The heavy rain of last week has helped to fill up the numerous wells in this town which were getting very low. In some cases there has been no water in them all winter. The beaver-dam is all under water, but the water is receding a little and will soon be so the new crop of onions can be put in and the land worked for the crop to be grown on it.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The Freshman English class taught by Miss Barnes at the Beaverton high school recently finished the study of Stevenson's "Treasure Island." In connection with this study, each member of the class composed a poem suggested to them by the story. Some of those that Miss Barnes chose as the best follow:

A POEM

Come, and I'll tell you a story, One that has never grown old, Of Flint, and his big band of pirates, And of John Silver so bold.

How Jimmy sat down in a barrel, Of the plot he overheard from the crew, Of the fight that they had in the stockade,

Of Jim's on the big boat, too, How they found Ben Gunn a castaway, And how much Ben Gunn loved cheese,

How Jim cut the Hispaniola free, And watched it float in the breeze, Of how Jim was captured by pirates, And of how he got back to his friends.

How at last they found the treasure, And then of the journey's end. —Ruby Zastrow

TREASURE ISLE

Flint caused a lot of trouble When he buried his treasure deep In the soil of Treasure Isle Under the scorching, tropic heat.

Jim was a boy who set out to sea With the squire and Dr. Livesay; The cook aboard was Long John Silver Who had a parrot exceedingly noisy.

Silver proved to be a man Who had plundered the sea for gold. The crew aboard were all like him, Dangerous pirates, brave and bold.

They fought many battles and lost many lives O'er this treasure for fortune and fame. These honest men and buccaneers, So they could have a famous name.

Ben Gunn found the treasure And stowed it in his cave, Keeping it as secret as a mouse, And letting the others rave.

Somehow the Doctor learned the secret With the aid of a little cheese. Then the honest men sailed home, With the treasure, across the seas. —Ruth Asbury

"TREASURE ISLANDS"

If adventure stories are interesting to you, If they draw you to worlds new, If you like real adventures of old, And thrilling tales about buried gold,

Then read "Treasure Island". If you like stories of sailors brave, If it's stories of pirates and treasures you crave, Pirates who go in search of gold, In "Treasure Island" all this is told.

So read "Treasure Island". If you like stories of pirates brave, And it's stories of adventure that you crave, Then open up my literature book On page seventy nine please take a look, And read "Treasure Island".

If you like stories of very bad men, Who on great searches have all been, If you like stories of men who drink rum, Or of men who spend their lives on a "bum",

Then read "Treasure Island". —Dorothy Finnell

BURIED TREASURE

Long John Silver was a pirate bold, Who sailed the seas in days of old, He was part of a pirate crew, His mates were Bill, Black Dog and Pew.

Flint was the captain of these merry men, Twas for him to say where to go and when, He buried a treasure on an isle far away, Part of it's there this very day.

Years had passed when a boy named Jim Discovered the chest this money was in, But Silver decided to get it, too, So he started a mutiny among Jim's crew.

Jim finally won and received all the gold That Flint had buried in the days of old. The rest of it's there as I said before, 'Way far out on that Island shore. —Shirley Koch

TREASURE ISLAND

Young Jim Hawkins and old Doctor Livesay On the ship Hispaniola once sailed away; Squire Trelawney and John Peg-Leg, The latter was surely one bad egg.

O'Brien, a sailor, and many another With whose names I shall not bother, They all set sail from Bristol town On a treasure voyage of far renown.

Old Silver caused a bold mutiny As soon as they reached that isle in the sea. Seven men stayed with the captain true, Eighteen went in John Silver's crew.

They had two fights on the tropical isle, Jim's side won—there was peace for awhile. One day Jim spied old Ben Gunn, The poor old man was "hot on the run."

Crazy he seemed, though not really so, He'd been marooned there three years ago. He knew just where the treasure was And for his help demanded cheese. Jim cut the ship adrift, was caught by John, Then the pirates were scared by a skeleton. John and crew found the treasure gone, And the men got mad at old Long John.

They'd have cut him up by the treasure cave But the doctor and Ben, his skin did save. He left at a port with some of the treasure. The rest got home and each got his measure. With the money they earned on this wild cruise, To go on another they did not choose. Some spent it soon while others were thrifty, And this all happened in 1750. —Frances McCarter

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

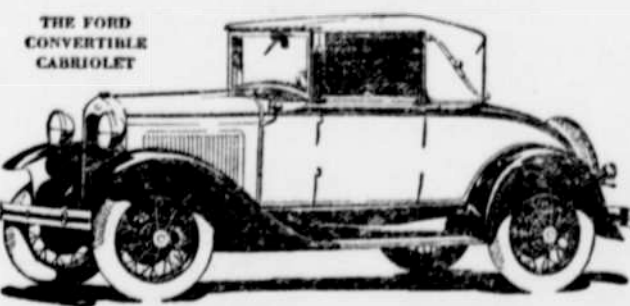

Bright, enduring RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Call or phone for demonstration.

LOW FORD PRICES $430 to $630

(F. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at low cost. You may purchase a Ford car or truck for a small down payment, on convenient, economical terms through your Ford dealer.
