NEW LONGSHORE RULES EFFECTIVE

Peace continues on the San Francisco waterfront.

Working rules covering longshore employment, effective January 12, have been agreed to; and with the Labor Relations Committees of both the International Longshoremen's Association and the Employers functioning actively, steady progress in eliminating causes of disputes is being made.

Within recent weeks, only two or three minor disputes have occurred and these were satisfactorily adjusted.

The rules establish the basic wage scale, the six-hour day and the 30-hour week; enumerate the "penalty" cargoes; carefully prescribe the basis for overtime; and, in general, effectuate the principles embodied in the award of the National Longshoremen's Board, made last October.

With the working rules agreed to, the Committees are now giving full attention to the establishment of the jointly-controlled hiring hall prescribed by the Board's award.

WASH. CO. HAY BEING SOLD IN MIDDLE WEST

Hay from Washington County continues to move to middlewestern points. Since last August when the shipments began, a total of 319 cars carrying 3980 tons of hay have moved out of the county. A little more than $40,000 has been distributed in payment for this hay, according to W. C. Schultz of Forest Grove, who is the man selected by dealers of this county to handle the negotiations.

Purchases have been very well distributed over the entire country, shipments having been made from nearly every railroad siding in the county with the bulk of the shipments coming from the east and north parts of the county. At the time these shipments were started, growers were receiving $10.50 per ton for the hay on board the car with the dealer handling it getting 50 cents a ton. The special drought freight rate at that time was $8 per ton. This rate was discontinued September fourth and the regular rate not reduced again until some time later when a schedule of $10.66 per ton became effective. With the freight $2.50 a ton more than it had been on the first shipments, the middlewestern purchaser insisted on a lower price here. As a consequence the later shipments have been moved for a round $9 a ton to the grower. This is not enough and our growers should be receiving more money, but with some of the large alfalfa growing sections willing to sell their hay in the stack for $9 and $10 a ton, we cannot expect to get much more for our clover and vetch hay as long as alfalfa lasts at the price mentioned.

Apparent authentic information from the middlewest indicates that hay is being sold to the farmer in the drought states at prices of from $20 to $25 per ton which would seem to establish the fact that there is no undue profit taking anywhere along the line, reports W. F. Cyrus, county agent. Schultz estimates that there are approximately 100 car loads of surplus hay remaining in the county. With some more wintry weather, this amount of hay will not amount to anything and probably need not cause anyone any worry. Last June it looked as though we might have a burdensome hay surplus on hand. Had it been possible for all the regions having surplus hay to have agreed on a definite price they should receive then growers here could probably have obtained a price giving them a little better return.

ESTIMATE STRAWBERRY OUTPUT FOR 1935

Area of strawberries in 1935 for picking in the Pacific coast and mountain states is expected to be about equal to the 1928-1932 average, or about 10 per cent more than in 1934, says the current horticultural outlook report issued by the O.S.S. extension service. Nationally the commercial production in 1935 is expected to be around 15 per cent under the record crop of 1934. Drought and low prices east of the Rockies are causes given for this indicated reduction.

Kiwanis Discusses Possible Objectives

Clearing Up of the North End of Angel Street Is Considered

IRIS ARE AVAILABLE

Application To Be Made for Rose Festival Funds In Bank

Kiwanis meeting this week was a round table discussion of the different possible objectives that the club may sponsor during the coming year. Pres. Richey called attention to a local man walking on a foot that the Kiwanis purchased for him. On account of having this foot he is able to work and support his family. Without the foot he was obliged to go on crutches.

He did not mention the acquiring of the Community Building, though this was proposed and sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

One of the possible projects mentioned was the clearing up of the north end of Angel street.

Rev. Clarke reported having finished planting iris at the west city entrance and that the east entrance was in no condition for planting as it had been used for a rock storage. He thought that there were quite a number of iris plants that could be secured by private parties who could use them in some manner which would improve the appearance of their district.

The rose festival funds which were in the Bank of Beaverton when it was closed was discussed and a motion prevailed that Leonard Adams make application for any part of the money that can be obtained now, or in the future.

A movement to sponsor a Beaverton Homecoming day was mentioned and the meeting closed before this could be given adequate consideration. Dr. Talbert was appointed a committee of one to ascertain and report on at the next meeting how to secure SERA funds for use in projects looking to community beautification.

GROUND IS COVERED WITH SNOW MANTLE

For the first time in two years Beavertonians waked Tuesday morning of this week to look out upon a world covered with a mantle of snow. It soon melted but Thursday morning the experience was repeated.

As we go to press the snow is about two inches deep but much more than that has fallen. It melts fast but not quite as fast as it falls. The roads are clear in this section, mostly bare, the wheels having kept the snow melted on the pavement, but on the heights it is reported to be freezing and the going rather dangerous, though no serious accidents have been reported to date.

The local basketball squad will open the official season this week when they meet Forest Grove on the home floor.

After losing to Clatskanie on the home floor, they took a trip during the holidays to their rivals down the river and there took them into camp. So the series stands one all.

Grade School Notes

Although there wasn't much snow it was greatly enjoyed by the Grade school pupils, and much fun was had.

The little folks in the first grade room are very proud to be able to read and write all their numbers up to 100. They, also, had completed the reading of the Elson Primer, which makes the second book they have finished this year. An attractive snow-scene border makes one realize that the little pupils recognize winter.

In the Second grade the pupils are learning how to use the calendar. They know the names of the days of the week, and are now learning the names of the months, and how to spell them. A snow scene upon a background of blue, forms an added attraction.

The Third grade was very sorry to lose Ted Banford and Viola Harrison, who have moved away. Snow scenes seem to predominate as the subject chosen for the art classes. We find a winter scene, consisting of green snow-covered houses, that add to the attractiveness of this room.

Delightful paper snowflakes were made by the pupils of the Fourth Grade. The designs of the snowflakes are original work of the pupils; consequently, many various shapes and designs can be seen. In geography, the pupils are now making a map of Norway.

The Fifth and Sixth grades have twenty perfect days, which entitle them to a half-holiday.

A great presidential campaign is being held in the Sixth grade. Jack Stee and Joyce Kellington are the candidates for the office. As yet, they haven't announced their political party or upon what measures they desire to be elected. It seems as though Richard Lincoln's side is winning in the spelling contest. His side has a score of 23 while Hallie Jean Pace's side has a score of 11. Lela Banford has moved away, and many of her friends were sorry to lose her.

Last Friday night the Beaverton Grade school basketball team met its first defeat at the hands of Hillsboro. The score was 15-10 in favor of Hillsboro. This Friday, Beaverton will play Gaston at the High school gym at 3:30. Everyone is welcome and no admission fee is charged.

LADIES HONORED FOR YEARS OF SERVICE

The Sisterhood of the Church of Christ held their regular business meeting at the church Wednesday. Mrs. Rose Thompson had charge of the devotional service. Mrs. Geo. Hughson and Mrs. Rufus Williams were given special recognition and were presented with a gift in appreciation of their many years of faithful service in the church. Last week Mrs. M. C. Smith was similarly honored. Lunch was served at noon. Mrs. Earle Hall was in charge of the decorations. The afternoon was spent in quilting.

MASONS AND STARS TO HOLD SERVICES

O.S.C. ISSUES BULLETIN ON GASOLINE

Engineering research men at Oregon State college are inclined to discount the claims of "super power" or great economy for particular brands or grades of gasoline. Instead they say that careful and satisfactory carburetor adjustment in automobiles will affect both economy and performance much more than ordinary differences in gasolines.

These conclusions are set out in a highly technical research bulletin which deals with the interpretation of exhaust gas analysis. Four years ago the O. S. C. engineering experiment station issued a bulletin explaining a gas analysis method of adjusting carburetors, since when other results of such research have been published elsewhere.

The new bulletin seeks to coordinate and bring up-to-date these findings for the guidance of mechanical engineers. The publication is already in great demand among educational institutions and industrial concerns.

Unfortunately there is no single test that a consumer can apply to determine the quality of motor fuel, say the authors, S. H. Graf, G. W. Gleason and W. H. Paul. Physical and chemical properties that indicate motor fuel quality are volatility, purity and anti-knock value, but these are so related that improvement in one is usually at the expense of the other.

Gasoline "dopes" and substances designed to be added to the fuel proved under test to be of little or no value, the bulletin says. No substance has been reported that approaches the tetra-ethyl lead fluid in giving anti-knock properties at the same economy. There is a limit, however, to the extent of anti-knock characteristics that are of practical value.

Various commercial testing devices developed to apply the gas analysis method are described in the bulletin. Many fleet owners have adopted the method in advance of its general use in public garages. Savings averaging 27 per cent in the case of passenger cars and 22 per cent for trucks have been reported.

ORE. REPRESENTATIVE HAS DAUGHTER

The White House is a proud father's goal for the first Congressional baby, who was born Monday at Columbia Hospital to Representative and Mrs. James W. Mott of Oregon.

Although the baby is a girl, Representative Mott does not feel that will handicap her in becoming President. He predicts that in 1969—when she is 35 years old—she will become the first woman president of the United States.

"Not only does she belong in an age when women generally are attaining high places in government," said Representative Mott, "but she began life with a display of good judgment and initiative. See how she arrived in time for roll call, Monday."

Told of the incident at her press conference later in the day, the First Lady laughed.

"It is not improbable with the strides that women are making nowadays," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "that she may qualify for the Presidency by the time she reaches maturity."

Mrs. Mott, asked of her ambitions for her daughter, expressed the hope she would grow into a "normal American girl."

This is the Motts' third daughter.

COUNTY TURKEY GROWERS TO MEET

The turkey growers in the county will meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Forest Grove, January 23, 8:00 p.m., according to L. E. Francis, assistant county agent.

H. E. Cosby, poultry specialist from the Oregon State College, will be present at this meeting, and will discuss "Turkey Management Problems."

The incubating and brooding season is close at hand and it is time to start preparations for the 1935 season states Francis. The conditions in the past season were such that the efficient turkey grower was able to realize a small profit. In order to realize such a profit it is necessary to have a good understanding of all phases of the turkey situation.

Mr. Cosby has considerable new data as a result of experimental work that has been carried on with turkeys at the experiment station branches at Union and Herndon. This material will be of interest to the turkey grower.

Francis further comments that if the turkey growers are interested enough in this meeting, arrangements will be made for a series of monthly meetings to further discuss their problems.

TURNED OVER—GOING 60 MILES AN HOUR

The life of a stunt driver for the automobile companies is not an easy one, as you can readily gather from this picture. Lucky Teter, stunt driver extraordinary, considers this part of his everyday work, and so far has come out unhurt. Teter, strapped in the driver's seat of this Plymouth car, sent it hurtling along at 60 miles an hour and then turned it over in the manner shown. It is all part of his job which demonstrated the durability of the car.
