Donald has carried from one to four projects every year since 1928, finishing every one 100%. His major project is Dairy calf. He now owns four registered Holsteins, three registered Chesterwhite hogs and 10 O. I. C. hogs.

Donald started in club work in 1928 with a registered Holstein bull which his father gave him. He exhibited this bull at the 1928 County fair and it placed first. After the fair he sold this bull and bought a registered heifer. He exhibited this heifer at the 1929 County and State fairs where he won two firsts, finishing second at the 1929 Pacific International stock show.

The following year Donald exhibited the same heifer which placed first at the county and state fairs again. The heifer placed fourth at the stock show. Donald placed first in the Holstein showmanship contest in the semi-final showmanship contest he was judged champion, and in the final contest he tied with the champion beef showman for Grand Champion showman of the Pacific International Livestock show.

During the 1931 club season Donald carried three divisions in calf club work, two divisions in pig club work and one each in corn growing and Camp Cookery. Donald also led a pig club that finished 100%. He was judged champion club member of Washington County for 1931.

At the 1931 County Fair Donald had on exhibition 2 registered Holstein heifers which placed first and fourth in their individual classes, his registered Chesterwhite gilt placed third. Donald was judged Champion showman over all breeds for the fourth time having never been defeated in a showmanship contest in the last four years.

At Salem Donald's registered heifer placed fourth and he was judged champion Holstein club member at the fair and was awarded the Mount Angel College stock farm special, a $150 registered heifer calf. This contest was judged according to showmanship, record book, herdsman, and exhibit. His scores were: exhibit 75%, record book 92%, herdsman 84%, and showmanship 90%, a total of 351% points.

The calf awarded was from some of the colleges best show stock.

Donald was high scoring individual in the County Crops Judging contest in 1930 and was on the team that represented Washington Co. at Salem where they placed second and at the Pacific International Land Products show, they placed first. During Donald's club career he has been on three judging teams and one demonstration team that have represented Washington County at the state fair. Kenneth Harlan was the principal speaker on the Cedar Mill grange lecture hour at the regular monthly meeting of Leedy grange Saturday evening. His talk dealt with the importance of the constitutional amendment to be voted on at the next election to allow the Grange Powerbill to operate. He likened the present condition of the bill, which passed at the last election, to being in the middle of the stream, and waiting for a boat to bring it to shore.

C. S. Haynes of Sherwood, candidate for the Republican nomination for county commissioner, also gave a talk, telling of the needs of this end of the county for representation on the commission. He also gave an entertaining Irish song.

Contest Is Announced At Kiwanis Meeting

Prizes Will Be Given for Drawings of Designs For Rose Float

ENDS SUN., APRIL 10

Andy Anderson Gives Concise History of the Scout Movement

Willard Jackson promised the Kiwanis that this week's program would be the best they had ever listened to—and it surely was good. Scout Leader David Phelps was present with a few of the members of his troop and demonstrated some of the tasks that scouts are expected to learn and be able to do at a women's notice.

The assembly call was realistic and taps sounded right clever. Wig-wagging or sending messages by means of signal flags held in certain positions signifying the different letters of the alphabet was also demonstrated, as well as many other scout activities.

Andy Anderson of the local Mac Marr store gave a clear and concise history of the inception and development of the scout movement. Space is too limited to go into detail of the many things the club learned from Andy's talk.

The President appointed Leonard Adams to superintend the matter of getting a Beaverton float in the Portland Rose Show parade. Leonard then announced that the club would give a prize for the best drawings for a design to be followed out in building the float, $10 first prize and $5.00 for the second prize. All drawings or designs to be in the hands of the committee, L. Adams, chairman, not later than April 10. It is desired to get this matter settled so that residents may have a chance to plant flowers to be used in decorating the float.

Local Doctor Tells Of Progress Made Against Diphtheria

By C. E. Mason

Earlier in the year Beaverton parents had an opportunity to become acquainted with the value of immunization against contagious disease through an address given by Dr. R. S. Welsh to the Beaverton P.-T. A. It was explained that especially in the case of small pox and diphtheria, the fact of immunization had positively passed the experimental stage—and was a recognized fact.

Children given the advantage of Small Pox vaccination and Diphtheria toxin-antitoxin in better than 90 per cent of the cases are immune and will not take either of the diseases even when brought into close contact with infected patients or carriers.

There is no a large city in the U. S. in which parents are not urged to allow their children to have the privilege of immunization and the records of the past few years, made from comparisons before and after immunization, bear out the practical value of immunization as a health measure.

Disregarding reports from other cities, let us study the reports of our own city, Portland. We have in Portland a record of cases before diphtheria toxin-antitoxin was given and then for a period of years after it was given. The children of Portland were given an opportunity to have the Diphtheria toxin-antitoxin first in the school year of 1926. The following is a record

Year	No. Cases	No. Deaths
1921	1567	51
1922	575	24
1923	428	31
1924	700	31
1925	781	38

In 1926 the health board began to give Diphtheria toxin-antitoxin but, of course, immediate effects were not obtained that year as all the children could not be immunized in one year. Each year the health board has carried on a continuous school year program. One or two physicians being employed part time each week giving the toxin-antitoxin.

Year	No. Cases	No. Deaths
1926	455	24
1927	278	12
1928	253	10
1929	208	15
1930	127	13
1931	30	2

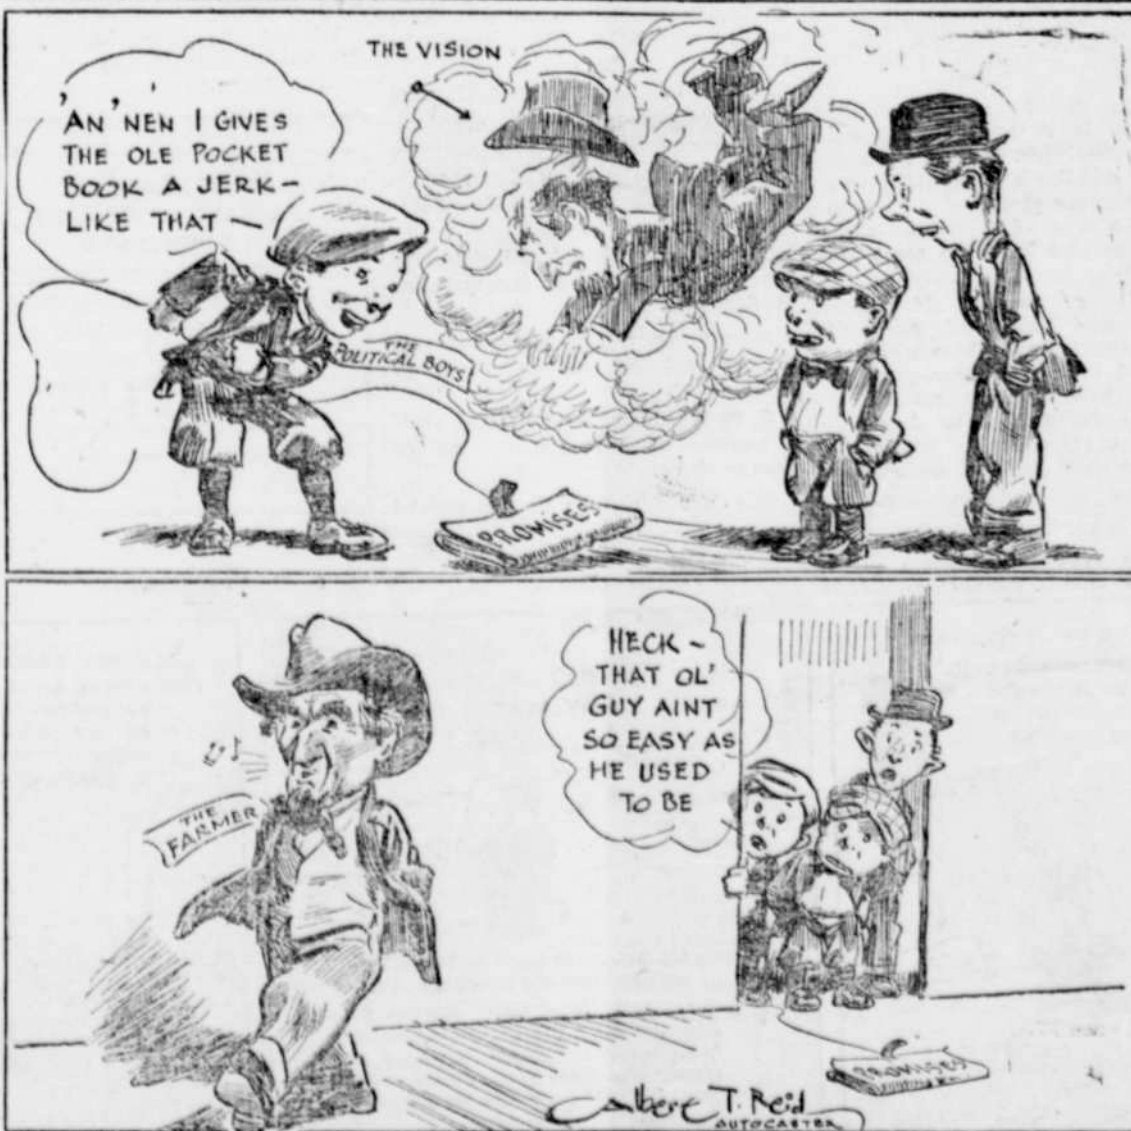

There has been a marked decrease in the number of cases of Diphtheria in Portland since the health program was inaugurated. This change for the better could have been no mere accident, for this record is paralleled in all other large cities in the U. S. and abroad.

In Beaverton, after the advisability of such a program had been very thoroughly explained to the P.-T. A. it was felt that quite a number of children might be im-

April First Is Losing Its Kick

Thoughts On Nominations As Told By Tillie Tattler

(By Tillie Tattler)

These are the times that try men's soles, as some fellow, probably Pope said. What with the dry east wind blowing for a number of days the first of the week and drying all the moisture out of our footwear, then the deluge witnessed Wednesday, if your soles don't leak, they must be of the very best of cow hide.

Now I don't know what's become of that club that was in the throes of getting organized. Maybe when they got Politician in there it spoiled everything. They say that politics is rotten and we all heard the story of the boy with the plate of apples on which his father placed the rotten apple. The father argued that there were so many more of the good apples that if there was any change to take place, the good apples should make the rotten apple good. But despite the plausibility of the argument, the plate was brought out again. The one rotten apple proved too much for the good ones.

When us women got into politics, we thought we were going to clean everything up, that there would be no more rotten politics. We were going to clean up things. We've got into something we never had hold of before and some ways we've been able to accomplish a little and in some ways I can't see if it is any better than before we got universal suffering.

Folks go to a good lawyer when they want legal advice, they go to a good doctor when they want health advice, then to a good dentist to get dental advice, but when a man wants to advertise, and who doesn't at times? why he just sits down and lets some gold-brick peddler sell him a two-dollar clock and a couple of dollars worth of plated cards for fifteen or twenty dollars and he hands out the cards thinking he is getting advertising.

Then there was the Scot who looked all over town for something for his wife and got mad as a wet hen when someone asked if he had got any offers yet.

Some of these times a fellow or maybe it'll be a woman, will invent an auto with eight cylinders, four on a side, so the wife can drive her half just like she wants to.

I haven't been out much this week. I haven't seen B. Tonian for a number of days, but I heard that he had been over town. He maybe is out looking for some office. Candidates of every sort are plentiful and the number that have started to run for county commissioner is surprising—five.
