Legislators Having "Whale" Of A Time

"Dry" Senate Defeats The Proposed Bill Which Was To Legalize Beer

STAY UNTIL THROUGH

Bill Proposed To Abolish Washingtons Birthday As School Holiday

The legislators have been having a "whale" of a time the past week, which culminated in the introduction of a house bill Saturday which would protect whales, such as the one which found its way up the Columbia slough, when they are in the waters of the state or within three miles of the shoreline. The bill declares whale to be royal fish. The fish wheel bill which passed the house but was killed by a 2-1 vote in the senate. This was one of the most controversial measures in the legislature.

The pilot bill, claimed to be the most lobbied piece of legislation in Salem, was defeated in the house by a 4-19 vote, with one absent. The house later reconsidered the bill, and it met death a second time. The bill which would reduce itinerant vendors' license from $100 to $50 was killed in the senate. This is the bill which the Watkins and Raleigh dealers have been struggling to have passed. There are a number of doctors and druggists in the legislature who are looking out for their own interests.

Senators Brown and Zimmerman put up a strong fight for the farm mortgage moratorium bill, patterned after the Iowa law, but a number of so-called constitutional lawyers succeeded in having the measure killed on the grounds that it was not constitutional. A powerful lobby representing banks, insurance and loan agencies has been here for days fighting this legislation. However, on Saturday the senate passed a bill permitting banks to declare moratoriums, and this bill was declared constitutional. Brown and Zimmerman had something to say to that, and they said it! This bank holiday was later recalled.

The state bank bill, sponsored by the Grange, received only 7 favorable votes in the senate.

The chain store tax bill, which has been maneuvered around through the influence of the chain store lobby, is back in the house committee on taxation and revenue, which is becoming known as the "gaveyard" committee.

This committee agreed on an income tax bill calling for exemptions of $800 for a single person and $1500 for married couples, with $300 for each dependent, the rates to be 2 to 7 per cent.

The indications are that a big drive is going to be put under way in the closing days of the session, to pass a general sales tax. A recent newspaper article quoted William Randolph Hearst, well-known newspaper publisher, as favoring the adoption of a sales tax and the abolition of income taxes. Grange and Labor officials have been contending for some time that the movement for a sales tax emanated from Big Business and was being promoted so that income taxes would not be further advanced or so that they might be reduced. This open admission from Hearst bears out the stand taken by Grange and Labor.

On George Washington's birthday Senator Hazlett delivered an address. This time George was 201 years old.

A lot of valuable time has been going to the dogs. A new horse and dog racing bill has been introduced. Another piece of important legislation which passed the house Saturday, and which drew forth many pointed and stinging remarks of a personal nature, was the mosquito bill.

The senate passed a bill providing that Washington's birthday no longer be observed as a school holiday in Oregon, but that a short program shall be held in the morning and the remainder of the day devoted to school work.

An amended measure softening the Oregon syndicalism law passed the senate.

The senate also passed three unemployment relief bills, providing for the placing of unemployed on logged-off and burned-over lands. On Monday another sales tax bill was introduced, which the Grange brands as more objectionable than the one which they tried to pass in the special session.

The beer bill was killed by a senate vote of 16 to 14. The senate also killed the bills which would repeal certain sections of the Ore-

Grades To Compete In Semi-Final Contest

The Coming Declamation Contest Will Be Held At High School, Friday

PUBLIC IS INVITED

Fourth Grade Is Youngest Class In The Dining Hall

The semi-final declamation contest will be held in the Beaverton High School auditorium Friday, March 10, at 7:30 P. M. Mr. E. G. Webb will act as chairman. Competing schools include Hillsboro, Forest Grove, Beaverton, Tigard and Aloha-Huber.

Beaverton representatives are Louis Wilson, Hallie Jean Pace, Veldon Boge, Cathryn VanKleek, Gene Brown, and Lyman Webb. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The third grade children welcomed the month of March by making windmills on squared paper. Fourth and fifth grade pupils have made daffodil panels.

Although the boys and girls of the fourth grade are the youngest class in the dining hall. They are determined to conduct themselves as mannerly as the older groups. A class discussion on lunch room behavior revealed that they should be merry and happy while eating but not boisterous. Eating slowly is essential but loitering too long is inconsiderate of those who have work to do. And hardest of all but equally important is walking leisurely to one's place at the table and waiting patiently until everyone is ready to eat. Each child is trying hard to meet these objectives in order that their class may gain recognition of its good behavior.

Mrs. Holladay, Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Howard have been visiting the third grade. The First Grade is organizing a reading club. The requirements are fluency, rapid recognition of words, and good expression. Next week the names of those who are eligible will be printed.

City To Have Own Water Supply Soon

Fred H. Goyt Is Appointed Position Of City Water Superintendent

PIPE LINE OFFERED

Several Chosen To Work With Committee On Assessment Liens

The offer of Henry Dahl, superintendent of the West Slope water district, to allow Beaverton to use some of the mains belonging to that district to help bring Beaverton's water from the city reservoir down to the city mains, was probably the principal feature of Monday's council meeting. Owing to the condition of the ground at this time, it is thought unadvisable to try to lay the pipe connecting the reservoir with the city mains.

Alderman Fordney, chairman of the water committee of the city council is to be commended in getting this concession granted from the district to the east of us and on his energy in attacking the problem of getting the connections made so that probably early next week the city will be using their own water for the first time since its incorporation.

H. L. Mackenzie of Hillsboro, through his attorney, both being present, offered to accept 60% of the face value of his tax certificates which he holds against certain property bid in by the city on delinquent assessment liens. No action was taken in the matter.

Fred H. Goyt, formerly with Swift & Co. was appointed to the position of city water superintendent with a salary of $70 per month. His duties were briefly outlined and include reading meters, putting in taps, running the pump at the reservoir and other duties incidental to the maintenance of the water system. E. O. Zimmerman, V. Domogalla, R. D. Williams and others were also applicants for the position.

A. E. Wilson, M. W. Manning and Mrs. Lela Richey were appointed on a committee to work with the finance committee of the council to work out some means of solving the delinquent assessment lien situation.

A resolution was offered and adopted requiring the regular monthly meetings of the town council to be opened with a prayer to be given by some of the ministers of the churches represented here.

Ordinance No. 143 was read for the second and third time and adopted by a four to two vote. This measure deals with the duties of the City Attorney.

WILLIAMS FACES ARSON CHARGE

Claire Williams is in the county jail and J. Lamborn Elder, late publisher of The Beaverton Enterprise, is out on bail. Both are charged with setting fire to and attempting to burn up the plant where the Enterprise had been published and the building it occupied.

According to Elder's statement, he purchased the plant and paper from H. H. Jeffries and after defaulting on his payments entered into a contract with Claire Williams, circulation promoter to put on a subscription campaign. He talked with Jeffries about the campaign and with a former employer. The campaign was not turning out so well but there came a suggestion from Williams that a good way out would be to "have a fire."

But the fire was not a very great success from the conspirators standpoint so they got a few friends to claim they, the friends, had sent in a lot of subscriptions and the prizes were awarded by the judges of the contest. Earl Fisher and others to these "friends" who had supplied Williams with statements of subscriptions they, the "friends" had sent in. But local people were not satisfied that all was straight. Some of these people went to the district attorney, G. R. Morgan who in turn got in touch with the state fire marshal and others with the result that statements were obtained from some of these supposed prize winners to the effect that they had taken no part in the contest, but had signed the subscription statements and the receipts for prizes "just to help Williams and Elder out." Just a friendly gesture, so to speak.
