Welcome, 1935

Up around Third and Burnside in our town is Skidway. So-called because there humanity is on the skids. Down—down—down. 15 cent beds, card-rooms, beer-joints, the land of homeless men. In the papers lately when wood alcohol took its toll of twenty-some victims in a few hours.

A pasteboard ticket advertises Dad's Place. "Coffee and Do-Nuts 5 cents." Home made pie and coffee the same. All for a nickel, you see. So it goes where humanity mires down, stripped of hope, health clear and outlook.

And out of all this there came a message of victory scrawled in red pencil on one of Dad's five cent cards. It was, "Failure in the Christian life is impossible so long as you trust in Jesus Christ." Now some soul up in the Skidway had proved Him. And if it stands in the Skidway it ought to stand anywhere.

Christ started it away back there on Galilee that night when the boat was likely to sink. Walking across to them, over the troubled waters, He shouts to the frightened disciples, "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid." Then a word of command and the storm died out into peaceful calm. And why not? It was Christ who spoke. All things were made by Him and without Him was nothing made that was made. Everywhere, every way, every time. He is able.

But He will not undertake for you until the sin question is settled. Right now, right where you are, tell God you take Him as your Saviour, to love, trust and obey. Then step out into 1935 looking utterly to Him. And remember Dad's card—Failure impossible so long as you trust Him.

HUMOR

New Steno—"Mr. Sharpiegn called about his account this morning."

Boss—"And you told him I had just left for Europe?"

New Steno—"Yes, and that you wouldn't be back until this afternoon."

"How is everything at your house?" asked the friend of the new bridegroom.

"Oh, she's all right," responded the young husband, happily.

The new general manager was inspecting the branch office. "How long have you been working here?" he asked the office boy.

"Ever since the day the boss threatened to fire me," replied the young man.

Along the Friendly Highway I was hikin' to the village And I fell down flat, Long came a flivver And a sun-bonnet hat. "If you tote me to the village," Sez I, "I'll thank ye marm." Sez she, "One more flat tire Like you won't do no harm."

The prosecuting counsel was having a little trouble with a rather difficult witness.

Exasperated by the man's evasive answers, he asked him if he was acquainted with any of the jury.

"Yes, sir, more than half of them," replied the man in the box.

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?" asked counsel.

"If it comes to that, I'm willing to swear that I know more than all of 'em put together," came defiantly from the witness.

New Steel Revolutionizes Springing on 1935 Automobiles

FOR the first time in the history of the automobile industry a short, leaf spring has been developed that is strong but resilient. Combined with other notable developments it provides a new method of springing which with weight redistribution affords better riding qualities. It has been made possible by the development of a revolutionary new type of steel.

In the past the great difference between the higher priced cars and those of lower price was always in the matter of ride. Wheelbase was considered the explanation, but the real reason was the fact that the front springs, being shorter, were stiff. An unusual characteristic of this spring made of the new type steel, known as "Mola," which was recently developed in the engineering laboratories of Chrysler Motors, is that it uses two main leaves, each of which is wrapped around the shackle bolt. The lower leaf is segmented at the center to allow for elongation. Another feature of this spring is that the leaves are thinner at the ends than at the center. The front springs have approximately the same frequency as the rear spring. This, and a redistribution of the car weight, places approximately the same load on the front and rear springs and results in equalized spring action. With this new system all parts of the car ride the same.

The first car in the low priced field to be equipped with the new type spring will be the 1935 Plymouth, a Chrysler Motors product.

An important feature of the new steel spring is that not only is it soft and resilient, but it is also long-lived.

Further control of front end bounce is achieved by use of double-acting shock absorbers. They definitely add to the comfort of the passengers in the back seat. More positive measures have been taken in the 1935 Plymouth to eliminate side-sway by means of the torsion bar (side-sway eliminator) which acts as a third spring, to reinforce either spring when needed. It keeps the car on an even keel.
