Life of Victory

"I live my daily life by the faithfulness of the Son of God who indwells me," says the Apostle Paul.

Let's put it to the test in our own lives.

1st, SURRENDER: Christ came to this world and took a human body and lived a life of victory. Surrender your body, your talents, and your all that He may prove Himself a present, all-powerful, living person within you.

2nd, FAITH: Now you have surrendered all to Him, then stand on it that Christ dwells in your heart. The Bible for it. Just as you leave it to the captain to get the ship across, stand on it that from one five minutes to the next, Christ within you will get you across.

3rd, PRAISE: God's word for it that Christ it within you and almighty. Then don't wait for feelings; give yourselves to praise and Thanksgiving that He is your victory.

To my Friends:

Having opened an office in the Rossi Building, I will continue in the Insurance business which includes many kinds:

ACCIDENT & HEALTH	BURGLARY FOR DWELLINGS
LIFE	PLATE GLASS
FIRE	SURETY BONDS
AUTO	MISCELLANEOUS INSURANCE

There are several kinds of automobile insurance, and the following is an explanation of the various sorts. Fire and theft protects you for loss of all or any part of your car. Collision protects you for any damage to your own car, while Property Damage protects you for any damage that you might do to another person's car or any other property whatsoever: public liability protects you in the event that you should injure or kill anyone.

All of the above policies are written in the strongest companies, and I will be pleased to have the opportunity of attending to your needs.

I will also sell real estate, collect rents, handle loans, investments and escrows, collect notes and accounts, manage estates, act as executor of wills or administrator of estates, do Notary Public work of all kinds including the making of wills, deeds, leases, and contracts.

Sincerely yours,
Doy Gray

FARM LAND MEASUREMENT BEGUN

Measurement of land on those farms in Washington county under wheat allotment contracts began Tuesday morning with one crew in the field. Later in the week three more will start, making four on the job for the time being. Later on if it appears that more are needed to get the job done in seasonal time then they will be added, according to word from the director of the wheat control association. Under the requirements of the wheat administration it is necessary to measure both the land that is in wheat and the contracted acreage as well. In those cases where the wheat acreage has all been abandoned, only the contracted acreage will be measured, according to present regulations.

ADVISE PLOWING UNDER AFFECTED PEAS

Damage from weevil can be greatly lessened in pea fields next year if those fields that were in the season this year are plowed now or thoroughly disked. Loss of pods from the vines during the harvesting process was rather heavy and in some fields where these are lying on the ground checks made during the past week indicate that probably 25 per cent of the peas in these pods carry weevil. Later in the season these little grubs all hatch out into adults. The adult weevil fly around more or less through the summer and hibernate for the winter in the crevices and cracks in fence posts and on the bark of trees. Every uncared for pea patch is a source of infestation for next year for a distance.

Mrs. A. A. Fisher had her tonsils removed Friday.

of probably two miles around, according to A. O. Larson, entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who was in the county this week.

Plowing these fields now will bury most of this stuff on the ground and in their present stage of development the weevil will not survive. Disking would also be of benefit and will probably eliminate a part of the weevil but would not be as effective as the plowing. Wide differences are apparent in the amount of pods that were left
