

MARY MARTHA SAYS "LIVE EACH DAY"

Dear Thinking-folk:
Today I bring to you from the Sanskrit a very lovely thing which means much to me, and therefore I wish to share it with you.
"Listen to the Exhortation of the Dawn!
Look to this Day!
For it is life, the very life of life. In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of your existence: The glory of action, The bliss of growth, The splendor of beauty:
For yesterday is but a dream, And tomorrow is only a vision; But today well-lived makes Every yesterday a dream of happiness, And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore, to this Day!"

How careless we are of the "today" which is given us. How lightly we regard its precious hours. Always we are going to do great things "tomorrow", but today we haven't the time, or a neighbor comes in with a little-tattle of gossip, or we waste the precious hours doing something which does neither us nor anyone else, any good, and then promise ourselves that tomorrow will be different. Tomorrow is never different unless you make today different. No task, no worthwhile work, no great achievement is ever attained tomorrow. It must be done today.
Each day of our lives is such a vital period to crowd it so full of trivial things. We entertain those for whom we care absolutely nothing, merely because we feel it is a social obligation. They are bored. So are we. Yet we waste the day or something custom decrees as necessary. We talk and talk and say nothing that had not far better have been left unsaid; we think it necessary to keep up a conversation, even though it leaves us no time to think. We rush madly here and there, chasing a phantom which we think may be happiness, and all the time that which we seek lies waiting within ourselves—waiting for us to discover it in the quiet of thought. We waste our days in idle efforts and never take time to seek out the verities of life. So much we must learn, O Mary-Martas, before we can reach an understanding of ourselves, or of those about us, or of life. We can never learn by rushing madly about seeking such knowledge in the midst of crowds. William Blake says:

"Great things are done when men and mountains meet; They are not done by jostling in the street."

No, I do not mean to hide yourself in a cave on the mountain side far from human life—although it might do you good for a few days—but I do mean that our days are wasted as far as real growth is concerned, unless during that day we find at least a few moments for quiet thought, for searching toward a deeper understanding of life, for realization of Beauty and of Peace.

Then in this so precious today, remember always to give some service to others, make and carry out some definite, constructive effort, see at least one thing of beauty, read at least one thought which will give you inspiration for further growth, cultivate one virtue, eradicate one fault. Is that too much to do? It takes no more time to read a good book than one which is trash; no more time to think a constructive thought than a destructive one; no more time for speaking a gentle word than a hateful one.

Today is yours to fill with life or to waste in futile, worthless actions, and you have the power to make it what you will. In "Attainment", by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, I find these words:

"Use all your hidden forces. Do not miss the purpose of this life and do not wait
For circumstance to mold or change your fate.
In your own self lies destiny."

Today—what magic the hours hold for our use. I give you joy today.
"MARY-MARTHA"

"Betty" Becomes A Family Friend

As Recipes Increase and Improve Introduce yourself to Betty and find yourself a family friend! Betty (last name sometimes Brown) is a regular standby in many households; it can be in yours!

Why Betty is the name given to that delectable combination featuring scalloped ingredients and a crumb topping is not known to your correspondent (if a gentle reader knows, let her send it in). But Betty—Bouncing Betty, Brown Betty, Betty Pudding or what-you-may-call-it—is a delicious dish by any name. Besides, it is especially useful for utilizing leftovers, a little character-trait never to be ignored.

Betty is really a sort of sister to Scallop, for it usually consists of chopped or cut main ingredients combined with liquid or sauce and crumbs, and baked for a goodly length of time. Betty may be made into a main dish as well as dessert and there are numerous variations of the dish. In fact, some of the new variations maintain only a distant relationship. In other words, "you'd hardly know our Betty"—but you'll like her. Some of these variations are given; try inventing some yourself.

Crumbs for use in making Betty may be varied; instead of the traditional buttered dry bread crumbs, zwieback, graham or soda cracker crumbs, or corn flakes may be used. Gingerbread crumbs are also delicious.

Some of the Bettys—especially Apple—are much improved by the addition of sauces, poured over the finished pudding.

Two or more fruits are sometimes combined in making Betty and a suitable combination of several vegetables are recommended for the main course combinations. Be clever with the spice in making fruit Betty—cinnamon may be plentiful, and nutmeg often helps.

Apple Betty

- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 2 tbsps. butter
- 3 cups sliced apples (3 to 4)
- ¼ cup corn syrup
- 2 tbsps. water
- ½ tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. nutmeg
- Grated rind of ½ lemon
- 1½ tbsps. lemon juice
- Put one-third of the bread in the bottom of a buttered baking dish;

cover with half the apples, syrup, water, spices, grated lemon rind, and lemon juice. Cover with one-third of the crumbs, then the remainder of the fruit, water, and flavorings. Mix the rest of the crumbs with the butter (melted), sprinkle them over the top of the pudding. Cover. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for ½ hour; remove the cover; continue baking until apples are tender and crumbs are brown. Serve warm with sauce or cream.

Date-Apple Betty

- ½ to 1 cup sugar
- ¼ tsp. cinnamon
- ¼ tsp. nutmeg
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 2 cups stale bread crumbs
- ¼ cup water
- 2 cups sliced apples
- 1 cup dates, chopped
- 3 tbsps. lemon juice
- 2 tbsps. grated lemon rind
- 2 tbsps. butter
- Mix sugar, spices and salt. Put one-third layer of crumbs in greased baking dish, then half the apple and dates. Scatter over half of the sugar mixture and repeat. Mix water, lemon juice and rind; pour over. Put on remaining crumbs; dot with butter. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 15 minutes and uncover. Continue baking 25 minutes longer. Serves 8.

Rice and Eggplant Betty

- 1 cup rice
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 onion
- 1 pint tomato juice
- 1 qt. boiling water
- 1 large eggplant
- 6 tbsps. butter
- Buttered crumbs

Wash rice thoroughly, boil and drain. Fry onion slices in 2 tablespoons butter. Cut eggplant in ½ inch slices. Sprinkle with salt, let stand ten minutes. Drain. Peel and cut into thin wedge-shaped pieces. Remove onion from the pan. Fry the eggplant in the same pan with 4 tablespoons butter. Combine all ingredients in a buttered oven dish. Salt to taste. Add tomato juice. Cover with buttered crumbs and heat in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes. 6 servings.

Banana Betty

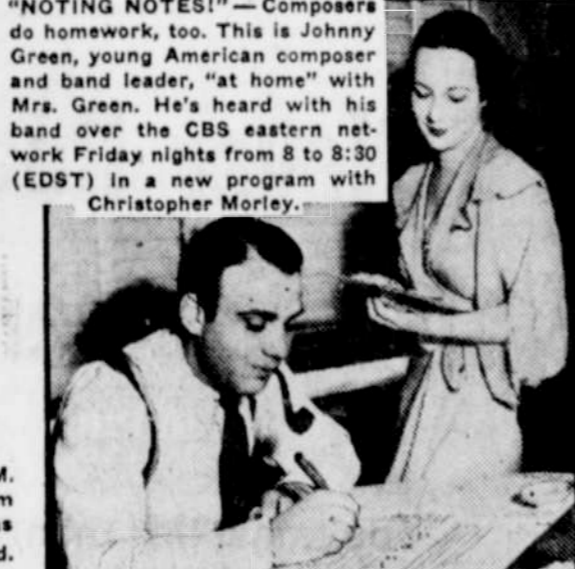

- 3 cups bread
- 3 tbsps. butter
- 2 apples
- 3 bananas
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ tsp. cinnamon

Cut bread into dice and saute with butter until brown. Peel apples and bananas, cut very thin. Dredge with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Cover bottom of baking dish with the bread, then add fruit and remaining bread in alternate layers, saving a few of the crumbs to put on top. Bake one half hour, covered, and the last fifteen minutes uncovered, in a moderate oven (375° F.). Serves 6.

Reasons Given For Building School Now

only $15,000 as we have on hand $5,000 cash to apply within the next few weeks to this indebtedness. By the beginning of the school year our indebtedness will stand $7,000 for the high school and $8,000 for the grade school. Our financial standing is an excellent one for by 1938, at our present yearly rate of reducing our indebtedness we shall be out of debt. Our school tax this past year was 15 mills, which was among the very lowest in Washington Co., and this coming year if our budget is voted upon favorably as it stands it will again be 15 mills, although we have included in this year's budget $3,200 for grounds for a new location for a grade school. This amount was not present in any of our previous budgets.

We came to the end of this school year with a $3,500 cash balance, while many other schools in Oregon are on a warrant basis and have been on a warrant basis for three or four years back. The financial picture in our district is a most encouraging one and it is not now a time to conjure up a pessimistic picture to keep us from stepping forward. If the taxpayer can only see the advantage to the district of accepting this opportunity which presents itself now, we shall surely be upon a safe and firm financial basis, for our building needs will have been cared for ten years or longer ahead, and in time we can be completely out of debt and have the lowest school tax of any district in this county that maintains a high school.

The school board feels that we may put on this building program, and not increase the school tax of the district appreciably, if at all. In 1929 our gymnasium was built with a $30,000 bond issue, and the statement was then made that it could be done by proper management without increasing the then prevailing school millage tax. By studying the records it is found that that very thing was done. The debt now has been largely retired and the millage has been reduced rather than increased.

This is what is proposed at the present time. We shall seek a $25,000 bond issue at a rate of interest as low as 3% if possible. Our present old indebtedness of $15,000 will be paid up by 1938. We then by continuing our present rate of paying $5,000 yearly upon our new $25,000 bond issue will be able to pay it off in five years without changing the present amount paid out, and the millage should therefore remain the same. If our school tax is a hardship, it will at least not be any harder, but only will be continued for a few years longer.

There is one very important feature that should not be lost sight of in the present discussion. Our new grade school building will be a fireproof structure, and that in itself to many is worth the expenditure. Our present two story frame building has been standing better than 20 years and any frame building that old is more or less of a fire hazard on account of defective electric wiring. Our building has been kept in good repair, but nevertheless it must be considered as more dangerous than a building of cement or brick. Just one fire with the loss of the lives of only a very few children, or the severe burning of only a very few children would make us feel that a policy of refusing the construction of a fire proof building was a short sighted one.

To recapitulate, our reasons for the construction of a new grade school building now are:

1. We save $20,500 in a cash grant. In what way can we make it easier?
2. We can dispose of bonds at 3½ to 4% now rather than 5½ to 6% in 1938.
3. We can purchase all building materials much cheaper now than later.
4. We give men out of jobs a chance to make a living for themselves and their families this coming winter.
5. We can have better protection for our children from both fire and traffic hazards.
6. We can do this without increasing taxes beyond the present rate.
