PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR OF OREGON

May first has been designated as Child Health Day by joint resolution of congress and by proclamation of the President of the United States.

It is needless to remind all thoughtful citizens that boys and girls, sound in body, mind, and spirit, are the one great hope for the future.

BREAD AND MILK

"For Lunch or Supper—a bowl of bread and milk." How very unexciting and a bit old-fashioned it is, yet food authorities agree that these two together should form the basis of the well planned diet.

Bread from the whole grains has more food value than that made with the "refined flours." Because the germ of the seed does not keep long after the grain is crushed, it is often removed.

How much of the food money should be spent for bread and milk? It is generally conceded that the money spent for food should be divided into fifths: one-fifth or more for milk and cheese, one-fifth or more for bread and cereals, one-fifth or less for fruits and vegetables, one-fifth or less for meats, fish and eggs, and one-fifth or less for fats, sugar, or other groceries.

A good rule to follow is to build your food needs around a quart of milk for each child and a pint for each adult in the family. Although a diet of bread and milk is appealing in itself, there are various ways of combining them which will result in tasty dishes and give variety too.

Cheese Strata: 6 slices dry bread, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 eggs, 1/2 tsp. salt, Few grains pepper. Trim crusts from the bread and lay slices in the bottom of a buttered baking dish, fitting them into cover the entire surface.

Among those present at the cheese-maker's ball last week was our own Theodore Rainwater. Ted says it was so crowded his lady fainted and had to dance around four times before she could find a place to fall down.

Money to Burn

STORY FROM THE START

Hiram Butterworth, miser, decides to leave his fortune to Elmer Clarke, a poor nephew. Butterworth tells Absalom McPeak, his lawyer, a deal forty years ago in which he swindled a man out of $10,000.

Twelfth installment: Elmer arrived in Pilarcitos too late in the afternoon to take Nellie to luncheon, and as he was due that night to conduct an initiation of a class of thirty neophytes into the local lodge of the Woodmen of the World, he had no opportunity of seeing her until noon of the following day.

"Well, have it your own way," he replied gloomily but bravely. "I'll get it for you, Elmer. I'll get it for you, Elmer. I'll get it for you, Elmer."

"I'll be hanged if I know," he confessed. "We forgot to look at it." "Just as well you forgot, Elmer. She couldn't write a snappy, interesting story anyhow. She's as spruce as a lead dollar."

"Now, how can you say such a thing about a girl you have never met?" Elmer challenged. "Saw you walking down to the depot with her the night she was in Pilarcitos. Heard a fragment of her conversation. Heard her laugh. Noted her general make-up. That's all, but that's enough for little Nellie Cathcart."

"No, Elmer, I wish I hadn't jumped into that campaign for high school trustee. You're all that keeps me from leaving this town and never coming back. I hope I get whipped to a frazzle in that trustee fight—honestly, I do."

"I don't think I could stand that," he confessed soberly. "Nellie laughed. 'No man of spirit would. Where are you taking me for luncheon?'"

"Well, Elmer, Nellie announced when they found themselves seated. 'I've sold your house and let on the terms you named. If you drop in at the bank after luncheon and sign the deed, I'll attest it and the deed will be closed in twenty-four hours.'"

"Three cheers!" said Elmer. "Nellie, you're a smart girl. When does the new owner desire to take possession of my house?"

"Attorney!" said Nellie. "Now let's talk about your campaign for high school trustee and organize a sheep-killing dog as climbed in beside her. Well, there was but one thing to do, and that was to tell the truth, shame the devil and let the chips fall where they might."

"Well, I'll tell you all about her—she recognized you and you just had to be decent and give her a lift."

"I don't think I could stand that," he confessed soberly. "Nellie laughed. 'No man of spirit would. Where are you taking me for luncheon?'"

ON OREGON FARMS

Canyon City—A pool of nearly 4000 pounds of Grimm alfalfa seed was made up and ordered for 34 Grant county farmers during the past month.

Dallas—Here is a cane where determination and perseverance were not regarded as virtues. When W. Frank Crawford of Zena plowed under his strawberry planting and set out gooseberries in their place, the strawberry root weevils, deprived of their natural food, promptly attacked the gooseberries.

Cheese Strata: 6 slices dry bread, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 eggs, 1/2 tsp. salt, Few grains pepper. Trim crusts from the bread and lay slices in the bottom of a buttered baking dish, fitting them into cover the entire surface.

Klamath Falls

Klamath Falls—Many dairy farmers have not yet learned the value of a dairy herd improvement association, but here are some who have. A number of the members of the Klamath association have found themselves unable to continue testing this year.

Roseburg—Creep feeding of lambs has proved very successful this spring on the farm of L. E. Thompson at Umpqua, where periodic weightings of the lambs are recorded and an accurate cost of feed purchased kept.

Hillsboro—Hannechen barley has largely replaced spring oats in the Washington county farming system, says W. F. Cyrus, county agent.

Beaverton Rebekah Lodge No. 248 meets first and third Tuesday evenings at 7:30 P. M. in the L.O.O.F. Hall.
