KINTON

By Mrs. E. L. Cox

The onion growers are shipping their onions right along. J. H. Aten shipped a load to Portland dealers last week.

Mrs. J. H. Aten spent last Wednesday in Sherwood, being a guest of her sister, who was observing her birthday.

Mrs. Ivy Bowen and son Shelburn of Sherwood were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Aten.

Mr. and Mrs. George Snider entertained Thanksgiving day with a large family gathering, most of their children being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Anicker and family of Dosch Station, were visitors Friday at the home of Mr. Anicker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anicker.

Thanksgiving Day passed off very quietly around here. There were a few family gatherings, and a number visited during the day with relatives elsewhere.

Fred Anicker was kept busy last week, when he installed a sink and some cupboards in the kitchen of the grange hall, which have been much needed for some time.

L. J. Francis of Tualatin was a guest for Saturday at the regular monthly meeting of Kinton grange. George Lewis and J. R. Horr of Gresham were dinner guests.

John Richards, who has been making his home with his brother, Harry A. Richards, for some time past, returned to Portland last week where he will make his home with his son, Frank Richards, who resides there.

The children of the school enjoyed a few days vacation during the Thanksgiving holiday, having no school from Wednesday until Monday, but took up studies again Monday with teachers and scholars in their regular places.

Mrs. Ethel McCormick and family of Hillsboro spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. McCormick's mother, Mrs. Lily M. Bierly. Mrs. Bierly made the return trip with them, and spent a few days in Hillsboro, returning home the first of this week.

Robert Pomeroy who spent last week with friends at Tillamook returned home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Snider and family of Lake Grove spent last Thursday at the home of Mr. Snider's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Snider.

Christmas will be observed at the church, Sunday morning, December 23, with a program and tree, the children of the Bible school taking part. A committee consisting of Mrs. Madge Pomeroy, Mrs. Gladys Aten, Mrs. Josephine Cox and Miss Helen VanKleeke are the ones selected to have charge of the affair.

ALOHA-HUBER

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Huber visited friends at Vernonia, Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Schaffer of Wheeler, Ave., visited in Portland, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Denholm of Portland, visited with friends here recently.

Virginia Crandal and Ruth Bromberg of Beaverton visited friends here Saturday.

Mrs. H. A. Lowry was a recent visitor at the home of her mother, Mrs. Dant, at Reedville.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Myers of Beaverton were Sunday visitors, at the Luther Foster home, at Tobias.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anier and two boys were guests of friends at Gresham for dinner Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lowry were guests at the home of Mr. Lowry's mother in Portland, Thanksgiving Day.

Fred Tibbetts and wife of Portland were calling on Fred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tibbetts Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Foulk of Portland, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Foulk's mother, Mrs. Nancy Lee.

H. A. Lowry bagged three ducks, Sunday, while hunting with some Portland friends on the Yamhill River, near Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neal attended the funeral of a cousin of Mrs. Neal, Hugh Darby Logan of Seaside in Portland Monday.

Mrs. William Abbott cut her hand while wiping a glass, making it necessary to have it dressed several times by Dr. Welsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tibbetts were guests for Thanksgiving dinner of their daughter, Mrs. John Penwick and family of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Taylor and son Harley and the Misses Bawn of Progress were Thanksgiving day dinner guests at the Edgar Lusby home.

Edward Johnson and family attended a family Thanksgiving dinner at Corvallis with Mrs. Johnson's brother. They also met other relatives visiting there from Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neal entertained at family dinner on Thanksgiving day for Mr. Neal's two sisters, Mrs. H. B. Luce of Forest Grove and Mrs. W. Gearhart of Astoria being honor guests. Other guests included Edwin C. Luce of Hillsboro and Mrs. Peter Egasue and four children.

The Cook's Nook

If You Cook Because You Like It, You'll Like These Recipes!

Do you cook because you like it or cook because you must? To some wives cooking is a bore, a chore, and a nuisance; to others it is an art, a delight, and a pastime.

One of the reasons for liking to cook is success. Let but the flush of triumph color the cheek of a beginner and immediately a convert is won! One reason for disliking to cook may be traced to the endless preparation of uninteresting dishes; let these souls try their hand at something exciting! Still another argument for enjoying kitchen ranging lies in consuming the results; if you like to eat, you will like to cook, providing you cook good things!

Especially dedicated to those who like to cook, who enjoy seeing a medley of assorted ingredients slowly change into one delightful dish, are the recipes in this column, this week. Every one of them is interesting to eat, and fun to make.

Surprise Meat Balls

The "surprise" of this recipe is that meat balls can be different! These are combined with rice, and cooked by dropping them right into tomato soup. When they emerge they are "puffed up" and delicious.

1/2 cup rice
1 tsp. grated onion
1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
1 can tomato soup
2 tbsps. green pepper (chopped)
1 tsp. salt
1/2 can water
1/2 tsp. pepper

Wash rice thoroughly. Mix meat, rice and seasoning. Shape into 10 small balls and drop into very hot tomato soup, to which water, onion and green pepper have been added. Cook slowly for 40 minutes. Serve on hot plate with tomato sauce over them. If preferred the mixture may be made into patties, browned in pan, the tomato soup poured over, and simmered 45 minutes.

Fruit Flakes

These fruit cookies are interesting to make because it is amazing to see how a few whisks of the spoon mix oddly assorted ingredients.

2 eggs
1 cup light brown sugar
1/3 cup cooking oil
2 cups pastry flour
2 cups corn flakes
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup dates (chopped)
1 cup chopped nuts

Beat eggs slightly, stir in cooking oil, add sugar and beat well. Add flour, baking powder, soda and salt, mixed and sifted. Fold in nuts, dates and corn flakes. Mix carefully. Drop from end of spoon on to oiled baking sheet. Flatten down, bake in moderate oven 15 mins.

Double Decker Date Whip

Whipped orange gelatine on top a square of fruited lemon gelatine makes a two-color, two-flavored dessert that is especially toothsome because of the golden dates in it.

1/2 pkg. orange gelatine
1/2 pkg. lemon gelatine
Water
1/2 pkg. dates
1/4 cup nutmeats
Prepare the lemon and orange

Blood On My Hands

I am concerned for my neighbor who heeds not the Bible truth as to his eternal soul.

For the Good Book says that they who reject Christ as Saviour go out into endless anguish of soul forever away and away and away and away from God who made man for Himself. They live on in that blackest sin; the sin of rejecting Christ as Saviour.

And I ought to be concerned for every man whom I might reach; for, until I have warned him, his blood is on my hands. "The same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thy hand."—Ezekiel 2:18.

Hear the Apostle Paul—"I am innocent from the blood of all men." He was commanded to go to the nations—"to open their eyes and to turn them from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God." Day and night, both publicly, and from house to house he went, testifying both to the Jews and also to the Greeks that they must turn to God and have faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. "I purposed to know nothing among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," he reminds them.

The saved must all stand before the judgment seat of Christ to receive their reward as God's messenger people; rewards or censure. In that awful hour let me not see my neighbor's blood upon my hands, but let me hear my Lord say, "Well done, good and faithful servant." Come on men; let's give the truth as it is in Christ Jesus to the last unsaved soul in our country.

George N. Taylor, Beaverton, Oregon. Pd adv

gelatine according to package directions; when the lemon mixture begins to thicken, pour it into tall-stemmed serving glasses. Cover this with the dates (sliced) and chopped nuts. Set in a cold place. Cool the remainder of the gelatine until partially set, then with rotary beater beat until fluffy. Pile the whipped jelly over the dates and nuts in the glasses. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream and a date.

Lollipops

Candy is always fun to make, but pink peppermint "all-day suckers", sticks and all, are especially amusing. Try them in a leisure hour.

2 cups sugar
2/3 cup white corn syrup
1 cup water
Vegetable coloring
1/2 tsp. oil of peppermint

Put sugar, corn syrup, and water into sauce-pan and stir over low fire, until sugar is dissolved. Cook, without stirring, until temperature 310° F. is reached, or when tried in cold water it will be very brittle. (Wash sides of pan with wet cloth during cooking to remove crystals). The last part of the cooking should be done slowly, so that the syrup will not color. Remove from fire, add coloring (just enough red coloring to make a delicate pink), add flavoring, and stir on low fire until mixture is thick. Drop from tip of tablespoon on smooth oiled slab or baking sheet. Press one end of toothpick or skewer into edge of each lollipop. Loosen from slab as soon as they are firm, before they are cold.

A sheepman in Montana, as Sid Replogle tells the story, had made application for a government loan on his flock. The money was slow coming and as he needed cottonseed cake for his ewes at lambing time, he telegraphed to Washington. Back came this reply: "Money available in two weeks, postpone lambing season until then."—Exchange.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY

EDITOR'S NOTE: Recent strike threats by union leaders in the steel industry have received a great deal of public attention recently. It has been alleged that the steel employers have refused to bargain collectively with their employees but this is categorically denied by the operators. The following article is the first of a series prepared by the American Iron and Steel Institute to explain the steel industry's position on this vital question.

PART I.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FAVORED

Much of the recent publicity respecting the attitude of the iron and steel industry toward collective bargaining has served chiefly to belound the real issue.

Many of the writers would have their readers believe that the industry is fundamentally opposed to any and all forms of collective bargaining.

That is not true. The industry stands squarely in favor of the right and the practice of collective bargaining with its employees.

The only issue at stake involves the form of such bargaining.

This issue arises from the fact that labor unions, chiefly those affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, temporarily usurping a dominating position under the NRA, have claimed the exclusive right to represent the employees of the industry, despite the fact that their membership in the groups does not, and never has embraced more than a negligible minority of employees.

Labor unions now seek to force the industry to sign "closed shop" agreements with the employees, providing for the "check-off" of union dues and would prevent the employer from hiring or retaining any worker who was not a member of the union.

This is as objectionable to the great majority of employees as it is to the employer. No single union is incorporated, or possesses any legal or financial responsibility which would place it on a par in contractual relationships with the companies in the iron and steel industry. Employers feel that it is morally and economically as undesirable for them to require every present and prospective employee to join a union as a prerequisite to employment as it would be for the employer to discharge, or to refrain from hiring, anyone solely because he carried a union card.

The steel industry is not without experience in "bargaining" with American Federation of Labor unions, and that experience, with its examples of jurisdictional disputes; strikes; racketeering leadership; excessive dues, fines and penalties; limitation of output; intrusion of agents having no acquaintance with the industry or the employee body they claim to represent; and a general and fundamental philosophy of conflict, has not been conducive to satisfaction, either to the employees or to the management.

The employees and the management alike contend that collective bargaining may best be accomplished, in the interests of the employees themselves as well as those of business and society at large, by the establishment of self-governing employees' organizations within the industry, who elect representatives who will deal with employers upon questions concerning wages, hours, working conditions as well as all other matters of mutual interest.

Employee representation is a cooperative, constructive effort on the part of all employees of the company, both management and men, for the purpose of building organization by creating greater confidence and harmony. This is accomplished by agreement between the employee's organization and the management, both of whom are familiar with the details and the economic status of the business, for the purpose of settling current problems, thereby creating understanding and helping to eliminate mis-
