Council Hears Report Of Fire Department

Matter of Purchasing New Truck for Water Dep't. Is Laid On Table

TAKE OATH OF OFFICE

Council Endorses Efforts of Property Owners On End of Creek

At the regular meeting of the City Council Monday evening, bids were opened for a new truck for the water department, but the matter of purchasing one was laid on the table until the next meeting.

Mr. Amacher presented his monthly and annual reports and a motion was passed commending him highly for his efficient work.

Fire Chief Williams presented his annual report. The Beaverton Volunteer Fire Department answered twenty-one alarms during 1935. The total value of property at risk by fire during the year was $61,550.00 with a fire loss of only $120.50. This speaks well for the efficiency of the local department. The council was well pleased with the report and passed a motion to accept and file the report and commending the fire department for its efficient service.

The following men took the oath of office for the offices indicated: Mayor, A. E. Wilson; Recorder-Treasurer, Homer L. Wilson; Councilmen, Guy Carr, H. M. Barnes, Robert Holland, and A. H. Rossi.

RENEWAL OF INSURANCE ON THE VOL- UNTEER FIREMEN AND THE SURETY BOND FOR THE RECORDER-TREASURER WERE APPROVED

The council passed a resolution endorsing the efforts of property owners along the west end of Beaverton creek to get a WPA project to clean out the lower end of the creek.

ABOUT FIFTY ATTEND FIRST AID CLASS

About fifty people attended the first aid class conducted by Dr. R. S. Welsh at the high school Wednesday evening, January 7.

Classes are being held each Wednesday night between the hours of eight and nine. Those who are interested may purchase Red Cross books through the high school library and after ending the course, those who satisfactorily pass the Red Cross examination will qualify to receive the Red Cross certificate and the badge given by the Red Cross for this accomplishment.

Anyone interested, man or woman, may attend the course, and need not take the examination unless they desire to do so.

HAYES SPEAKS ON VALUE OF INSPECTION

Deputy State Fire Marshal Jack Hayes was the principal speaker at this week's Kiwanis meeting. He spoke on the value of inspection in fire prevention.

Dr. R. S. Welsh's first aid class came in for considerable commendation. These classes are free to any who wish to attend. They are held Wednesday evenings.

The officers of the club for 1936 were installed by Lieutenant Governor Cy Engelbach.

The next meeting of the club will be a pot luck supper to be given by the ladies of Kiwanis. Motion pictures and cards will follow the supper.

CITY GOVERNMENTS ARE BEING STUDIED

Detailed information regarding administration of local government in Oregon and the financial practices of cities and counties will be assembled in a state-wide survey to be made by the bureau of municipal research of the University of Oregon, announces V. B. Stanbery, executive secretary of the State Planning Board, and by Herman Kehrl, director of the university bureau. Beaverton and Washington county will be included in the survey.

The project, which has the approval of the state planning board, has been allotted $23,082 from the WPA. Mr. Kehrl will have charge of the work, which calls for employment of 49 statisticians-accountants, five typists and secretaries, one attorney and two draftsmen. In addition to supervision by Mr. Kehrl and other staff members of the bureau, three non-relief field accountants will be employed.

Workers on the project will be sent to every county in the state to compile information on municipal debt, current receipts and disbursements, administrative organization, services rendered and personnel employed. Local government records will be examined, officials will be interviewed, and the data assembled on a uniform basis so that all municipalities can be compared.

Information already compiled in a number of counties under an S.E.R.A. project carried on under the direction of the university bureau a year ago will be included. It is estimated that 332.5 man-months of labor will be required to complete the work, and that it will require seven months.

The data will be made available to municipal officers, members of city and county planning boards and others interested by the university bureau and the state planning board. It is announced.

BOYS GO SOUTH FOR CHRISTMAS VACATION

During their vacation at Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill., Kenneth Taylor and Bob Denney went into the transportation business to the extent that each of the boys purchased a car and transported students to their homes for the vacation period. Kenneth Taylor took a group of six students to Maryland and Virginia. His first stop was at Baltimore, from there to Lynchburg, and then to Norfolk, Virginia, where he spent the vacation with a southern family in their spacious home.

Bob Denney took a similar group south, going as far south as Orlando, Florida, where he and a fellow student camped during the vacation. He wrote about the mild weather there and the tropical fruits, birds and palms. On the trip back he gathered his passengers at various points: one on the west coast of Florida on the Gulf of Mexico, from there to Atlanta, Ga. Columbia, S. C., Statesville, N.C., Lexington, Ky., and Indianapolis, Ind.

The thermometer registered below zero when the boys left Wheaton, and Bob reported that the temperature did not change much until they got into Georgia, where it was 15° above.

The boys are expecting in this way to meet, in part, their college expenses.

Rebekah Lodge Holds Installation Of Officers

Mrs. Myrtle Hardman Is Installed As Noble Grand For Term

P. N. G. IS GIVEN PIN

Refreshments Are Served After Meeting To About 45

At the regular meeting of the Beaverton Rebekah lodge Tuesday evening, Marjorie Lewis, District Deputy President, and Andrew Denholm, Deputy Marshall, assisted by Past Noble Grands, installed the elected and appointed officers of the lodge, into their respective chairs.

The elected officers were: Myrtle Hardman, Noble Grand; Adeline Frost, Vice Grand; Sarah Chamberlain, Secretary; and Edna Sheets, Treasurer. Appointed officers: Mildred Osfield, Warden; Anna May Rogers, Conductor; Elizabeth Myers, Chaplain; Fern Haines, Musician; Marjorie Lewis, R.S.N.G.; Alice Wheeler, L.S.N.G.; Florence Drorbaugh, R.S.V.G.; Cora Foster, L.S.V.G.; Hazel Miller, Inside Guardian; Bertha Wilson, Outside Guardian.

Andrew Denholm was elected trustee for three years. Robert Chamberlain was re-elected captain of the degree team, and Thorborg Benson was elected assistant captain.

The president of the Past Noble Grands' Club, Anna May Rogers, presented the retiring Noble Grand, Katherine Desinger, with a Past Noble Grands' pin, on behalf of the lodge.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room to about 45 members, with Rose Stevens and her committee in charge.

CITY PROBLEMS TO BE MEETING TOPICS

City officials and interested citizens will meet in six Oregon cities during January to confer on such problems as issuance of beer licenses, stream pollution, municipal accounting, effects of measures to be voted at the special election, and others. It was announced here today by Herman Kehrl, executive secretary of the League of Oregon Cities, which with the University of Oregon bureau of municipal research, will sponsor the sessions.

City officials from all municipalities within driving distance of each of the meeting places will be invited to attend. It was stated, the first of the regional sessions will be held in Medford, January 14. Others will be Roseburg, January 17; Coquille, January 21; Corvallis, January 23; Salem, January 28, and Hillsboro, January 29.

Jack Young, formerly of Beaverton and now of Oakland, Calif., where he graduated from high school last spring, writes to former schoolmates here that he and another boy have been appearing on amateur radio programs similar to the Major Bowes programs. They have been on the air four times and on several theater and club programs. He states that it is lots of fun and they have won numerous prizes.

PUBLIC LECTURES TO BE GIVEN AT PACIFIC

A public lecture entitled "Mathematics, the Universal Language", by Dr. Henry Ferris Price, Pacific University professor of mathematics will be given January 16 or the Pacific university campus at Forest Grove as the first of a series of monthly lectures by faculty members. These lectures are open to the public without admission charge as an educational service to the community and Washington county as a whole.

Lectures of the series last year proved very popular with a large attendance of students and townspeople. Their topics included "The Balkan Situation", "Optical Chemistry", "The Relation of Philosophy to Other Fields of Knowledge", "The Use and Meaning of Words in Advertising", "Light Waves" and "The Values of Classical Culture". As varied a program has been promised by the faculty committee this year. The subjects, however technical the material may be, will be presented in an interesting and popular form.

The first lecture, January 16, will be at 8:00 p.m. in room six of Marsh hall, the main administration building on the Pacific university campus.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE GRADES RELATED

Very good students in high school are likely to continue to be good students in university or college. Only in cases where there is a complete reorganization of study habits and general attitude towards scholastic work do poor students in preparatory school blossom out into really good college students.

This is one of the conclusions reached after an extended study of high school grades in relation to success in the University of Oregon made by Dr. Howard Taylor, head of the department of psychology and C. L. Constance, assistant registrar.

High school students, however, need not think they need to be unusually brilliant to have a good chance of graduating once they enter the university, the bulletin shows. However, they should be able, by a combination of well-organized study habits and definite scholarly interest, to earn some high grades in high school. If they have earned several "A's", it indicates they have learned how to study, and their chances of success in college are accordingly greater.

EXTENSION CLASSES SERVE MANY PEOPLE

The campus of the Oregon state system of higher education last term was extended to five other centers, which served 189 people, through the general extension division. Bernard Hinshaw, staff member of the division, has announced. In addition evening classes were also held in Eugene at the University of Oregon, and all were well attended.

Cities which were served with evening extension classes included Baker, Klamath Falls, Pendleton, Salem and Woodburn. The largest registration was in Salem where 61 students were enrolled in six courses. Students were drawn from all occupations and were of all ages from the college level on, a study of the work shows. The roster included clerks, housewives, nurses, bookkeepers, a radio engineer and many others.

CLUB LEADERS WILL HAVE STATE CONF.

The second annual state conference for 4-H club local leaders will be held at the Oregon State college, Corvallis, January 9, 10, and 11, according to L. E. Francis, assistant county agent. The purpose of this conference is to enable local leaders to get together and discuss among themselves some of the problems which are of common interest and also to receive instructions from the state leaders in conducting their club programs. During the three days of the conference the leaders will be housed in the men's and women's dormitories and will be served meals in the Memorial Union Tea Room.

The conference opens at 1:30 p.m., January 9, at which time the group will be addressed by Geo. W. Peavy, president of the Oregon State college; W. A. Schoenfeld, Director; and F. L. Ballard, Vice Director of Extension Service. At 1:30 p.m. the men's group will discuss policies and plans for agricultural projects in 1936. The women's group will discuss clothing projects.

Friday, January 10, from 8:30 to 12:00, the men's group will discuss livestock and crops judging and fairs. The women's group will discuss cooking projects. From 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., the men's group will consider problems of organization, programs, and record books, and the women's group will study room improvement and home improvement projects. Dr. O. R. Chambers of the Department of Psychology, Oregon State College, will discuss youth problems with the group at 3:00 p.m.

Saturday, January 11, from 8:30 to 11:00 a.m., the men's group will study problems in connection with miscellaneous projects, and the women will discuss demonstrations and judging. State school Superintendent, C. A. Howard, will address the entire group at 11:00 a.m. The conference closes at noon Saturday.

Mrs. Gertrude Skow Sanford, extension specialist in Rural Social organization, will conduct recreation programs from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

MAKING INSPECTION OF BUILDINGS HERE

In cooperation with Fire Chief Harvey T. Williams State Fire Marshal Hugh H. Earle has detailed Deputy Jack A. Hayes to make an inspection of all business houses and public buildings in Beaverton.

Chief Williams and Deputy Hayes will make joint inspections with the two-fold benefits to Beaverton in mind, namely: the removal of fire hazards and a first hand knowledge of each occupancy which will be very valuable to the fire chief in fighting fires.

This work started Monday, January 6, 1936.

MISS IDA FELSHER ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

Miss Ida Felsher entertained a group of nine friends at her home, Monday, in celebration of her twelfth birthday. She had decorated the birthday table herself in a color scheme of pink and blue. Streamers in these colors led from the specially decorated centerpiece which held the cake, to the corners of the table and were fastened there with large bows. The afternoon was spent in playing games.

Many Implicated In Theft And 'Fence' Ring

Confession of James Oswald Causes The Jailing of Several Suspects

MUCH LOOT IS FOUND

Rooming Houses Are Named Where He Says He Sold Stolen Articles

Confessions made by James Oswald, who was captured last week by the owner of Cobb's Market at West Slope, have resulted in the jailing of twelve suspects, with more arrests expected soon.

The well organized theft and fence ring are implicated in prowls in service stations, apartment houses, and homes in Portland, as well as the numerous places entered in Beaverton.

Russell Schnitz, alias Leslie, was arrested early Saturday and jailed on a burglary charge.

Kenjiro Akagi, operator of a public garage in Portland, was jailed on a charge of being in possession of stolen goods. Tires taken December 19 from the Dillon Service station in Portland were said to be found in the garage.

James McDonald, an ex-convict, was arrested as a fugitive from Washington county.

Jacob Hart was jailed for being in possession of stolen goods, and his son Bill was jailed as a material witness. At the Hart home was found a large assortment of loot, including among other things: tapestries, 200 neckties, silverware, radios, tires, and automobile oil.

Bill Hart was visited in jail by Floyd D. Penni, who was arrested on a charge of burglary. He admitted prowling the home of C. Grier, whose radio was found at the Hart residence.

Ray Flynn, who had been arrested earlier as a narcotic suspect, was found to be implicated in the theft ring, and was rebooked on a vagrancy charge.

At the West Hotel on N.W. 6th Ave. and Davis St., five women suspected of buying stolen property, were booked on vagrancy counts. In his confession Oswald named several rooming houses where he said he had sold loot.

Grade School Notes

After a three-week vacation the Beaverton grade school opened with the measles situation well in hand. Only a very few are out with the measles.

Last month the grade school enrollment was increased by four new members.

During the past month only 19 students were late and 210 students were neither absent nor tardy. The per cent of daily attendance was ninety-six.

Eight visitors were welcomed by the school.

Monday, the members of the Fire Squad received their pins.

Two of the basketball players have been out this week. Bobbie Shively is absent from school with the measles, and Ivan Knepper has injured his arm.

The Seventh Grade was sorry to hear that Richard Haag has moved back to Portland, and Virginia McGuire is leaving for McMinnville soon.

The Fifth grade is proud of its new January border. Soon these students are going to make some health posters pertaining to milk.

Charlotte Halpen, a member of the Fifth grade is leaving for Nebraska.

The Fourth grade is proud of its attractive snow-covered castle of the Middle Ages. This castle and its snow-covered grounds take up the entire reading table, and certainly presents a lovely picture with its many lighted windows.

Laurene Mayfield of the Fourth Grade has moved to Multnomah where she will attend school.

The Third grade is intensely interested in the multiplication table, which they are just beginning to study. In Language class they are writing some amusing and interesting animal stories.

Arlotta Boge of the First grade delighted her classmates with the reading of an animal story book which she brought to class.

The Eighth grade was glad to welcome a new student, Nola May Smith.

Clark Junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Junior of Raleigh, had the misfortune to run against his automobile in the dark Thursday evening of last week and break two of his front teeth.

Moody Bible Institute Meets Communism With Gospel Message

Four busses were dedicated by the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago to the service of carrying the Gospel to the people and to fight subversive influences. Dr. Will H. Houghton, president of the Institute, is seen on the rostrum, surrounded by a multitude of students, administrative workers and friends.

CHICAGO—Convinced that communism is the most destructive single influence in the world today, the Moody Bible Institute, a world leader among organizations of its kind, has embarked on a campaign to combat subversive teachings in this area.

The purpose was announced by Dr. Will H. Houghton, president of the Institute, at the dedication of four busses to be used for scores of open-air meetings in the heart of the thickly populated areas where communistic influences are strongest.

Founded by D. L. Moody nearly a half-century ago, the Institute has employed horse-drawn or motor conveyances through its entire history to carry the gospel to every part of the metropolitan area, and these busses replace the four that were no longer safe to use. Students of the Institute carry on the program of song, testimony, prayer, and preaching, and these many open-air services through the summer months are attended by thousands from among the drifting multitudes.

A large crowd composed of faculty and administrative workers, students, graduates, and numerous friends, stood with uncovered heads while the thirty-minute service of dedication was put on the air over the Institute station WMBI. Thus will Moody Bible Institute make a contribution toward counteracting the subversive propaganda of communism and atheism among the classes most susceptible to godless influences.
