Attics Prove To Be Treasure Places Beauty and Utility Found in Discards

What leftovers and broken-down relics of another day have you in your attic, or basement, or out in the old barn, if you are lucky enough to have an old barn?

Discarded household objects and seemingly hopeless wrecks surviving from other years are proving to be a real treasure trove now to resourceful "renovators."

At the recent Iowa State Fair in Des Moines, depicted incidentally, in a recent motion picture featuring Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor, one of the most interesting displays, and one of the most largely attended, was the "make-shift" class in the 4-H Girls' home furnishing exhibit.

Many ingenious girls showed entries revealing how cleverly they had changed seemingly hopeless material into objects of usefulness or beauty, or both. The 4-H girls of Black Hawk county, for instance, made a comfortable easy chair from a worthless old wooden washing machine.

There are many thousands of similar old washers, discarded when the owners adopted the efficient, economical new types. These can be made useful, but in a new way, just as easily as the Iowa girls transformed the backbreaker into a back-rester. They removed the cover and the tiring old hand-crank, took off about a third of the side tub boards, leaving the others for the chair's sides and back, and finished it with a thick soft pad and an attractive cover of durable, heavy green-tinted material. A floor lamp and a good solid footstool were added to complete the unit, reports Ruth Hastings, of Jefferson, state 4-H historian.

Helpful Hints To The Hostess

Those Chocolate Drinks A delicious chocolate drink will make a pleasant change for afternoon refreshments or for the after-bridge supper in the evening—especially now that cold weather is coming on apace.

Brazilian Chocolate 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces

1 cup cold strong coffee Dash of salt 3 tablespoons sugar 3 cups milk

Place chocolate and coffee in upper part of double boiler over direct heat. Stir until chocolate is melted and blended. Add salt and sugar. Boil 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Place over hot water. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. When hot, beat with rotary egg beater until light and frothy. Cool. Pour over cracked ice in tall glasses. Top with 1 tablespoon sweetened, whipped cream. Serves 6. The delicious blend of coffee and chocolate in this drink makes it an unusual and very popular refreshment beverage.

Reception Chocolate Two-thirds cup sugar 4 tablespoons flour

2 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 quart cold water 1 quart milk 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, flour, chocolate, salt, and water in upper part of double boiler. Place over direct heat and boil 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Add milk, place over hot water, and heat. Add vanilla and beat with rotary egg beater until light and frothy. Serve immediately. Serves 12. This makes an excellent, inexpensive hot chocolate of extraordinary smoothness and rich flavor, especially suited for use at receptions, teas, and similar functions.

will be sent to the marine corps base at San Diego, Cal., where they will undergo about three months training in military drills, first aid, rifle and bayonet instructions, gunnery and light artillery training.

Marines serve on board all battleships, larger cruisers and airplane carriers of the navy afloat and at foreign shore stations in China, Hawaii, Haiti, Panama and the Philippine islands.

Chocolate dipping is not difficult if one knows how. There are very good brands of "dipping chocolate" on the market that are quite inexpensive. It comes in bulk in chunks. One-fourth pound will dip about two portions of the fondant given in last week's paper. Be sure to roll out the fondant the day before and shape into balls so it will form a hard coating and keep its shape after dipping.

One may do many things to the fondant centers before dipping to vary them. Work in chopped nuts or raisins or dates or different flavorings and colors.

To prepare the chocolate shave or grate it. Put into a heavy bowl that has been warmed over hot water. It begins to melt at a low temperature. You may recall how quickly chocolate candy melts in the fingers. Begin beating as soon as it begins to melt. The whole point to consider is "don't let it get too hot." If the oil in it becomes liquified it will never be nice. One-fourth pound is not too much to melt at one time. Less than that dries out too rapidly. Have a smaller topped pan with hot water to occasionally re-warm the chocolate. Keep beating it to keep smooth.

Try to see a demonstration of dipping in some of the stores for the technique. I usually use a fork with 2 or 3 tines. Drop in a ball of fondant, turn it over, lift out with fork or thumb and finger (first finger only) scrape a bit from the bottom of ball. Slide carefully on to oiled paper so there will be no ring of chocolate left around ball. If fingers are used, take hold of ball at sides, let thumb and finger slowly come toward the top as ball slides into place. Finish with a little whirl to give it the mark of "hand-dipped."

One can wax own papers by rubbing a piece of paraffin on a piece of wrapping paper which is on a warm stove top.

The temperature of the room must be a little cool. If too warm or too cold the result will be streaked or gray looking.

A very popular easily made candy is "Divinity."

2 cups sugar 1/2 cup Karo (scent) 1/2 cup water

Boil until when tested in cold water it will make a clinking noise on side of glass. Dip up about one-half teaspoon and pour in small stream of cup of cold water, swirling spoon so that it makes a spiral or cork screw shape in water. If it has boiled to the right stage, it will retain its shape in water and be brittle and crack easily. Never stir the syrup after it begins to boil.

Pour this syrup in a small stream over 2 egg whites beaten stiff (not dry and flaky). Beat as you pour (not stir). Continue beating until it suddenly changes in texture and stiffens. Quickly pour into oiled pan (with square corners) or dip with one teaspoon and push it off with another. Drop onto waxed paper in little irregular pieces. One must work fast as it stiffens rapidly. Flavoring or chopped raisins or nuts may be added just before it stiffens. Tinting with fruit coloring makes it attractive. I have large proportions for commercial fondant if you wish, also many candy recipes.

HELPFUL HINTS Betty Barclay

Today Betty Says: Stew prunes properly and you will have one of the most delicious dishes imaginable.

First wash prunes with cold water. Then place in pan, cover with water, and bring to a boil. Cook at this boiling temperature for one hour. Add 2 tablespoons of sugar for each cup of prunes during the LAST FIVE MINUTES of cooking—if you prefer a sweetened dish. Many prefer them chilled—and served with cream.

Try this recipe and note the difference.

4-H POULTRY CLUB MEETS.

First of a series of four county-wide 4-H poultry club meetings will be held next Saturday, December 9, at 1:30 P. M., with Dr. W. T. Johnson, poultry pathologist at Oregon State college, as the speaker. Dr. Johnson will discuss problems of poultry sanitation and disease recognition and prevention. Recognized as an outstanding authority on poultry diseases, perhaps Dr. Johnson's most outstanding achievement was the development of the present control of fowl pox by vaccination. His work on poultry diseases has saved the poultrymen of Oregon and the United States thousands of dollars, according to Joseph Belanger, assistant county agent.

Meeting Saturday is designed principally for older club members, their parents and leaders, Belanger said, but younger club members will learn much by attending. Any poultryman, whether connected with 4-H club work or not is invited to attend Dr. Johnson's meeting.

The meeting will be held at Farmer's Cash store in Hillsboro.

CARD PARTY AND DANCE.

There will be a card party and dance at Cedar Mills Grange hall Saturday night, December 9. Admission 25c.

Laundry Lessons

MAGIC CARE FOR RAYONS

FABRICS made entirely or in part of rayon should be washed carefully as these fibers are delicate, particularly when wet, and are likely to break under any unusual strain or pressure. Heat weakens rayon fibers, so that during both washing and ironing processes, only moderate temperatures should be used.

Washing Suggestions

1 Prepare tepid or cool suds, using mild, pure, white soap. (Never use home-made soap.) A little borax will soften very hard water. 2 Wash by gently squeezing suds through fabric. Do not rub. If fabric is badly soiled, soak in suds for some time before washing or put through several fresh suds until clean. 3 Squeeze suds out gently by hand and rinse several times in clear lukewarm water. Squeeze dry as possible without twisting or wringing.

Drying Suggestions

1 Dresses may be rolled in a towel to remove excess moisture. Larger articles such as bedspreads, should be hung with weight evenly divided on both sides of line. 2 Knitted garments (sweaters, particularly) should be laid out flat on clean cloth, stretched or pushed to fit measurements made before washing. Undergarments may be hung evenly over line.

TIGARD GRANGE MEETS.

The regular meeting of Tigard Grange No. 149 was held Wednesday at 8 P. M., December 6.

Joint installation of the officers of Beaverton, Ladd Hill and Tigard granges was held, with Arthur Brown, state deputy, acting as installing officer.

The two beautiful silver plaques which G. H. Bailey, special guard at the United States National bank, had purchased and had suitably inscribed, were on exhibition. The plaques will later be given to the most progressive granges in the county and state.
