High School Notes

Don McIntosh
Student Body Reporter

Class meetings were held Monday, January 20, at the high school for the purpose of electing officers for the coming semester.

The class officers are:
Freshmen class—President, Billy Bishop; Vice-president, Helen Larson; Secretary, LaRay Martyn; Treasurer, Betty Ruth Sutton; and Reporter, Harriet Fox.

Sophomore class—President, Gene Brown; Vice-president, Byrle Sipe; Secretary-Treasurer, Lucille Van Horn; and Reporter, Jack Grauer.
Junior class—President, Amie Thynge; Vice-president, Ed Jannsen; Secretary, Marian Boyson; Treasurer, Jay Gibson; Reporter, Marian Metzler.

To arouse pep for the high school annual, short student body meetings are being held in the assembly hall each day. The first one was held Monday with Don McIntosh and Ed McElroy as speakers. It is hoped that 250 annuals can be sold by the end of the first semester.

The second year Latin class is making projects on the life of early Rome. They include compositions, construction of boats, bridges, implements of war, and even dolls.

The Torch Honor Society met January 16 to discuss hobbies. Several members told of their own hobbies, and others of interest to them.

Friday night (tonight) Beaverton's basketball team plays Hillsboro at Hillsboro.

The 1935-1936 semester has been extended one week and mid-year examinations will not be taken until January 31. This extension was necessary to regain the week lost while the school was quarantined.

The high school "Hummer" is becoming an active unit in the life of the students. Under the supervision of Miss Barnes with Ross Thompson as editor, it has been accepted as a member of the National Scholastic Press Association, the Oregon High School Press association, and the Quill and Scroll, an honorary journalism society.

The paper is printed monthly at the Beaverton Review printing office.

Since Markey Sayre was Oregon State winner in the national essay contest on "Time", other Beaverton students have high hopes of competing favorably in the essay contest sponsored by the Oregon Historical society.

The subject this year is "The Exploration of the Columbia River". The History and English classes are co-operating in the sponsoring of this with extra credit to participants.

The Annual staff for the 1936 Annual has been chosen by the Senior advisors and are beginning work immediately.

An Annual boat race has been chosen as the type of contest for class competition.

Knox Versatile Out-of-Door Man

Business Man, Editor, Party Worker Keeps Fit as He Works Hard.

In Frank Knox, the Chicago publisher, Illinois Republicans, who have unanimously endorsed him for the Republican nomination for President, have offered to the country the most versatile man in public life since Theodore Roosevelt. Knox has had an outstanding business and professional career and has never held public office. He is recognized as one of the best business men in the newspaper business. As an editor, his editorials have revealed an intelligent, alert and vigorous personality which have made him a public figure. In the metropolitan press of today such a combination of business acumen and editorial ability in one man is uncommon.

While engaged in making a success of his newspapers, Knox has achieved distinction in many other directions. He made an enviable record as a volunteer soldier in two wars. He has been in politics for thirty years, serving as precinct worker, state chairman, national convention floor leader for a Presidential candidate and has stumped two-thirds of the Union for national, congressional and state candidates.

On business, financial, economic, social welfare and political issues, Knox has always been on the liberal and progressive side of the argument. His public record of battles against monopoly, for social justice, for the betterment of farm and labor conditions and against un-American, coercive policies, fully attest this fact. In all his endeavors he has manifested vision and vigor as well as a keen sense of moral and spiritual values.

Knox plays as he works and it is in his out-of-door life that he has shown a versatility even greater than that of Theodore Roosevelt. Knox has not only been a hunter and a fisherman, but has paddled his own canoe through most of the rapids of the upper Great Lakes. He has driven his own

You Can't Stay Where You Are

You turn through a kodak album and smile at old-style clothes. Skirts cluttering the ankles . . . hats perched high up on hair . . . wasp waists . . . awkward sleeves—odd how your taste has changed! Yet day by day your taste changes in all you wear and do. You don't like the same books, enjoy the same movies, choose the same underwear, prefer the same soap you did a short while ago. You are so used to the better, you wonder why you liked the old. Advertisements make you know the better as soon as it's proved to be better. They tell of good things accepted as good taste in the best homes. The hosiery, glass-curtains, lighting fixtures other moderns use; why their use is preferred. Advertisements influence so many around you, sooner or later you'll feel the change. Even if you never read an advertisement, you'll use in time some of the conveniences which advertisements urge you to use to-day. Advertisements form a tide of taste that sweeps you forward; you can't stand still. Since you'll enjoy what they'll advertise anyway, why not begin enjoying it now?
