each cupful add one-fourth teaspoon baking soda, bring to a boil and serve.

Now for the waffles and cakes themselves, some clever cook has worked out a "speed method" of mixing which leaves you time for plenty of beauty sleep; Use a liquid shortening, pour the cool oil straight from the can into the beaten eggs, and don't cream at all. Since both the eggs and oil are cool, you need use no special care to make this "emulsion," and it cuts the time in half.

Quick Waffles

2 1/2 cups pastry flour or 1 1/2 cups bread flour and 1/2 cup cornstarch
4 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
3 eggs
1/2 cup corn oil
1 1/2 cups milk
Mix and sift dry ingredients; beat eggs and stir in oil. Add milk, and then dry ingredients all at once. Beat until thoroughly mixed. Bake in hot waffle iron about five minutes, and serve with syrup.

Griddle Cakes Jiffy

3 1/2 cups pastry flour, or 2 1/2 cups bread flour and 1/2 cup cornstarch
5 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup corn oil
2 cups milk
Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat egg, stir in oil, add one-fourth cup milk and beat half minute. Add rest of milk and stir in dry ingredients all at once. Drop by spoonful on hot griddle. Cook on one side until full of bubbles, turn, and cook on other side. If cakes seem too thick, add more milk. Serve with butter and syrup.

Incidentally, if you have "ten o'clock scholars" in your home, you can frustrate them by serving something so tempting that everybody will want to get up to get his "share". Then Junior will be willing to leave his dreams of flying to Paris, Nancy may forego her daily stunt of muffling the alarm, and even Dad be encouraged to rush through his shave and omit the last chorus of his "abandonary" song.

One particularly good "frustrator" besides the suggested hot cakes is a muffin, crammed with fruit. Try these on your "dollar dollar" children:

Health Muffins

1 cup flour
1/2 tsp. salt
4 tsp. baking powder
1 cup bran
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 tblsp. brown sugar
2 tblsp. corn oil
1/2 pkg. dates
Sift dry ingredients; add bran.

Add slightly beaten egg and sliced dates to the milk; stir this into the bran and flour. Add sugar and oil. Beat until thoroughly mixed. Bake in well-oiled muffin pans in hot oven (400-425 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

When the aroma of those steals up the stairs let Morpheus look to his laurels. The dry ingredients may be mixed the night before, and only the liquid added in the morning. They may also be reheated. More time saved! And if you start off this meal with the tasty canned grapefruit, which needs no preparation at all, you'll find the first meal may also be the easiest, the tastiest, and the best.
